National League Pennant Race of '46

By FREDERICK G. LIEB

CAPTURING their fourth pennant in five years, the St. Louis Cardinals won one of the greatest races in National League history and the first major league marathon to require a playoff. The inspired Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders for the greater part of the campaign, finished the regular 1946 season tied with St. Louis, both teams having 96 victories and 58 defeats. However, in an unprecedented playoff series, the Redbirds swept two straight from Brooklyn in what was to have been a two-out-of-three series. The Cardinals won in St. Louis, 4 to 2, October 1, and in Brooklyn, 8 to 4, October 3, finishing with 98 victories against 58 defeats and a percentage of .638. Brooklyn wound up with 96 victories, 60 defeats, and a percentage of .615.

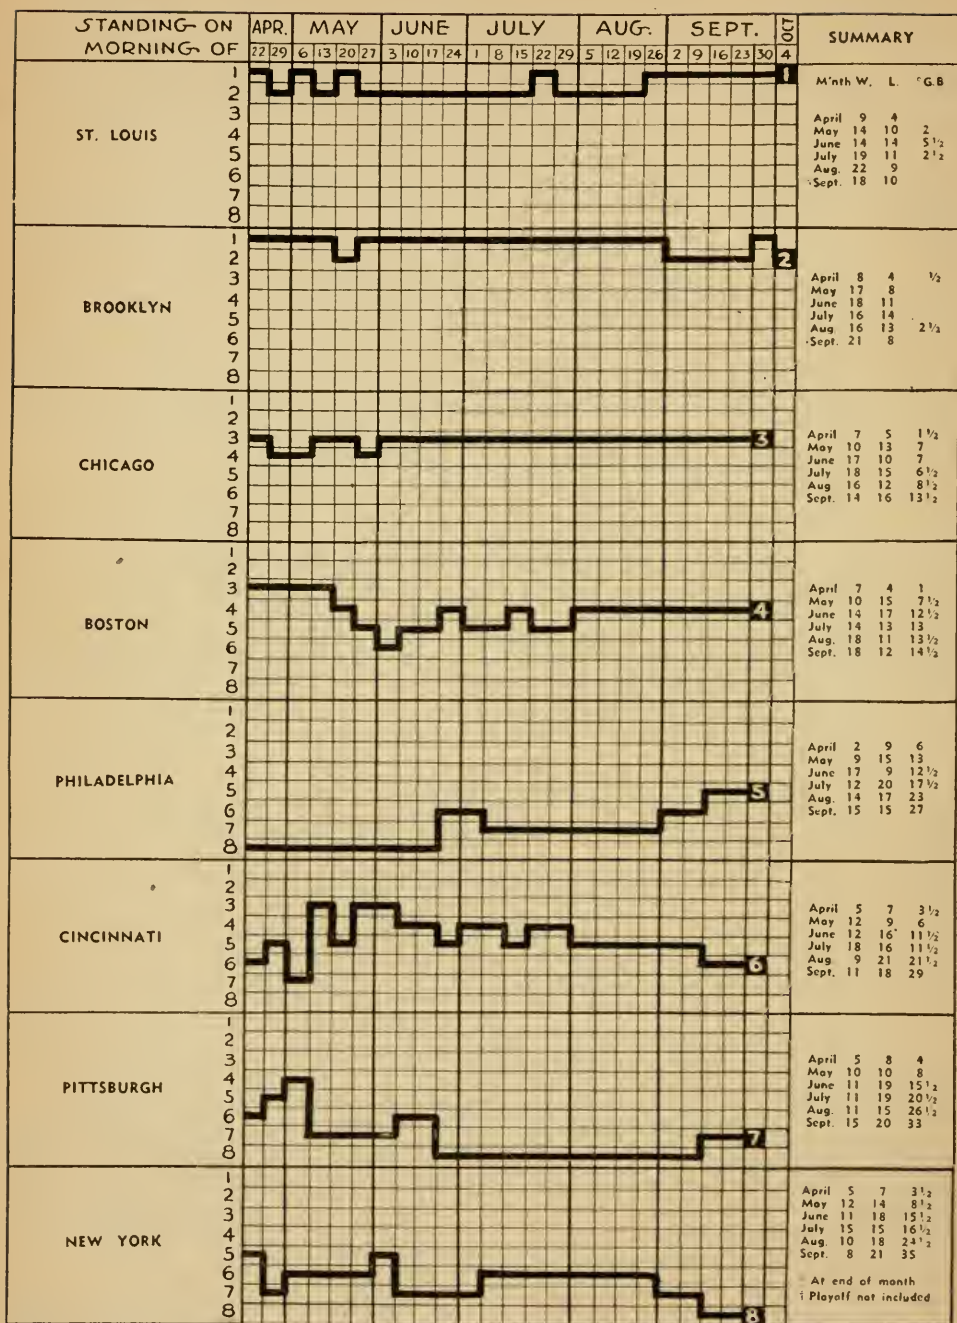

The championship was the ninth for St. Louis since Sam Breadon's illustrious Redbirds started wearing gold-dipped tail feathers in 1926, and the sixth Cardinal flag won by a two-game margin. In 1926, 1928, 1930, 1934 and 1942, St. Louis also finished exactly two games ahead of the second-place club. As in 1946, the '42 runner-up was Brooklyn.

Despite the closeness of the race, the Cardinals well deserved the honors, having taken series from every club in the league, decisively defeating the second-place Dodgers, 16 games to eight, and the third-place Cubs, 14 to eight. Oddly, for the second successive year the Cardinals fared considerably better against first-division opponents than against teams in the lower group. Against Brooklyn, Chicago and Boston, St. Louis won 45 games and lost 23, for a percentage of .662; against Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh and New York, the Redbird showing was 53 victories, 35 defeats, and a percentage of .602. In fact, the Cardinals had to win their last six games from New York to get a scant 12 to 10 decision over the tailend Giants.

The Cardinals' postwar flag victory, however, was no surprise, as the Redbirds were an overwhelming favorite in the early spring, and all except four writers in a national A.P. poll picked St. Louis. However, the new manager, Eddie Dyer, was beset with many difficulties, his worst break coming on May 23, when Pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and Infielder Lou Klein jumped to the Mexican League. Lanier at the time had six victories and no defeats. Dyer experienced other pitching difficulties: Red Barrett, a 23-game winner of 1945, never could get going; Johnny Beazley, 21-victory freshman ace of 1942, came back from the war in poor physical condition, and George Munger, another valuable pre-service pitcher, was not discharged until August 20. Dyer also had considerable outfield trouble, as Terry Moore returned from the Army with bad knees. Harry Walker, another ex-serviceman, couldn't hit consistently until the World's Series and Buster Adams slumped to a feeble .185. Breadon also sold or traded such valuable players as Walker Cooper, Johnny Hopp, Ray Sanders, Emil Verban, Danny Litwhiler and Johnny Wyrostek, most of them before the season began.

However, the slender lefthander, Howie Pollet, was a tower of strength; Murry Dickson, the former relief chucker, proved a valuable starter, and, despite a 15-15 record, Harry Brecheen brought in vital games when they were needed. Stan Musial, who was switched to first base June 7, and Enos Slaughter played brilliantly. Red Schoendienst, the 1945 left fielder, was converted into a capable second baseman, and a 20-year-old ex-GI, Joe Garagiola, became first-string backstop soon after he reported on May 20.

Except for first-week skirmishes, the Cardinals and Dodgers were the only clubs to occupy first place. Following opening day, Chicago, New York, Boston and Pittsburgh were tied for the lead; by April 17 the top rungers were reduced to Chicago and New York; and the Cubs led alone on April 18 and 19. By April 20, St. Louis and Brooklyn muscled into a first-place tie with Chicago. The Cubs dropped out, and the Dodgers and Cards were deadlocked on April 21, 22, 23 (the day of Ed Head's no-hitter) and 24.

WEEKLY GRAPH OF 1946
NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT RACE

On April 25, Brooklyn alone led for the first time, when the Pirates stopped an early Cardinal seven-game winning streak. The Dodgers set the pace until April 30, when the Cards backed into the lead for a day, being idle, as the Cubs nosed out the Dodgers, 2 to 1, in 11 innings. On May 1, the Dodgers tied again, defeating Chicago as St. Louis was rained out. Durocher's Dandies regained the No. 1 position on May 2, but on May 5, the Redbirds tied once more, breaking even with the Braves as Brooklyn lost two to the Pirates.

This deadlock for the lead lasted until May 7, when the Cardinals took undisputed possession, winning their first night game from Boston as the Dodgers were idle. By May 12, the Bums broke out in front again, winning one game as St. Louis was dropping two, but the Cardinals bounced back by 11 points on May 15, when Pollet shaded young Joe Hatten, 1 to 0, in a battle of southpaws. Brooklyn was on top again on May 17 and the Cards on May 19. Then came another three-day tie, May 21, 22 and 23, with Brooklyn leading again on May 24. Right after Lanier jumped on May 23, the Cardinals lost three games out of four, and for the next six weeks the Dodgers put quite a gap between themselves and their Missouri rivals.

The Flatbush Bums reached their zenith, July 2, when they enjoyed a seven and one-half game lead, but the Dodgers began to fade on their third western trip after the All-Star holiday, and by the time they came to St. Louis, July 14, their lead had been clipped to four and one-half games. The Cards gave Durocher a crushing blow when they swept a four-game series, reducing the lead to a slim half game, and on July 18, St. Louis had moved in front by a half game. But the Dodgers snapped back gamely; they tied for first place for the next five days; and by July 24 had the position to themselves again.

Though Brooklyn's lead frequently dropped as low as one percentage point, the proud Bums held it this time until August 22, when the Redbirds tied them by upsetting the Phillies twice while Johnny Vander Meer of the Reds blanked the Dodgers. This tie lasted four days, when the Dyermen jumped to the fore on August 26. The bitter rivals tied again on the following day, but the Cards seized first place, August 28, and held on grimly, although losing their series with the Dodgers—in Brooklyn. In the deciding contest of this three-game set, September 14, Durocher sprang a surprise by starting Ralph Branca, 20-year-old righthander. Although originally planning to have Branca pitch to only one batter and then retire in favor of a lefthander, The Lip allowed the youngster to remain, and Branca came through with a classic three-hit, 5 to 0 shutout. This reduced the Cardinal lead to one-half game, and the indomitable Dodgers kept plugging away until on September 27, the last Friday of the season, when they forced their way into a share of the front perch.

The tie then extended to the finish of the regular season, with the schedule proving a "natural." The Cardinals were winding up with the third-place Cubs, and the Dodgers with the fourth-place Braves, who still had a chance to finish third. St. Louis and Brooklyn both won their Saturday games of September 28, and then dropped their Sunday tilts on the last day of the season. Mort Cooper, the ex-Cardinal star righthander, came to the rescue of his former St. Louis mates on closing day, pitching Boston to a 4 to 0 shut-out over the Bums, as Lefthander Johnny Schmitz of the Cubs defeated the Cardinals, 8 to 3. The playoff series then became necessary.

Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, turned in a magnificent job in piloting his team into a tie over the regular season. He had a team of veterans and youngsters—many of the latter unknown names in the spring—and, by skillful manipulation of his pitching, he maneuvered his staff into some brilliantly-executed victories. His club was especially strong on its home grounds, winning 56 and losing 22 at Ebbets Field for a percentage of .718. The Cardinals, curiously enough, had the same record at home as abroad, with 49 victories and 29 defeats.

The 36-year-old Dixie Walker hit .319, and was second to Slaughter in driving in runs. Shortstop Pee Wee Reese, Eddie Stanky and Augie Galan played inspired ball, and Durocher might have won but for the injuries to Harold (Pete) Reiser, who was out with an injured shoulder in the spring and then broke an ankle in the final week of the season. Of Pete's 34 stolen bases, seven were thefts of home.

The Cubs, 1945 champions, had to fight to the last day to win third place from the vastly-improved Braves, and held the position by one game. Charlie Grimm's chances of repeating were wrecked by wholesale injuries, outstanding victims including Stan Hack, Andy Pafko, Don Johnson, Catchers Mickey Livingston and Clyde McCullough, and one of the year's outstanding rookies, Eddie Waitkus. The Cubs also were handicapped by the failure of Hank Borowy to pitch up to his 1945 form and the continued slump of the club's former slugger, Bill Nicholson.

Under their new manager, Billy Southworth, who shifted from the Cardinals, the Braves reached the first division for the first time since 1934. The Boston club also won 14 more games than the sixth place outfit of 1945. Thanks to the acquisition of players purchased from St. Louis, particularly Johnny Hopp, the Braves finished second in club batting, while two returned service pitchers, Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn, gave Southworth one of the league's most formidable pitching staffs.

The Phillies, under the management of Ben Chapman, also made a surprising advance, finishing fifth, their best position since 1932. The club engineered several advantageous deals and had the good fortune to come up with a slugging 21-year-old outfielder, Del Ennis, who won THE SPORTING NEWS rookie-of-the-year award. The veteran pitcher, Schoolboy Rowe, back from service, did a magnificent job until injured in the latter part of the season. Chapman would have fared even better if such returned servicemen as Pitchers Tommy Hughes, Hugh Mulcahy and Frank Hoerst had come closer to emulating their prewar chucking.

With a team which ranked a poor last in club batting, Cincinnati's sixth-place finish was not unexpected. The best Red hitter was Grady Hatton, rookie third baseman, who batted .271, until an injury cut him down in August. Though handicapped with an ailing arm, Bucky Walters pitched well in spots, while Vander Meer, Joe Beggs and Ewell Blackwell, a promising newcomer, also performed creditably on the mound.

After finishing second in 1944 and fourth in 1945, the Pirates skidded to seventh, the lowest Pittsburgh position since 1917. The ignoble finish cost Frankie Frisch his managerial job. The club also was seventh in team batting and was blanked 20 times, six times more than any other club in the league, while Pirate morale was shaken by dissension and labor union agitation.

The Giants proved another of the league's big disappointments of the year, flopping to the cellar. Injuries to the expensive ex-Cardinals, Catcher Walker Cooper and First Baseman Johnny Mize, helped to aggravate the Giant plight. The club's none too strong pitching staff also was further weakened when Harry Feldman and Ace Adams jumped to the Mexican League just ten days after the National League season opened.

HISTORY OF NATIONAL LOOP CLUB NICKNAMES

Most National League clubs have had a variety of nicknames during the circuit's 71-year history. The St. Louis entry, originally known as the Browns in 1876 and later Maroons and then again Browns, first was tagged Cardinals in 1899 on changing to cardinal trimmings on their uniforms. Brooklyn's team became the Dodgers in the early 1890s although during later periods also being called Superbas, Infants and Robins.

The Chicago club, nicknamed White Stockings when the league began, successively became Colts, Orphans and then—around the turn of the century—the Cubs. Known as the Doves, Redcaps and Bean-eaters before becoming the Braves in 1912, Boston adopted the monicker Bees in 1936, but returned to Braves in 1941. Philadelphia has been the Phillies since 1883, with Blue Jays being an alternate appellation since 1944. Cincinnati has always been the Reds, Pittsburgh became the Pirates in 1891 and New York the Giants around 1885.

American League Pennant Race of '46

By FREDERICK G. LIEB

AFTER the Boston team ran second to great Yankee clubs in 1938, 1939, 1941 and 1942, lost its outstanding stars to the services during the war and then regained them in 1946, the Red Sox finally rewarded their wealthy owner, Thomas Austin Yawkey, by winning the 1946 American League pennant—the club's first championship since Ed Barrow gained a World War I flag in 1918. The pennant came in the fourteenth year of Yawkey's ownership after he had spent nearly $2,000,000 for new players in his efforts to develop a champion.

Boston was expected to be a strong 1946 pennant contender, along with the Yankees, pre-season favorites, and the Tigers, 1945 world's champions, but the Red Sox first flag in 28 years came with almost ridiculous ease. Following early-season winning streaks of 15 and 12 games, respectively, the Red Sox soon romped far out in front, and after July 15 Joe Cronin's lead never was less than ten games. In early September, the club had a margin of 16½ games, which was reduced as the Red Sox stumbled through a good part of September and experienced a six-game losing streak just before they clinched the pennant. They eventually finished 12 games ahead of second-place Detroit and 17 in front of New York.

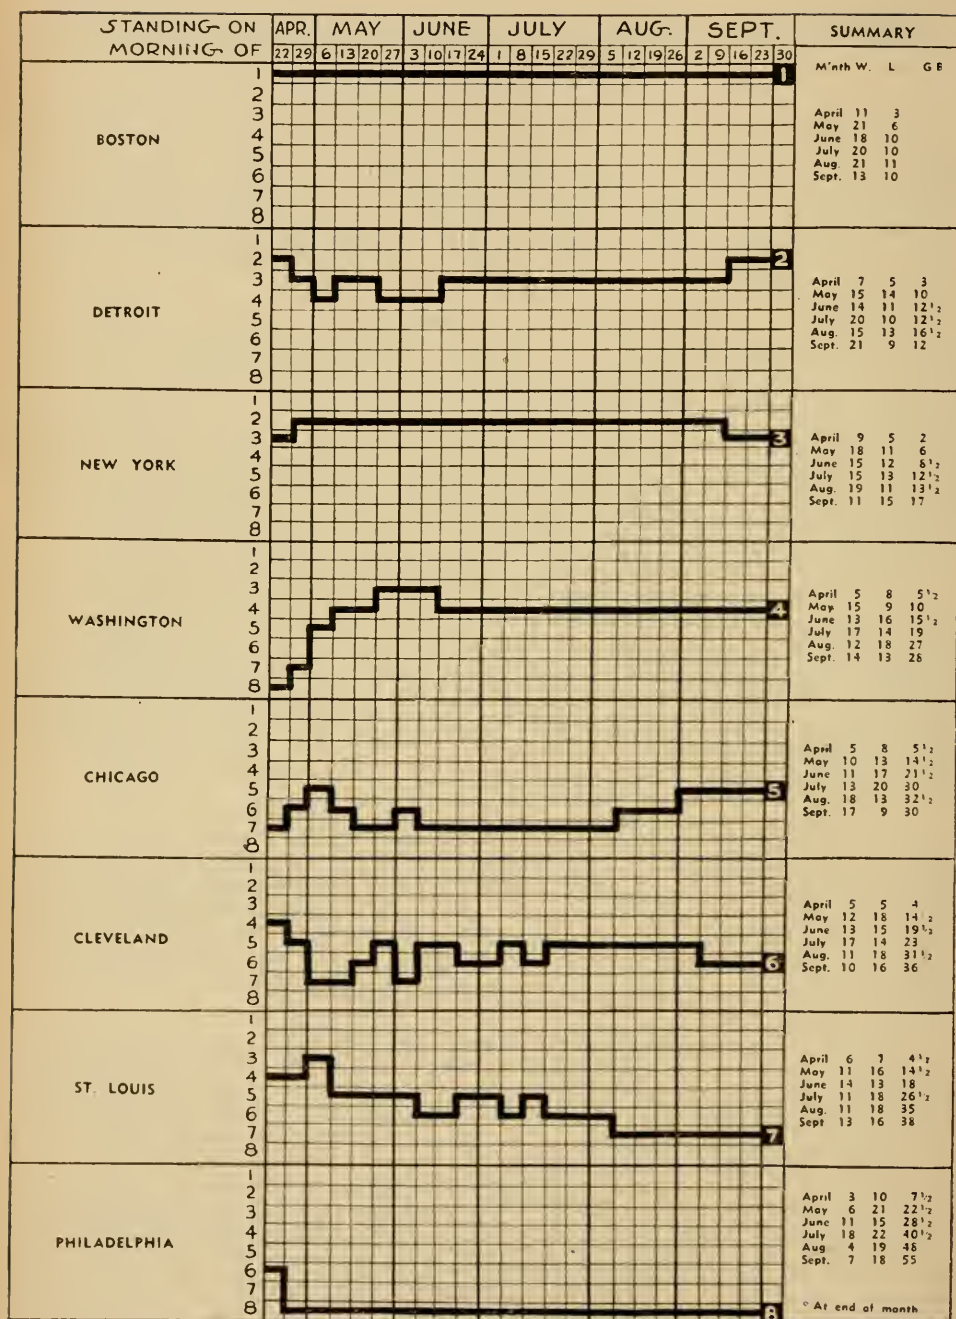

Until the Red Sox late-season slump, it looked as though the 1946 Boston team might set all kinds of records. The Red Sox seemed headed for a new percentage high and games-won mark for a Boston American League club, but they eventually wound up with 104 victories, and a percentage of .675, one game and 16 points under that of Jake Stahl's 1912 Red Sox champions. For months, the club was unbeatable at Fenway Park, but, although finishing at home, lost its chance for a record by its late-season slump. The Red Sox won 60 games at home and lost 17, for a percentage of .779, against the 1932 Yankees' record of 62 victories and 15 defeats and an .805 percentage at the Stadium.

Even so, the Boston club set something of a record by preventing any western club from winning a game at Fenway Park until June 12, when Bob Feller of the Indians scored a 7 to 2 triumph. It was the last contest of the second western invasion of Boston, and checked a 12-game winning streak. In fact, in the first three eastern trips made by Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and St. Louis, the western clubs won only three games in Fenway Park, two going to Feller. The Red Sox also had the brilliant record of playing through the season without the loss of a doubleheader. They won 14 and divided 13.

Boston's long-delayed pennant victory was well deserved, as Cronin's new champions easily won the year's series from every club in the league, defeating the second-place Tigers, 15 to seven, and the third-place Yankees, 14 to eight. Though the Red Sox overwhelmed Detroit for the greater part of the season, the Tigers managed to escape complete ignominy by sweeping both final two-game series in Boston and in Detroit.

With the exception of three days in April, the Red Sox either led or were tied for first place all through the season, and from April 28 on they were always on top. Following the April 16 opening games, Boston, New York, Detroit and Cleveland were in a four-way tie. By the next day the leading teams were reduced to the Red Sox and Indians, and these clubs remained deadlocked on April 18 and 19.

On April 20, when the Red Sox nosed out the Athletics, 2 to 1, and the Tigers blanked the Indians, Cronin's Millionaires finished the day holding the lead all by themselves for the first time. They ruled the roost until April 23, when they again had to share the position with the Yankees, with Detroit a half game behind.

WEEKLY GRAPH OF 1946
AMERICAN LEAGUE PENNANT RACE

The Yankees handed the Red Sox a painful drubbing, April 24, at Fenway Park, 12 to 5, which put New York out in front and dropped Boston to third, the lowest Red Sox spot of the season. But, on April 25, the Boston Millionaires snapped back, reversing that 12 to 5 shellacking against New York. This put the Tigers in first place for their only day on top all season, with the Red Sox and Yankees tied for second. The Browns defeated the Tigers on April 26 and Boston and New York both won to move up to a first-place tie. The Yankees won on April 27, as the Red Sox were rained out, giving the New Yorkers undisputed possession. The Yankees' lead didn't last long, for the Red Sox won a doubleheader from the Athletics on April 28 and Washington defeated the Yankees, Boston soaring to the top and, from then on, the prides of New England always could look down on the rest of the league.

The April 25 victory over New York started the club on a 15-game winning streak, which ended on May 10 at Yankee Stadium, when the Red Sox won, 5 to 4. By that time the Boston lead was five and one-half games, and from there on the Yanks never could come close.

Despite Boston's big lead, the Red Sox ran into unexpected difficulties in early September which delayed their pennant clinching. Beating the Yanks twice on Labor Day, September 3, the Red Sox expanded their lead to 15½ games and, when it mounted to 16½ two days later, Boston felt that the final mathematical assurance of the flag was at hand. However, the Red Sox ran into a snag over the week-end of September 6-7-8, losing one to Washington and two to the lowly Athletics.

The business of clinching the pennant then had to be delayed until the club's last western trip, which started in Detroit, September 10. Tom Yawkey, owner of the club and traveling with the team, had champagne on ice for the victory celebration, but the Tigers overwhelmed the Red Sox, 9 to 1 and 7 to 3, and took second place from the Yankees. The Hubites then had to move their champagne to Cleveland, where Bob Feller turned them back, 4 to 1, September 12, for Boston's sixth straight defeat. The flag finally was officially nailed to the mast in a 1 to 0 victory at Cleveland on Friday, September 13, as Tex Hughson decisioned Red Embree in in a game of only five hits, Ted Williams bringing in the pennant-clinching score by hitting a first-inning inside-the-park home run to left field against the famed Boudreau shift.

Even though the Red Sox never were really pressed, Skipper Joe Cronin did a superb managerial job, and became the first pilot ever to win pennants in more than one American League city. Joe had previously won in Washington in 1933. In 1946 he had had the benefit of the hardest hitting and best scoring club in the majors. Though Williams slumped off in the latter part of the season, the league's most valuable player was a tower of strength, driving in 123 runs and scoring 142. Shortstop Johnny Pesky, Second Baseman Bobby Doerr and Center Fielder Dom DiMaggio all had great years, and the club made a tenstrike in obtaining First Baseman Rudy York from the Tigers in a deal for Shortstop Eddie Lake.

However, Boston's 1946 pennant was made possible only by the best pitching the Red Sox had known since the old Bill Carrigan pre-World War I champions. Through the return of Tex Hughson, Mickey Harris and Joe Dobson from service, and with Dave (Boo) Ferriss improving even on his sensational freshman pitching of 1945, Cronin found himself in command of a new Big Four.

Had Detroit played all season as it did in September, there might have been a different story, as the Tigers closed strongly. Steve O'Neill had season-long effective pitching from Hal Newhouser, Dizzy Trout, Virgil Trucks, Al Benton and Fred Hutchinson, but light hitting for first two-thirds of the race somewhat nullified the fine work of the boxmen. The club eventually found its punch and finished third in club batting and second in scoring. Hank Greenberg finished with a big spurt, and his late season home run harvest enabled the Tigers to wrest the runner-up position from the Yankees in the last fortnight of the campaign. Injuries to Hoot Evers, the new center fielder, and Eddie Mayo, the 1945 inspirational second baseman, and the failure of Dick Wakefield to hit up to expectations were obstacles in O'Neill's path.

The Yankees, picked by most baseball men and sports writers to regain their pre-Pearl Harbor heights, had tough going on the field, even though the club played to more than 2,000,000 fans at Yankee Stadium. While virtually all of Cronin's war aces came back from service as good as ever, such Yankee service stars as Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich, Joe Gordon, Phil Rizzuto and Charlie Keller all fell below their former standards. The big exception was Spud Chandler, who pitched as brilliantly as before he went into the Army. The Yankees were further held back by managerial changes, Joe McCarthy, the man of many pennants, resigning May 24, because of impaired health. Marse Joe was succeeded by Bill Dickey, popular veteran catcher, who resigned September 12, just as his club was slipping into third place. Johnny Neun, the former coach, wound up the season as pilot.

Washington, the 1945 runner-up, had to be content with fourth place, finishing two games on the wrong side of the .500 mark. The club never was a contender, but held persistently to the fourth notch most of the season. While two returned service outfielders, Stan Spence and Buddy Lewis, hit satisfactorily, Shortstop Cecil Travis, whose feet were frozen in the European war theater, had difficulty in regaining his former batting stride. Manager Ossie Bluege also encountered unexpected pitching weakness, with Roger Wolf, a 20-game winner in 1945, slumping to five wins in 1946. Bobo Newson braced the staff after he was picked up from the Athletics.

Ted Lyons, who relieved Jimmy Dykes as manager of the White Sox, May 25, at a time when the club was well imbedded in seventh place, turned in a capable job, lifting the club to the top rung of the second division. The popular Ted actually had a shot at the first division as late as the last day of the season, when his club lost to the Browns while the Senators were defeating the Red Sox.

The Indians looked like a winner when the brilliant Bob Feller was on the mound, but the Clevelanders, a poor last in team batting, couldn't score enough runs to win for the other pitchers. With only the Cincinnati Reds and Athletics scoring fewer runs than Cleveland among the 16 big league teams, it is no mystery why the final resting place of Lou Boudreau's club was sixth.

After a pennant winner in 1944 and a third-place contender in 1945, the Browns collapsed to seventh in the first postwar year. President Richard Muckerman was so disappointed that he accepted Luke Sewell's resignation as manager, August 31. Zack Taylor, battery coach, was Sewell's temporary successor. Slumps and injuries affected key pitchers, Nelson Potter, Bob Muncrief and Denny Galehouse, and the team's play was further held back by lack of attack.

The Athletics settled promptly into the cellar in the early spring. While the A's ranked fifth in club batting, they scored the fewest runs and were shut out the most times, 20. They were outclassed as badly at the bottom of the league as the Red Sox outclassed their nearest rivals at the top.

A. L. ASSUMED MAJOR STATUS IN 1901

Ban Johnson set the stage for a second major circuit in 1900 when he reorganized his Western League and changed its official title to American League. By taking in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington and Baltimore in 1901 to go with Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland and Milwaukee, Johnson brought the circuit recognition as a major league that season. In 1902 St. Louis took over the Milwaukee franchise, and the next year New York replaced Baltimore to round out the present lineup of clubs.

Boston, originally nicknamed the Somersets and later Puritans and Plymouth Rocks, became the Red Sox in 1907. The appellation Tigers for Detroit's club was a carryover from the city's minor league representative of the late 1890s. The New York Americans, first known as Highlanders, became the Yankees in 1913. Washington fandom voted for Nationals as the nickname for the club representing the nation's capital, but Senators has been a more popular monicker among scribes and fans. The Chicago American League entry has always been the White Stockings or White Sox, following earlier use of the name by the city's N. L. team. Cleveland was tagged the Blues, Naps and Molly Maguires at intervals up to 1915, then Indians was adopted. The St. Louis and Philadelphia clubs have been the Browns and Athletics, respectively, since entering the league, although the Philadelphia team in its early years also was called White Elephants.

Bucky Harris surveying Yankee Stadium from dugout prior to '47 season.

The Boy Who Bucked the Current

CY KRITZER

THE die was cast one early October evening in 1946. Only Stanley Harris, Jr., on duty with the U. S. Army, was missing from the dinner table. "I have been offered the position as manager of the Yankees," said Stanley, Sr. "I am asking you, what should I do?"

"Take it, dad," cried Sally and Dickie in chorus. Mrs. Bucky Harris, the former Elizabeth Sutherland, daughter of the late West Virginia senator, smiled through misty eyes and nodded approval.

That, perhaps, was the only decision in the life of Stanley Raymond (Bucky) Harris that he didn't make entirely on his own.

If there is any notable in baseball who came up the hard way, strictly on his own resources and ambition, it is the 1947 manager of the Yankees. No one ever achieved more with less physical equipment than Bucky Harris.

Only a game fish swims upstream, and that is why the name Bucky fits the new pilot of the Bronx Bombers. For he has bucked the current most of the way until August, 1946, when Larry MacPhail, seeking an executive assistant, rescued Harris from the minor leagues.

It was a natural sequence that when MacPhail couldn't find a pilot who measured up to the rebuilding and the inspirational job ahead with the Yankees, he should turn to Bucky. For Harris has been a leader who could inspire others through a career that now finds him managing his fifth major league team.

Bucky made his first important decision at the age of 12. He quit Sunday School, but it wasn't easy. He had been sneaking out on Sundays so he could watch his home-town team, Hamtown, play in the Pittston (Pa.) Suburban League. Finally, the superintendent got wise to his tactics and barred the doorway. Lithe and resourceful Bucky plummeted through the surprised gentleman's outstretched legs, never to return.

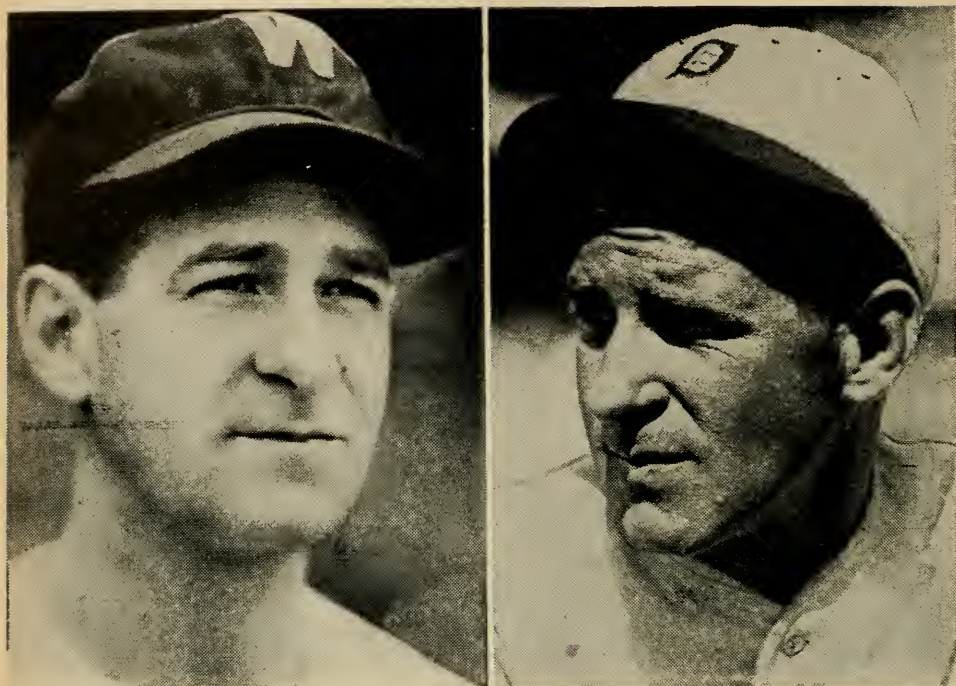

His second big decision was at the age of 13. He decided to quit school, for he found that boys who worked had more time for baseball, more time to practice. He told a white lie to a sympathetic justice of the peace to secure working papers, and Billy Wertz, superintendent at the Butler Colliery, gave him his first job as office boy. At 80 cents a day. By the time he reached 17 he was a weighmaster, and that is an important job around a mine colliery.

Of Port Jervis, N. Y., where he was born November 8, 1896, Bucky has no memory, for he was only 6 when Tom Harris moved his wife and two boys, Merle and Stanley, to Hughestown, or Hamtown, Pa., as it was then known. With his first earnings Bucky joined the Pittston YMCA. To develop his legs and lungs he ran the two and one-half miles to the "Y" almost every evening after work. He learned to play basketball there. It is doubtful that he would have ever become a ball player if he hadn't starred in the old professional cage game.

Bucky was picked at the age of 17 as the sixth man on the Pittston basketball team in the Penn State League. The night Scranton came to town, Bill Clark, a regular guard, was taken ill. Bucky got his first chance as a regular, and Clark never regained his job. He drew the great lefthanded hook-shot artist, Jimmy Kane, a big and burly forward who towered over his 140-pound guard. But Bucky was like flypaper and throttled Jimmy to two goals.

"I can still hear the bedlam in the Pittston armory when I got away from Kane to lay in the first basket," reminisced Bucky.

Hugh Jennings, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who lived in nearby Moosic, was one who heard it and marvelled at young Harris' bulldog tactics.

"If he could only play baseball, a lad with that kind of spirit would go far," said Jennings to his companion, Tom McLaughlin, an owner of the Hamtown baseball club.

"He's a good infielder," said Tom. Then he related an incident that caught Jennings' fancy.

Hamtown was playing at Browntown, and it was 1 to 0 in the eighth, Hamtown trailing. Harris singled and got around to third with two out. In those days the baseball bags were made of potato sacks. As Bucky slid into third he saw that the bag was not anchored. So he decided to steal home . . . He lit out with third base in his right hand.

Natsie Loftus, the Browntown catcher, called for a pitchout and was waiting for the runner when crash!—the lights went out for Natsie. Bucky had slammed him over the head with third base. A near riot ensued. The umpire called Bucky out, but the game wasn't resumed.

"I'd like to meet that fellow," said Jennings, after hearing the story.

Next spring (1916) Harris went to Texas with the Tigers and was farmed out to Muskegon. He couldn't hit and was released. Chagrined by his failure, reluctant to return home and admit it, he earned his room-and-meal money by taking on the local pool sharks at the Muskegon Billiard Emporium.

Harris was ready to return to Pittston when the Muskegon second baseman was released, and Bucky was rehired. Again he lasted only two weeks until he drew a pink slip. In vain, he wired Jennings. The Tigers were on the road.

The following spring Harris was going well as a shortstop for Art

Devlin's Norfolk, Va., team when the Piedmont League folded because of the war. Bucky returned to another job around the mines and resumed playing semi-pro ball at Lansford, Pa.

Returning home one Saturday evening, he learned there had been a fight that afternoon in Wilkes-Barre and that the Reading second baseman had been suspended. Bucky called Manager Hooks Wiltse and asked for the job.

"Anyone know a ball player in Pittston by the name of Harris?" asked Hooks.

"Yeah, I do," spoke up Bill Donahue, a pitcher. "Played with him in the Northern League. He's small, but he can field and run those bases. He's a little on the lazy side but a fair hitter."

Wiltse wired Merle Marris at Pittston the next day. "Here's another chance, Kid," said Merle, handing his younger brother the wire, later in the afternoon. It said to report next day at Binghamton. Merle had been married only a week and was settling a new home. His pro days were behind him.

Bucky could feel Wiltse's eyes poring him over from head to foot as he registered at the hotel in Binghamton. Hooks was talking to a group of players, finally walked over to the rookie.

"Is there another ball player in Pittston by the name of Harris?" inquired the Reading pilot.

"Yes," said Bucky, his chin dropping, "my brother, Merle."

"Well," said Hooks, "you can stick around for a few days—until we can get someone else."

Bucky never felt lower. His 145 pounds, five feet eight inches hadn't impressed the former Giants' star.

"What did Hooks have to say?" asked Donahue, introducing himself as Merle's friend. Bucky told him.

"Aw, to hell with Hooks," replied Donahue. "You go out there and show him that you're going to stick."

Donahue introduced the young, curly-haired rookie as his friend to the other players. He put new courage and confidence in Bucky. That afternoon Bucky walked and singled in four trips, batting eighth.

He got two for four the next day, and three for five in the series opener at Elmira. On the fourth day, Wiltse produced a piece of hotel stationery and signed Harris to a contract.

Bucky never looked at the contract—just signed it, as he has signed so many others without debating about a salary figure. It was for $125 a month.

Bucky didn't miss an inning with Reading until the New York State League folded late in the 1917 campaign. He showed little power but plenty of competitive fire and hustle. "I think that boy Harris," said Wiltse to Donahue late in the season, "would rather get hit by a pitch than hit one."

That fall Bucky came home assured that he no longer had to look for a berth on a ball club. John McGraw, a farm dynasty in himself in those days, maneuvered the appointment of Wiltse as manager of the Buffalo Bisons, and it was with the Herd that Harris signed for 1918.

Harris batted a mere .241 in his first season with the Bisons, 1918, but he was coming fast at the end of the campaign. By 1919 he was 22 years old and weighed 154 pounds. Up to that point Bucky doubts whether he ever had any serious ambitions of making the big leagues. He was living in a dream world. Playing ball was enough. Then a trip to the Polo Grounds changed his outlook.

McGraw had a gentleman's agreement with Wiltse that the Giants would have first bid on any Buffalo player of big-league prospects. Hooks arranged one day to send Benny Bengough and Harris to the Polo Grounds for McGraw's appraisal.

"We were both scared to death," recalls Bucky. "We were too awed to do much talking. In those days you had to look the part of a giant to get much notice in the Polo Grounds. Benny and I each had three swings in batting practice and spent the rest of the workout shagging balls. McGraw paid no attention to us."

The trip left an indelible imprint on both players. That spring Bucky had reported in top condition after a winter basketball campaign in the Penn State League. He had won out over three rivals for second base, and, paired with Shortstop Herb Armstrong, Harris was becoming a master of the double play. He also became an expert on the cutoff play and one of the league's most daring runners.

The 1919 season was Bucky's deliverance as a ballplayer. He arrived. He also got a new philosophy towards umpires. One day he saw a teammate, a giant of a man, take a sneak punch at an umpire and escape without penalty. In his impressionable mind umpires as a class didn't rate higher than a straw boss in a mine mule barn.

One day when Hooks Wiltse, angered by a decision, was taking the worst of a fistic set-to in Binghamton with an umpire, Bucky came quickly to his pilot's aid. He snorted in disdain when he saw that none of his mates were wont to rescue their manager.

The Buffalo players had remained aloof because they felt Hooks should finish what he started. But not the fiery Harris. The club honor was at stake. He rushed and popped the umpire with a right under the ear. It happened near the end of the first game of a doubleheader.

Bucky's heart beat tremulously as he came to bat for the first time in the second game. The umpire whose last name was Wagner towered over him. "What if he should crack down on my skull with that mask?" thought the young infielder. "He would be justified, if he did."

"I understand," said Wagner, "you were the fellow who threw that punch in the fight I had with Wiltse."

"I dunno about that fight," hedged Bucky, "that was in the last game . . . This is another game."

The older players on the Buffalo club raised hell with Bucky. "An umpire," said one of them, "is the best friend a ballplayer can have . . . the quicker you find that out, the farther you will go . . . Never fight umpires, save it for the opposition, and you'll go farther in baseball."

Bucky never forgot that sage advice. He rates highly with men in blue.

The 1919 International League campaign wasn't far along until Joe Engel, a Washington scout, began sounding the praises of Harris. He had seen him in action late the season previously with the Baltimore Drydocks. Griff wired Wiltse he was coming to Buffalo.

Bucky had suffered a fractured finger on his throwing hand only a few days before and was playing under a handicap. A splint was placed on the broken finger, which was taped to the fourth and fifth fingers. Bucky took no batting or fielding practice. Wiltse said to Griff, "Too bad you had to pick out today to scout Harris."

It was Aug. 12, 1919. Along in the right-field part of the grandstand, the Washington owner saw Bucky play the greatest game of his career. He wasn't looking for stars but at that time for winning ballplayers. He couldn't afford to pay the price for stars . . . Bucky connected for six hits, walked twice and made the thin crowd cheer themselves hoarse . . . Washington bought Harris for $25,000 and Infielder Hal Janvrin.

Griff must have had misgivings for that Winter he traded Mike Menoskey, Harry Harper and Eddie Foster for Maurice Shannon, a second baseman, and Outfielder Bobby Roth.

"What impressed me was Harris' determination," said Griff. "It stuck out all over him. And his hustle. I liked his all-around ability. He could run the bases, he kept third basemen in with his fakes and he hit to all fields."

After his first season with Washington, Griff put a clause in Harris' $7500 contract that he couldn't play basketball. The Old Fox forgot to insert that clause in the Fall of 1923 and Bucky, after a bad session at Pimlico, accepted an offer to play basketball with Glens Falls. Two nights before New Year's he received a gorgeous shiner, and he had a date for New Year's Eve in Washington!

Eddie Eynon, secretary of the Senators, spotted him in the lobby of the Wardman Park hotel, and relayed the word to Griff. Three days later, Harris received a call from Washington, ordering him to take the earliest train possible. "Pack up and go to Florida with Mike Martin," ordered Griff. "rest and get ready for a tough season."

While the baseball world speculated whether Eddie Collins or a half dozen others would manage Washington, Griffith named his 27-year-old infielder to the job in late January.

Washington went hysterical with joy over its first pennant, but only the Armistice celebration of six years before could compare with the blowoff that followed the winning of the world's championship over McGraw's Giants.

If ever a World Series belonged on one man, said Clark Griffith, the 1924 Series belonged to Bucky Harris. Three times he brought the Senators from behind to square the Series. He was the dazzling star of the fifth, sixth and seventh games after Washington's great shortstop, Roger Peckinpaugh, was disabled in the third contest by a strained ligament.

Twice Walter Johnson had been beaten by the terrific Giant attack. Bucky went with his ace all the way in each contest despite heavy criticism, and then he brought him back in the ninth inning to win the seventh game. Strong men cried as Johnson strode to the mound and strangers slapped one another on the back.

Bucky's home run and his single with two men aboard had put the Senators in the running and forced a 3-3 deadlock for Earl McNeely's "pebble" hit to send Muddy Ruel home with the winning run in the twelfth. McGraw publicly praised Harris for his superb strategy, his hitting and gorgeous defensive play. He set fielding records in the Series.

Proving that their 1924 triumph was not wholly inspirational, the Senators galloped home to the pennant in 1925. The Giants were the better ball club in the 1924 classic, but the Senators came out on top. The Senators were a stronger club than the Pirates in the 1925 Series, but lost in seven games. Peckinpaugh, voted the most valuable player in the '25 campaign, was the goat of the Series, setting a record for errors with nine.

Ban Johnson, president of the American League, sent Bucky a bitter telegram after the loss of the world title. The young manager replied: "We went down with our best."

Bucky suffered a leg injury and a broken finger shortly before the World Series and was in poor shape. He couldn't grip a bat, and his hitting fell off badly. But he wouldn't listen to Trainer Mike Martin that he take a rest.

The furious pace at which he drove himself began to take its toll in 1927, and his popularity waned with the Capital City fans in 1928. Despite the fact that his four Washington teams had never been out of the first division, a change was in order. The tears streamed down old Griff's face as he tried to make his decision known to Bucky.

Bucky and his wife, whom he married in 1926, were settled in Washington. Harris determined to keep his family there when he accepted Frank Navin's bid to manage the Detroit Tigers.

The Tigers, shy on resources, were buried in the second division. It was a development and rebuilding job ahead. After five seasons Bucky had the makings of a pennant-winner. Only a catcher was needed. By this time he had tired of the job. Navin pleaded with him to stay, but Tom Yawkey painted a rosier future with the Boston Red Sox.

Once more Bucky threw all his energy and ambition into managing, and the baseball world hailed his feat of bringing the Red Sox home in fourth place in 1934, the first time the club had been out of the second division since winning the flag in 1918.

Yawkey and Harris went duck hunting. "I got a chance to buy Joe Cronin," said Tom.

"Buy him by all means," said Bucky.

Cronin had led Washington to a pennant the previous year. Griff asked $250,000 for his son-in-law but stipulated that Yawkey must name him manager.

Harris again advised Yawkey that Cronin could do him more good as a player-manager than he could.

Once more Bucky was out of a job. Griff signed him again and it was back to Washington for eight more seasons. He resigned at the end of the 1942 season. During the Winter, smooth-talking Bill Cox, who had made a stake in the lumber business, bought control of the Phillies and signed Bucky to manage the team.

In the blackest hours of his baseball life, when he was fired as manager of the Phillies, no one was ever so loyally defended by press and public as Bucky Harris. Commissioner K. M. Landis summoned Harris to his chambers to air charges that Cox had bet on ball games and greeted Bucky:

"It seems a microbe has come into our midst, Bucky . . . sit down and tell me about it."

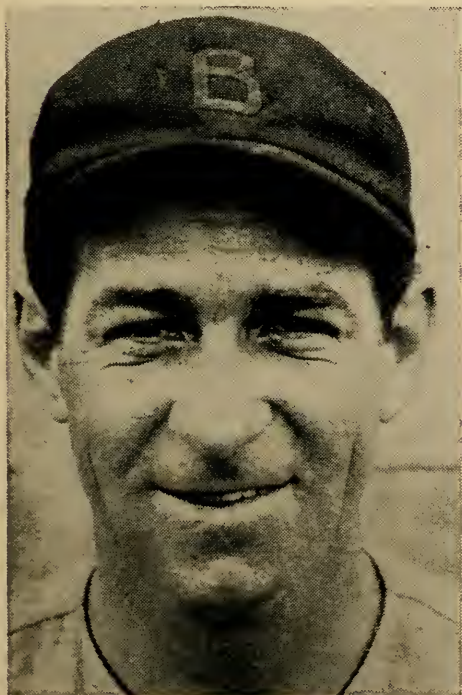

The Phillies went on strike the day that news of Harris' ousting reached the club.

Cox was banished from baseball on Harris' testimony and that of others connected with the club.

A major-league salary brought Bucky to the Buffalo Bisons in 1944 and he brought them home fourth, only to lose in the playoffs. He hung up his spikes, he thought for the last time, after the ill-fated 1945 season to become a full-time front-office operative.

Then Larry MacPhail appeared in Buffalo in late August, and an hour's talk with him convinced Bucky that he belonged with the Yankees.

The 1947 campaign finds Bucky on the hottest seat in baseball, managing the Yankees . . . They're picked to finish third, and anything higher will be a tribute to Harris' sagacity and ability to handle men.

SIGNALS

CHAPTER I

EVEN SUCCESSFUL SIGNALS SOMETIMES BOOMERANG

NEAR the close of the 1946 season—September 25—the Phillies were playing Brooklyn at Ebbets Field. It was the first half of the eighth inning and the Dodgers were leading, 8 to 5. Leo Durocher, colorful manager of the Bums, fidgeted nervously up and down the bench, crossing and uncrossing his legs, wiping his face from time to time with a damp towel. The Dodgers were in a terrific battle for the pennant with the St. Louis Cardinals. Every game was important—even every inning.

As the Dodgers went out to take the field in the eighth, Leo looked anxiously out over the edge of the dugout to be sure that a relief pitcher was ready, then he patted hurler Hank Behrman on the shoulder. "Keep bearing down," he said.

Del Ennis, slugging young outfielder of the Phillies, came to bat for the Blue Jays. In the fourth inning Ennis had made a hit that had sent the Phillies into a 5 to 1 lead. But the Dodgers had come back to go in front again.

Durocher looked Ennis over closely—another hit might cause trouble. Leo clapped his hands, looked straight at his young catcher, Bruce Edwards, who had turned toward the bench, and made a move, seen only by Edwards, that cost the Dodgers the pennant.

Leo held up his left hand and jerked his thumb toward his head. It was the "duster" sign, an order for Behrman to throw one at Ennis' head. Edwards nodded, took his position behind the plate and gave the pitcher the sign.

Behrman threw the ball, high, fast and on the inside. Ennis fell back, threw up his hands. The ball hit him on the wrist and he fell to the ground moaning. The entire Phillies team leaped off the bench, cussing and shaking their fists at Durocher. Manager Ben Chapman hurried to the plate, then roared at Leo.

Durocher snarled back, "Lucky it didn't hit him in the head. What are you crying about?"

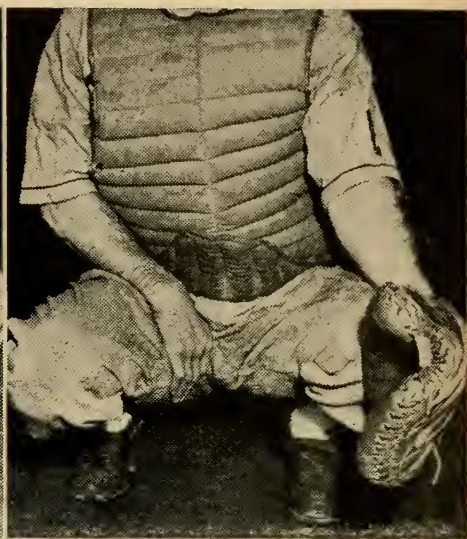

Instantly, a team that had been coasting pleasantly into defeat became aroused almost to a madman pitch. They scored one run in the eighth, then came back to knock out three pitchers in the ninth, push five runs over the plate, whip the Dodgers, 11 to 9, and hand them a defeat that eventually cost them the pennant.

In so doing, they added another chapter to the romantic story of signals, a tale of comedy, drama and tragedy, one well known to players, but, unfortunately, almost a closed book to the fans.

Pennants have been won and lost on the wink of an eye, the movement of a pitcher's fingers, the crook of a catcher's arm, the tilt of a cigar, the swish of a cow's tail.

The Philadelphia Athletics lost the pennant in 1909 to the Detroit Tigers because the cross bar (—) in the H of the word Highlander on the scoreboard of the Highlanders (now the Yankees) grounds in New York sometimes was vertical instead of horizontal.

The grounds were built so that there was a partially-hidden, box-like enclosure directly back of center field. Gene McCann, then a player, later a well-known scout for the Yankees, sat in this enclosure with a pair of field glasses. He trained them on Ira Thomas, catcher for the Athletics, and clearly saw the signs Ira gave to the A's pitchers.

McCann, a keen student, was quick to interpret the signs. When Thomas put down one finger between his legs, McCann knew that was the signal for the pitcher to throw a fast ball. He immediately shouted "fast" to an accomplice working the scoreboard. The accomplice turned the bar (—) vertical. The batter, watching the bar, knew a fast ball was on the way, dug his toes in, and swung with all his power.

Not only did McCann get Thomas' curve and fast ball signs, he also picked up the pitchout and the duster and the change of pace, which he flashed to his New York teammates by moving the I . . . As a result, Thomas looked and felt foolish.

Thomas was puzzled, almost bewildered. When Hal Chase came to bat. Ira said to the first baseman, "I can't understand it. You fellows never hit our pitchers (Bender, Coombs and Plank) this way before. It almost seems as if you know our signals."

Chase merely grunted and shrugged his shoulders. The Athletics lost three out of four games to a club they usually whipped four straight and that was the margin by which they lost the pennant.

While this bit of chicanery was going on in New York, the counterpart of the drama was taking place in Washington, where Detroit was playing the Senators. The Nationals (as they were known then), particularly Joe Cantillon, the manager, and a Washington newspaperman whose name I have forgotten, hated the Athletics. They knew what Gene McCann was doing. Detroit was to follow the Athletics into New York.

So, the last day of the series, the newspaperman said to Cantillon, "Aren't you going to tell Jennings (manager of the Tigers) what McCann is doing?" Cantillon said, "No." But the newspaperman was adamant. "If you don't, I will." So Cantillon told Jennings.

The morning Detroit reached New York Jennings picked three of the toughest fellows he could find, took them to the grounds, ripped the scoreboard down and took all the wires away. The Tigers won four straight games—and the pennant.

Later in the same season, the Athletics moved into Detroit for four games. On the roster of the Mackmen was a young college pitcher, up for a tryout. In the fourth inning of the first game, the young hurler slipped quietly into a seat near Thomas and said rather hesitantly (as if he were afraid that what he was going to say might make him look silly), "Mr. Thomas. I don't know, but I could swear that the eyes of that Indian on the center field fence keep moving."

Thomas looked at the sign. "Shush," he said. "Let's tell Connie." They both went to Mr. Mack and the boy told what he had seen. Connie kept his eyes on the Indian. The "eyes" moved. Connie nodded. "We'll fool 'em," he said. Turning to Ira, he told the catcher to use the same signs he had been using, as a blind, and to arrange an extra set with his pitcher. The next inning, the Tiger batters were completely "crossed." Two of them struck out and one lifted an easy foul to Thomas.

Even more bizzare and picturesque was the contraption which the Phillies rigged up at old Baker Bowl in 1902 to outwit the opposition.

The Cincinnati Reds came to play a series and, much to the surprise of the visitors, the weak-hitting Phillies went wild, slugged everything that the Red pitchers tossed up in the first three games, and won easily. They were leading 6 to 1 in the first half of the second inning of the final game when Tom Corcoran of the Reds came to bat. He watched a strike go by and then dug his cleats into the clay to take a cut at the next pitch. As he did so he felt a buzzing underneath his foot. He moved out of the box, stepped to the plate again and felt the same buzz.

He dropped his bat and started to dig away at the clay with his spikes. The umpire and the fans watched him in surprise, wondering if he had gone crazy. He dropped to his knees and started to dig with his hands.

Then he gave a shout and pulled up a piece of wire. Fastening it about his hand he kept ripping away toward the Phillies bench. Other Cincinnati players helped him pull. Finally they reached the dugout and found a switch box that was sputtering like firecrackers.

They also found an embarrassed Phillies ball club, with Petey Childs, sitting near the switch box, afraid to touch it. Something had happened so that the signal buzzed when the Reds were at bat, instead of the Phillies. The Phillies had had a man placed in the clubhouse with field glasses. He had "stolen" the Red catcher's signs and flashed them to Childs, who relayed them to the batter with the buzzer system.

CHAPTER II

ACTION OF CATCHERS TIPOFF TO BATTERS

SIGNAL stealing, in another form, quickly proceeded to take its place. Coachers at first and third base began to study the actions of the catchers. They learned that even the greatest catchers "tipped" off what the pitcher was going to throw. Big Frank (Pancho) Snyder, catcher of the New York Giants, gave away every pitch by the way he held his glove after he got up from giving signals. If he held the glove up, it was a fast ball. If he held the glove pointed down, it was a curve. All the hitter had to do was to glance back at Snyder when the catcher stood up and he would know what was coming.

Such a clever backstop as Roger Bresnahan gave a definite crook of the elbow of his right arm when he called for a curve ball. When Jimmy Archer of the Cubs gave the sign for a fast ball, the batter could see the big muscle in his arm move up and down. The A's "stole" the signs of big Ed Sweeney, catcher of the Yankees, by having one of the A's players hide behind the water cooler on his stomach. When the backstop gave his signals, he dropped his fingers to the ground and they were clearly visible from beneath the cooler.

All year the Yankee pitchers complained to Sweeney that the A's were getting the pitches. At the end of the season he wrote to Ira Thomas to inquire about it. Thomas showed the letter to Mr. Mack. Connie said, "Tell him the truth," and that ended the stealing of Sweeney's signs.

Finally the catchers got smart. They began to use combination signals. If a man wanted to give a signal for a fast ball he wouldn't just show the pitcher one finger. He would give one finger, then put his hand on the ground, or on his glove, or touch his chest. If he didn't combine the one finger with one of the other moves, it would be a curve.

As a result, it became difficult to pick the signs from the catcher, unless he spread his legs when giving them. Even then a man would have to be quick in deciphering codes.

BEST OF SECRET SIGNALS FINALLY WILL OUT

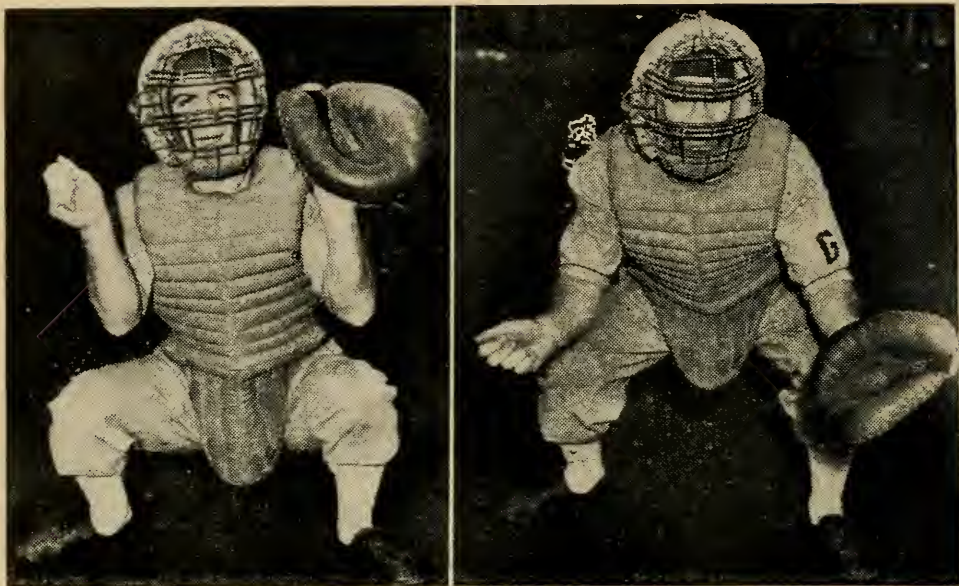

SMART baseball men turned to other avenues for their information. They learned that even so keen a second baseman as Miller Huggins (later manager of the Yankees) unconsciously gave away what the pitcher was going to throw by trying to get the "jump" on a batted ball. If he saw the catcher call for a fast ball against a righthanded hitter, he would move a step toward first. If the backstop called for a curve, he would slide a step toward second before the pitch was made. Clever hitters learned to watch Huggins.

Marty Berghammer, second baseman of the Cincinnati Reds, was even more careless. As soon as Marty got the sign from the catcher he would relay it to the outfield by putting his finger behind his back—one for a fast ball, two for a curve. Opposing players in the bullpen quickly got on to this—or the first base coach would move toward the outfield and pick them up. They would then be relayed to the batter.

As players were traded from one club to another, all these secrets gradually leaked out. Catchers learned to protect themselves and infielders gave up the idea of getting a jump on a ball until the pitcher actually made the pitch. Finally, the only avenue open for tipping signals was to get a man to second base. From here an exceptionally clever player could decipher the catcher's code and relay the information to the batter, by putting his hand on his right leg for a curve and on the left for a fast one.

Even this method of signal tipping lost vogue because few men were smart enough to pick signs—and on too many occasions the batter was "crossed" (was given the signal for a fast ball and it was a curve).

There was one club, however, that continued to get signs, despite every safeguard—the Philadelphia Athletics in 1910-1911. Catchers on opposing teams changed signals continually, infielders were exceedingly careful to cover their movements and clubhouses and bleachers were scanned to make sure that no one was operating with field glasses. Still the A's kept going. They won two successive pennants and two World's Series, whipping the great Christy Mathewson twice in the 1911 classic.

Then the secret came out. Eddie Collins, second baseman and only member of the club who would not "take" signs, let the cat out of the bag. The American Magazine gave Collins $2,000 to write a series of ten articles. In one of these Collins told the secret. He said that the Athletics did not "steal" signs from the catcher, but learned what the pitcher was throwing by watching the pitcher himself.

Chief Bender, Danny Murphy, Jack Coombs and Harry Davis became so expert that they could call every pitch made by every pitcher in the league by watching the way he held the ball, the way he delivered it or other little eccentricities.

Ed Walsh tipped the peak of his cap every time he threw a spitball. Urban Faber nodded his head whenever he was going to throw a spitter. Herb Pennock held his fast ball on the seams, his curve ball across the seams. Babe Ruth (when he was a pitcher) stuck his tongue out of the corner of his mouth when he was going to throw a curve. Jeff Tesreau rubbed the ball with a circular fashion of his fingers for a spitter, up and down for a fast ball. George Smith's eyes got as big as saucers when he was going to throw his fast ball, narrowed to mere slits when he was going to toss his spitter. Christy Mathewson gave away his famous fadeaway by putting three fingers on the ball instead of two (as he did for his fast one) when he reached the top of his windup, in full view of the coach.

Bender and Danny Murphy gave the sign to the batter by a word. Any sentence with "Come" in it meant a curve—"Come on, Stuff . . . Come on, let's go." Any sentence with "Make" in it meant a fast ball—"Make it good" . . . "Let's make some runs."

Because Bender, Murphy, Davis and Coombs relayed the signs to the batter by words, the Athletics kept very quiet when at bat. And the public got the idea that Connie Mack's team was lacking in fire, that Connie did not approve of shouting.

"The truth of the matter," said Chief Bender, "was that we were so busy getting and transmitting signs we didn't have the time or desire to make the noise.

"When the opposing clubs got suspicious and began to listen for our word signs we gave them by putting our hands in our belts and exposing one or two fingers for a fast ball and a curve."

When Collins disclosed the A's secret, the pitchers on other clubs made a particular effort to hide their pitches. The result was that the A's failed to win the pennant in 1912. "We were all pretty sore at Eddie," said Bender. "We felt he had sold us out," said Ira Thomas.

CHAPTER IV

BAKER AND DRESSEN MASTERS IN STEALING SIGNALS

HOWEVER, the Athletics came right back to win the pennant in 1913 and 1914. Opposing hurlers found it almost impossible to "cover up" from the eagle eyes of Bender. Today, equally keen eyes of such men as Del Baker and Charlie Dressen can watch a pitcher for three innings and tell you everything he throws.

These two men were the secret weapons in the pennant success of the Red Sox and the great fight the Dodgers put up for the flag in 1946.

"Dressen beat us more ball games than all the other Dodgers combined," said Ben Chapman, manager of the Phillies. "If he wasn't able to get the signs, he worried our young pitchers so much by making them think he had them that they were ineffective."

Other clubs have men who may not be as effective reading pitchers as Baker and Dressen, but they are still skillful enough to raise havoc with any hurler, particularly the young ones who come into the major leagues and fail to learn how to "cover up" their pitches.

Connie Mack calls a smart third base coach "my tenth man on the field." Yet until Mike Gonzalez broke into the spotlight in 1946 in the dispute over who was responsible for Country Slaughter's famous dash for home to win the world's championship for the Cardinals—the outfielder or Mike Gonzalez—coaches were more or less forgotten men as far as the general public was concerned.

"Only a smart player, endowed with baseball intuition and blessed with the gambler's instinct for calling the right card at the right moment, will make a good coach," said Connie. "He doesn't have an opportunity to think things out logically in the cool, collected, calm fashion of a banker. His decisions have to be made on the spur of the moment, in the heat of battle.

And if he makes a mistake, or the player makes a mistake, misses the 'stop' sign and is caught at the plate, the coach, not the player, is booed.

"Two years ago, in Detroit, one of the Tiger outfielders stumbled and fell on the way to the plate in the World's Series and was tagged out. Fortunately for the coach, the missed run played no part in the final outcome. If it had, the fans probably would have hanged the coach.

"A coach must know the speed of the man he is guiding around the bases as well as the cleverness, speed, agility and arm power of the opponents in the field.

"In 1942 the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Yankees in the World's Series because the Cardinals knew that the Yankee outfielders were careless in returning the ball to the infield. The Redbirds literally stole the title on the bases."

MANY FACTORS ENTER INTO COACHES' DECISIONS

THE coach must play the percentages to the last decimal. Yet he must instinctively know when and where to throw the percentage table out of the window and take a chance. If he is smart, he will be familiar with such minor details as the height of the grass, the condition of the base lines, the roughness of the ground, and even the strength of the wind.

The Phillies won an important game from the Cubs in 1946 because Benny Bengough—the Blue Jays' Little Napoleon at third—knew that there was a soggy spot in left field, half way between third base and the outfielder. Johnny Wyrostek was on first base with two out, when Del Ennis drove a single over third.

Under ordinary circumstances, Bengough would have stopped Wyrostek at third. But he knew that the ball would stick in the soggy ground behind third, slowing up the outfielder, and he sent Wyrostek in to score the winning run.

Directing traffic at third and first is only one of the coach's duties. They are also the clearing houses—or switchboards—for signals from the bench or manager. If Connie Mack, Leo Durocher, Lou Boudreau, Billy Herman, Charlie Grimm, or any one of the major league pilots who direct from the bench wish to tell a hitter, or base runner, what to do, they flash a signal to the coach, who, in turn, gives it to the player.

This is done in various ways; by rubbing the chin, the letters on the uniform, the pants leg, by touching the peak of the cap, standing on the front or back line of the coacher's box, bending over, standing up, whistling, looking toward the outfield. Often the signal is given by a combination of signs and these are often changed for different hitters and in different innings.

At Shibe Park in 1946, the Detroit Tigers lost a game to the Athletics on the wink of an eye. Steve O'Neill sent a young fellow to coach at first. Eddie Mayo was on base and the steal sign was for the coach to wink his left eye.

The coach winked his eye on the first pitch and Mayo was thrown out by ten feet trying for second. A single and a double followed, but the Tigers did not score and lost by one run.

In the clubhouse after the game Steve O'Neill called Mayo aside . . . "Don't you think that was a dumb move, trying to steal second?" he asked.

Mayo nodded, "I thought it was a dumb sign myself. But you gave it." . . . O'Neill frowned. "I gave it?" he said . . . "Yeah, Frank gave me the wink," said Mayo. O'Neill looked at his infielder quizzically, then shouted into the dressing room. "Hey, Frank, come in here a minute."

Frank came bustling into the room. "Say, did you . . . ?" but O'Neill stopped his question in the middle . . . "Never mind," he said . . . Frank's eye was still twitching.

CHAPTER VI

MECHANICS OF COACHING PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE

THE mechanics of coaching are as important as the mental aspects. A coach can lose a game with one false move. A third base coach has three primary positions. With no one on base, he stands far back in the coaching box, trying to steal the pitcher's and catcher's signs. When a man gets in scoring position he stands close to third base. And as the runner comes toward third he does one of two things. If there is no doubt about the ability of the runner to get home, he stands near third and waves

Games often are won or lost on a runner's ability or failure to quickly decipher the signs of his third base coacher. Generally when the wig-wagger must decide whether to wave the runner plateward, he will move several yards down the third base line toward home plate. This gives him a moment longer to make his decision, thus avoiding the necessity of the runner breaking his stride at the hot corner. Culp, at left, shows how the coacher signals the runner to hold up, while at right is the signal to slide.

the man in. If it is going to be close and he does not know whether he is going to send the man home or hold him at third, he stands one-fourth the way down the line toward home and makes a last-second decision. If the play is close at third and he wants the man to slide, he stands close to the bag with his arms held low.

Coaches must also be practical psychologists. Pat Moran, famous manager of the Phillies and Reds, once won a game for the Phils—an important game that helped win the pennant in 1915—by casually asking the opposing pitcher on a red-hot day how he could stand the heat. Each time before he went out to ask the question, Pat stopped at the water cooler to spray water on his face. Finally, in the sixth inning, the pitcher shook his head and said, "I can't stand it any longer." The next inning the Phils knocked him out of the box.

When Miller Huggins managed the Yankees he won a ball game himself coaching at third base. The Yanks got men on second and third with two out and a weak hitter at bat, and they needed both runs to win.

As the opposing pitcher got the ball back from the catcher, Huggins held up his hand and said, "Hey, let's see that ball." The pitcher turned and tossed it to Huggins, who stepped aside. The ball rolled to the fence and both men scored. That night Colonel Ruppert gave Huggins a calldown, said he did not like that kind of tactics—but the Yankees had won a ball game.

Coaches often relieve the monotony of dull ball games with their comical actions. Charlie Grimm and Frankie Frisch were past masters—both great mimics. Nick Altrock held a job with Washington for more than 20 years because of his shenanigans on the coaching lines, as did Al Schacht, one of the greatest baseball comedians of all time. Germany Schaefer and Hughie Jennings were famous for their eccentricities on the coaching lines, Schaefer because of his buffoonery and Jennings because of his battle cry, "Eyah."

MOST OF MASTER-MINDING EMPLOYED AT THIRD BASE

MOST managers prefer to coach at third base themselves and turn the first base job over to one of their coaches. Billy Southworth and Grimm handle the job almost exclusively themselves. On the other hand, Eddie Dyer shifted to first base and switched Gonzalez to third soon after the 1946 race got under way, while Leo Durocher entrusted the third base coaching assignment to Chuck Dressen, who signed with the Yankees for 1947. Ben Chapman shared the Phillies' spot with Benny Bengough in '46.

In the American League, Joe Cronin mixed it with Del Baker in leading the Red Sox to the flag. Steve O'Neill handled the far turn for Detroit most of the time, while either Ossie Bluege or Clyde Milan did it at Washington. Connie Mack has left it to Al Simmons for several seasons.

But whether the manager does the third base coaching himself, or delegates the authority to someone else, you can bet your bottom dollar it is in the hands of some smart hombre who combines the rashness of a gambler with the keen brain of an F.B.I. man, the baseball acumen of a Solomon, the psychology of Freud and the agility of a trapeze artist. And for all this they make the outstanding salary of not more than $6,000—except in the case of Bill McKechnie, whose 1947 contract with Cleveland reportedly called for $15,000.

The complicated business of coaches and signals is a twentieth century development in baseball. When Connie Mack first donned a glove in East Brookfield, Mass., in the middle '80s, the catcher stood far behind the plate and the batter could signal for either a high ball or a low ball. Curves were unknown and spitballs were only the delight of the school kids.

It was not until the catcher came up directly behind the bat that signals were needed and catchers wanted to know what was coming. At first, the hurlers had only a fast ball and a curve, so the backstop put down one finger for a fast ball and two fingers for a curve. This was okay until one or two "smart alecs" began to steal signs. The catchers then tried other signals. A flat hand on the leg was a fast ball, one finger raised from the flat hand was a curve. A few backstops gave signs by the manner in which they got out of the crouch. If they put out their left leg first, it was a curve; the right, a fast ball. Others tried word signals, but the batters and coaches solved them.

CHAPTER VIII

COMBINATION SIGNS BY BACKSTOPS BEGAN IN 1905

STARTING in 1905, the backstops began to use combination signs. A catcher put down one or two fingers and combined them with some other move, such as touching the mask, the back of the glove or the knee. Still the opposing players stole the signs.

In 1914 the Phillies had a team that could hit with the best and the pitchers were good, but the opposition always seemed to be able to come through with hits when needed and defeat the Quakers. This puzzled everyone, except the wily Pat Moran, one of the smartest men in baseball. Moran was only the coach of the Phils at the time and he kept a tight upper lip—until he became manager.

The first thing he did in the spring of 1915 was to line up his catchers on the top rail of a fence and teach them combination signs—using fingers exclusively—and giving as many as three or four signs, with only one of them to count.

Thus base runners, signal tippers in the clubhouse and coaches were completely stymied. There was only one catch—some pitchers weren't quick enough on the trigger to use the combinations. These hurlers quickly passed out of the majors.

Moran not only used combinations but he arranged a "shift" sign by the pitcher so that he could "rub off" the signal by the catcher and substitute one of his own by pushing his glove across his chest.

The only hope left for opposing coaches was to pick what was being pitched by studying the pitcher. Moran made every attempt to thwart this by teaching his pitchers to throw everything with the same delivery.

The Phillies won the pennant that year. With the introduction of the lively ball in 1919 and the resultant home runs and big innings, the importance of signals and the necessity of concealing them diminished. A batter could be fooled by a pitch and still hit it over the fence. Players no longer gave much attention to stealing bases.

But shortly before World War II, the ball returned to normal. It was lively, but not rabbit-like. Coaches again began to pick at signals, worrying and fretting the pitchers and catchers. Today, signals and the stealing of them has become as important as ever. Catchers are smarter than ever in covering up their signs. The backstop today gives five signs. Three of these indicate the pitcher's assortment of pitches and two involve an attempt to catch a runner off base, one as a pitch-out signal to the hurler, the other to inform the infielder to cover the base.

CHAPTER IX

SIGNS VARY WITH DIFFERENT SITUATIONS

SINGLE signs are usually employed with second base unoccupied, one finger indicating a fast ball, two a breaking ball, three a slow ball, a clenched fist a pitchout, and the hand on the glove for the infielder to cover the bag. A more complicated method of giving signals is advisable with second base occupied, since the runner on base can see the sign. There are many ways to do this. Two of the common methods employ one finger for a fast ball, two for a breaking ball and three for a slow ball, the same as in the single method, but include the sign as part of a series of signs. The first is the digit method. Three signs are given and a certain one is designated as the actual sign. The second is the indicator method. In this, the first showing of the fingers is the indicator.

Semaphore systems generally used by infielders as well as catchers and coaches. At left, Culp demonstrates coacher's signal for runner to keep going. Inset, he shows how an infielder passes along signals to the outfielders, enabling them to better judge where the pitch is likely to be hit.

The innovation of night baseball made it necessary to use hand signs, instead of digits, because finger signs are difficult to see. They are such signals as the flat hand, the clenched fist and the wiggling of the fingers. As a general rule, no attempt is made by the opposition to steal signals at night.

Coaching signs are much simpler, whether given direct from the box or relayed from the bench. Joe McCarthy, during his tenure as manager of the Yankees, had a very simple set that he relayed to Art Fletcher, his third base coach.

McCarthy put his hand on his chin when he wanted the batter to take the next pitch. He touched his cap when he wanted the player to bunt. He put on the hit and run by touching the collar of his uniform. For a single steal he touched the letter of his uniform with his left hand. He called a double steal by folding his arms and designated a running squeeze play by touching the top of his head, or covering the letters of his cap.

SECRET OF SUCCESS LIES IN DECEPTION

THE third base coach must disguise the signs from the opposing team. He may do this by including in the sign a series of natural actions. For example, to give a "take" sign, such as is included in the above set, and properly disguise it, the coach could touch the peak of his cap with the left hand, rub the uniform with either hand, touch his face with his right hand (the real sign) and clap his hands, meanwhile moving around in the coaching box and encouraging the batter to hit the ball.

Occasionally, even these well thought-out signs go astray. The Cardinals came to Philadelphia for a night game in the middle of the 1946 season. It was one of those nasty nights with bugs plentiful. Eddie Dyer was coaching at third base and Red Schoendienst was on third with one out. Whitey Kurowski, a long hitter, was at bat. A long fly would score the fleet Schoendienst easily and Dyer let Kurowski hit. But a bug landed on Dyer's nose. He brushed it off and inadvertently gave the squeeze sign. Schoendienst, who had started with the pitch, was caught flatfooted when Kurowski, waiting for the ball he wanted to hit, let it go over the plate.

Batters also have signs—a hit and run sign and a running squeeze sign—depending, of course, on the player's batting and bunting ability, the score, the number of outs, the control of the pitcher, the stage of the game and whether or not the manager favors these plays. Hank Greenberg gives his hit and run by touching his belt with his left hand.

Major league baseball is a very complicated affair. Pitchers have to do more than throw the ball and batters more than hit it.

It is no place for the youngster who joined the Wilmington club of the Inter-State League when Charley Berry, now an umpire, was the manager.

Berry sent the lad in to pitch. It was a damp day, the ball was slippery and the youngster had trouble getting the ball over the plate. Berry handed him a resin bag and said, "Use this when you get out on the mound. You'll be able to get a better grip on the ball."

That inning, the boy walked four more men. When he came to the bench, Berry asked him why he didn't use the resin. "Gosh, I would have, but I couldn't get it untied," he said.

THE SPORTING NEWS' Top Men in Majors and Minors

No. 1 Men of the Game in '46

CITED for showing a high type of leadership and fine performance in a season that set the fastest pace in the history of Organized Ball, three executives and three players in the majors and minors selected for the No. 1 Men of the Year awards by THE SPORTING NEWS were: Thomas A. Yawkey, president of the Boston Red Sox; Edwin H. Dyer, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals; Stanley F. Musial, outfielder-first baseman of the St. Louis Cardinals; Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Southern Association Crackers; Clay Hopper, manager of the Montreal International League Royals, and Sebastian Sisti, shortstop of the Indianapolis American Association Indians.

The patience and perseverance of Yawkey in bringing a pennant winner to Boston for the first time in 28 years were acclaimed as the foundation of the 1946 flag success of the Red Sox. After giving lavishly of his money, time and energy in building up his team, he was about to realize a championship when the war intervened, but he was ready when peace came. Yawkey is also credited with not only having built for one season, but for many more, to make the Red Sox a factor to be reckoned with for years to come.

Overcoming the handicaps under which he labored at the beginning of the season through the loss of key men by deals during the winter and through raids of the Mexican League in the early part of the schedule, Eddie Dyer won the award for Manager of the Year for his skillful handling of the Cardinals in the closing days of the campaign. To his keen judgment of talent, skillful handling of his pitching staff and ability to inspire his players to weld them into a well-knit team, possessing courage and daring, are attributed the success of the drive of the Redbirds in tying the Dodgers, winning the playoff and capturing the World's Series in his freshman year as a major league pilot.

Stan Musial was hailed as the outstanding player of the year for amassing the highest batting average of the majors in 1946, sweeping nearly all other hitting honors in his league and winning the award as the most valuable player in the Nationak, although switched from the outfield to an unfamiliar position at first base. His feat was designated as outstanding in a year of many great performers.

Ten years after winning the 1936 citation as the No. 1 Business Executive of the Minors, Earl Mann qualified again. His promotional efforts that netted an attendance of 395,699, more than 21 per cent of the Southern Association's record 1,831,236 for the season; his selection of players that gave Atlanta its sixth pennant in the 12 years he has been in charge of the Crackers and the development of talent that brought good prices in the player mart won the accolade for Mann.

Winning the International League pennant and playoff and capturing the Junior World's Series title from Louisville of the American Association were achievements that gave Clay Hopper of Montreal the palm among all minor league managers. Much of the success of the Royals was attributed to his tactful guidance, skillful handling of an average pitching staff and wise employment of speed and power. Like Dyer, Hopper was a freshman manager in his particular classification—AAA.

Shunted from the majors at the age of 26 by the Boston Braves and sent to the unfamiliar position of shortstop, Sibby Sisti, a .240 hitter in the big leagues, led the American Association for Indianapolis with a batting average of .343, excelled in the field and staged a comeback that marked him for another chance in the big show and earned him the honors as the No. 1 player in the minors.

Record Attendances for Majors and Minors

BASEBALL'S postwar boom exceeded the expectations of even the most optimistic club owners, with attendance records toppling on every hand in the majors and minors. A nation released from the pent-up emotions of war and with plenty of money in its pockets swarmed into the baseball parks—major and minor—in undreamed of numbers.

The major leagues played to the record total of 18,534,444, an increase of well over 80 per cent of their previous high, 10,951,502, in the last year of the war—1945. Even more remarkable was the fact that the American League drew 9,621,182, almost double its former high, with a one-sided race. The National League, with its thrilling race and playoff, attracted 8,913,262.

The annual report of Judge William G. Bramham, former head of the National Association, showed the minor leagues drew an unprecedented total of 32,704,315. Leaders in the lower classifications were: A, Eastern, 1,054,878; B, Western International, 780,443; C, East Texas, 700,000; D, Evangeline, 757,000. San Francisco, with 670,563, set a new minor club mark.

Official attendance figures for both majors and the higher minors, as released by respective league or club presidents, follow:

National Baseball Museum at Cooperstown, N. Y.

15 Names Added to Hall of Fame

By FREDERICK G. LIEB

AFTER the Baseball Writers' Association, in the winter of 1945-46, failed to give any of the candidates sufficient majorities for election to the game's Hall of Fame in the National Baseball Museum at Cooperstown, N. Y., the special committee, named by the late Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis to select deserving old-timers for the shrine, added 11 immortals to the honorary list on April 23, 1946.

As a result of the scribes' failure to elect anyone in their last two polls, further restrictions were authorized for the balloting in the winter of 1946-47, with the result that four players—Pitchers Carl Hubbell and Lefty Grove, Infielder Frank Frisch and Catcher Mickey Cochrane—were voted into the Pantheon. By action of the Hall of Fame committee, only BBWAA members of ten years' standing were permitted to vote, and no player who was active before 1921 could figure. With 161 scribes participating in the poll, Hubbell gathered 140 votes, Frisch, 136; Cochrane, 128, and Grove, 123. Pie Traynor, with 119, failed by two to gain the three-fourth majority required.

The 11 old-timers picked earlier were Jesse Burkett, one of a trio of major leaguers with three .400 batting averages; Frank Chance, crack first baseman and manager of the Cub champions of 1906-07-08-10; Johnny Evers, famous Cub and Brave second baseman; Clark Griffith, who won distinction as a pitcher, manager and club owner; Tom McCarthy, famous hitting outfielder of the Boston Nationals of the 90's; Joe McGinnity, iron man pitcher, who specialized in working doubleheaders; Eddie Plank, one of the two left-handers who won 300 games; Joe Tinker, famous Cub shortstop, and Cincinnati and Chicago manager; Rube Waddell, lefthanded strikeout ace of the early Athletics; Ed Walsh, 40-game winner for the 1908 White Sox, and Jack Chesbro, great spitball pitcher of the Pirates and also of the New York Americans.

The Hall of Fame committee also introduced something new in 1946—an Honor Roll, which included writers, managers, umpires and executives. Those named for this new distinction follow:

Writers: Walter Barnes and Tim Murnane, Boston; Harry Cross, William B. Hanna, Sid Mercer, William J. Slocum, George Tidden and Joe Vila, New York; Frank Hough and Frank Richter, Philadelphia; Si Sanborn, Chicago, and John B. Sheridan, St. Louis.

Managers: William Carrigan, Edward Hanlon, Miller Huggins, Frank Selee, John M. Ward.

Umpires: Tom Connolly, William Dinneen, Robert Emslie, Billy Evans, John Gaffney, Tim Hurst, William Klem, John Kelly, Thomas Lynch, Frank (Silk) O'Loughlin, Jack Sheridan.

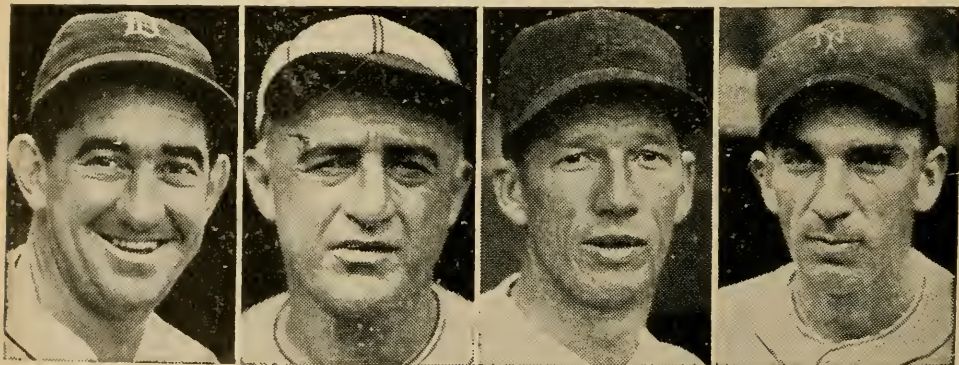

Executives: Ernest S. Barnard, Edward G. Barrow, John E. Bruce, John T. Brush, Barney Dreyfuss, Charles H. Ebbets, August Herrmann, John A. Heydler, Robert Quinn, Arthur Soden, Nicholas Young.

The committee making the selections was composed of Paul S. Kerr, treasurer of the Museum; Ed Barrow, chairman of the board of the New York Yankees; Connie Mack, president-manager of the Athletics; Bob Quinn, baseball representative of Wilson Sporting Goods Co., and Mel Webb, veteran sports writer of the Boston Globe. A second newspaper member of the committee, Harry Cross of New York, died April 3, 1946. His place was filled by Grantland Rice, veteran sports columnist, also of New York.

The Museum named a new director, Ernest J. Lanigan, well-known baseball writer and statistician. He was baseball editor of the former New York Press, when he was one of the most widely-read scribes in New York. In recent years, he had been publicity director for the International League.

The high spot in Cooperstown for 1946 was the annually scheduled big league game, which was played between the New York Giants and Detroit Tigers, June 3, the Giants winning, 9 to 5, before an overflow crowd of 10,000. It was the first major exhibition in Cooperstown in three years.

On the day of the game, the new Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis plaque was officially dedicated, with New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey and Commissioner A. B. Chandler, Landis' successor, delivering the orations.

Most Valuable A. L. Player

DENIED the American League's most valuable player prize before the war—even in 1941, when he hit .406—Theodore Samuel Williams, hard-hitting and temperamental star of the Boston Red Sox, was voted the Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis Award as the A. L.'s top performer in 1946. Despite the fact that Williams finished the season in a slump and experienced a disappointing World's Series, his strong contribution to the Red Sox first American League championship in 28 years was duly recognized, and in the the vote of the 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association, Ted had a sizable lead over Hal Newhouser, the strong-armed lefthander of the Detroit Tigers, 224 to 197.

However, in contrast to Stan Musial, who had 22 firsts in the National League, The Splendid Splinter Kid was the No. 1 choice of only nine of the 24 A. L. committeemen. Nevertheless, Williams was on all of the 24 ballots; in addition to his nine firsts, he poled two seconds, two thirds, seven fourths, two fifths, one ninth, and one tenth.

The continued strong showing of Tiger Southpaw Hal Newhouser, the was the Baseball Writers' Association choice both in 1944 and 1945, and in each of those years he also won THE SPORTING NEWS award as the American League's outstanding pitcher. Like Williams, Newhouser was on all 24 ballots, getting three first, eight seconds, six thirds, one fourth, two fifths, to sixths, one seventh and one ninth.

The Red Sox, like the Cardinals in the National, placed three men among the first four in the American League. In fact, the Boston pennant winners had five in the first nine. Bobby Doerr, ace second baseman, was third with 158 points, and his keystone associate, Shortstop Johnny Pesky, was a good fourth, with 141. Dave Ferriss, the 25-game winning pitcher, was seventh, with 94, and Dom DiMaggio, the crack Boston center fielder, ninth with 56.

Although Doerr finished with a batting average of .271, well below his pre-service gait and 71 points behind Williams, the Red Sox second baseman made a strong showing, and with five firsts, had only four fewer than Terrible Ted. Doerr was on 20 of the 24 ballots, with votes ranging all the way from first to ninth place.

Whereas all of the National League firsts went to two Cardinals, Musial and Slaughter, eight players in the American League were the No. 1 choice of one or more voters. Besides the leading three, Johnny Pesky and Hank Greenberg of the Tigers each had two votes for first, and Ferriss, Mickey Vernon of the Senators and Bob Feller of the Indians each drew one.

Vernon, the league's batting leader, finished fifth with a total vote of 134; Feller, who compiled a new strikeout record, was sixth with 105, and Greenberg, who led the league in home runs and runs batted in after a great September finish, was eighth. Conspicuous in the first postwar balloting was the poor showing of former Yankee winners. Joe DiMaggio, winner in 1939 and 1941, had only six votes; Spud Chandler, 1943 winner, 12; and Joe Gordon, 1942 winner, none.

The vote was as follows: Williams, Boston, 224; Newhouser, Detroit, 197; Doerr, Boston, 158; Pesky, Boston, 141; Vernon, Washington, 134; Feller, Cleveland, 105; Ferriss, Boston, 94; Greenberg, Detroit, 91; D. DiMaggio, Boston, 56; Boudreau, Cleveland, 37; York, Boston, 28; Anpling, Chicago, 26; Hughson, Boston, 19; Caldwell, Chicago, 18; Keller, New York, 17; Kell, Detroit; Chandler, New York; Robinson, New York, 12 each; J. DiMaggio, New York; Newsom, Washington; Stephens, St. Louis, 6 each; Marchildon, Philadelphia, 5; Rosar, Philadelphia; Spence, Washington, 4 each; Berardino, St. Louis, 2; Henrich, New York; H. Wagner, Boston, 1 each.

Musial Most Valuable N. L. Player

FAR outdistancing the field, Stanley Frank Musial, Cardinal first baseman and National League batting champion, won the league's most valuable player award for 1946, the second time he gained the distinction. The Donora Greyhound also captured the prize in 1943, his second season as a National League regular. In 1944 he finished fourth, while he spent the entire 1945 season in the Navy.

Musial won the Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis memorial award with the highest vote received by any athlete under the system of compilation introduced by the Baseball Writers' Association of America in 1938, polling 319 points out of a possible 336. Stan received 22 first-place votes out of 24, one for second, while, strangely, the other committeeman could see him no better than ninth. It was one of the greatest showings in most valuable player competition since Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth scored perfect totals of 64 in the old American League awards of 1911 and 1923, respectively. The highest vote previously polled under the current system was 305 by Jimmy Fojx to win the 1938 American League award.

Musial richly deserved the distinction. He was a tower of strength for Manager Eddie Dyer all season, and his strong batting, inspired base-running and brilliant all-round play made the Cardinals' ninth pennant possible. In June, Musial was moved from left field to first base, an unfamiliar position, but he promptly starred in the new role, and made the difficult change without affecting his batting.

The world's champion Redbirds fared well in the 1946 balloting, as three of Dyer's stars qualified among the first four, each getting more than 100 points. Dixie Walker, 36-year-old Dodger right fielder and batting ace, was runner-up to Musial, but was far back with 159 points. He was followed by Enos Slaughter, Cardinal right fielder and clean-up man, with 144, while Howie Pollet, the Redbirds' southpaw ace was fourth, with 116. Slaughter received the two first-place votes which were not cast for his teammate, Musial.

Fifth on the list was Johnny Sain, crack young righthanded pitcher of the Boston Braves and returned serviceman, who barely failed to reach 100 points, getting 95. Sain was the one player among the first seven who didn't get a first or second, but Johnny had plenty of votes from third choice down to tenth.

THE SPORTING NEWS, which continued the most valuable player awards in 1929, after the official awards were dropped by the major leagues, and gave annual awards up to 1945, withdrew from the field to co-operate in making the Landis awards, provided by the major leagues, the official designations of the year.

The National League vote was as follows: Musial, St. Louis, 319; F. Walker, Brooklyn, 159; Slaughter, St. Louis, 144; Pollet, St. Louis, 116; Sain, Boston, 95; Reese, Brooklyn, 79; Stanky, Brooklyn, 67; Ennis, Philadelphia, 61; Reiser, Brooklyn, 58; Cavarretta, Chicago, 49; Kerr, New York, 37; Hopp, Boston, 34; Waitkus, Chicago, 21; Edwards, Brooklyn, 20; Higbe, Brooklyn, 18; Brecheen, St. Louis; Mize, New York, 14 each; Hatton, Cincinnati, 12; Holmes, Boston, 11; Tabor, Philadelphia; Verban, Philadelphia, 10 each; H. Walker, St. Louis, 9; Rowe, Philadelphia, 8; Masi, Boston; Vander Meer, Cincinnati, 7 each; Schoendienst, St. Louis, 6; Cox, Pittsburgh, 5; Gustine, Pittsburgh; Marion, St. Louis, 4 each; Kiner, Pittsburgh; Kurowski, St. Louis; Mueller, Cincinnati; Schmitz, Chicago, 3 each; Lowery, Chicago; F. McCor-mick, Philadelphia, 2 each; Furillo, Brooklyn; Judd, Philadelphia, 1 each.

Major League Meetings

CONFRONTED with an unusual amount of legislation growing out of player demands and postwar conditions, the majors held an unprecedented number of meetings and joint sessions during 1946. The conferences resulted in a new contract form that guaranteed players many new privileges, provisions for the establishment of a player-pension fund, creation of a bonus status for free agents who were paid more than specified amounts for signing by major and minor league clubs, organization of an Executive Council to replace the old Advisory Council and the acceptance of new pacts binding the majors and minors together for five years.

Following raids by the Mexican League and threats of organization of a players' guild, there were frequent conferences on player relations, beginning at the joint session in Boston, before the All-Star game, July 8, through a meeting, July 19, in Chicago, and joint sessions in Chicago, August 27-28, and in New York, September 16, and continued at the annual meetings in Los Angeles, December 5-7.

Guarantees in the new contract form include a minimum salary of $5,000 a year; no diminution of salary on assignment; moving expenses up to $500 if assigned during playing season; termination of contract upon written notice to a club which is in default of payments under certain conditions; full payment of salary for season if injured; reasonable medical and hospital expenses incurred by disability directly resulting from injury; payment of $25 per week in advance to cover training trip expenses; reasonable traveling expenses to home at end of season; fixed period for spring training, not earlier than February 15 in 1947 and March 1 in subsequent years; 30 days for barnstorming after termination of championship season, instead of ten; no cut of more than 25 per cent in salary if unable to agree on terms. In addition the ten-day clause was eliminated and clubs required to obtain waivers if contract is to be terminated. Such waivers cannot be withdrawn, with claiming club paying only $1; if the player is not claimed, he is to receive written notice of termination of contract.

In return, the contract requires the player to agree to certain restrictions: Keep himself in first-class physical condition and obey club's training rules; co-operate with club and participate in promotional activities; convey all rights to pictures during season to club; make no public appearances, participate in no radio or television programs, permit no pictures to be taken, nor write or sponsor newspaper or magazine articles or sponsor commercial products without written consent of club; concede relief and damages for club if contract is breached; observe and comply with requirements of club respecting conduct and service on and off field; limit participation in other sports and accept jurisdiction of commissioner for conduct on and off field in connection with post-season exhibition games.

The pension fund was referred to a joint committee of club officials and players. The goal sought was a $100-a-month payment to players with ten years' service after reaching 50 years of age. The fund would be created through the use of the proceeds of the sale of the radio rights of the World's Series and net proceeds of the All-Star game, which money from both 1946 events was put in escrow for the purpose, and contributions of $250 per annum by each club for each qualified player, and a fixed amount by each player based on years of service and averaging $250 per annum for those with ten or more years.

Provision for the Executive Council included as members the commissioner, the president of each league and one other member of each circuit to be elected annually by a majority vote of the league. In all matters concerning the players' contract, or its regulations, the players were given two representatives, elected annually by them, one from each league. In matters involving the minors, the latter were allowed representation by the president of the National Association and members of the Executive Committee. Larry MacPhail of the Yankees and Warren Giles of the Reds were the original club members named to the Council, but MacPhail resigned at a meeting, September 16, and Leslie O'Connor, general manager of the White Sox, was selected by the American League to replace him. John Murphy of the Yankees and Dixie Walker of the Dodgers were designated by the players as their representatives.

The Executive Council must hold regularly scheduled meetings at least once each quarter of each calendar year and the players are to be represented at the third-quarter meeting. Other meetings may be held at the request of the chairman, the president of either league, or a majority of members of either league.

By agreement of the two majors and the National Association, any free agent signing for more than a fixed amount becomes a "bonus player." This new status was created to curtail the payment of big inducements. The amount beyond which the status applies was fixed at $6,000 by a major league; $4,000, AAA; $3,000, AA; $2,500, A-1; $2,000, A; $1,500, B; $1,200, C, and $800, D and E. Such a bonus player cannot be optioned, cannot be assigned outright to a lower club unless waivers—which cannot be withdrawn—are asked, and is subject to unrestricted draft throughout his career. A penalty of $2,000 for a major league club, $1,000 for a minor league club and $500 for any officer of a club was provided for violation.

After operating for five years in relations with each other under a renewal of the old pacts from year to year, the majors and minors agreed to a new Major-Minor League Agreement and new Major-Minor League Rules for five years, ending January 12, 1952. (Highlights of these pacts are given under a report of the minor league convention.)

A vote to increase the schedule from 154 to 168 games, taken at the August 27-28 meetings, was revoked at the September 16 session and unlimited night games, with the consent of the visiting club, were authorized during the Los Angeles confabs. However, in deference to a request by the players, no double-headers are permitted the day after a night contest.

Television was recognized by granting telecast rights to each club (both home and abroad) from a station located within its home territory (within the circumference of a circle having a radius of 50 miles, with its center at the park), but limited outside of that territory without the consent of the other club affected.

To eliminate the practice of wholesale waivers, a rule was adopted providing no waiver request can contain the names of more than seven players, that not more than one waiver request can be made on any one date and they cannot be withdrawn on any one player more than twice in a calendar year, nor requested again until 30 days after the expiration date of the request.

Heretofore, there was no time set for the duration of a player's suspension by a club, except the right to appeal to the Commissioner if for more than ten days, but the major league rules were amended to give the club the right to suspend a player without salary for a period of not exceeding 30 days, in cases of insubordination or other misconduct, or for violations of provisions of the contract, with the appeal right retained.

Cognizance also was taken of the hopping to Mexican and Cuban "outlaw" leagues by an amendment to provide that players jumping their contracts or reservations will be placed on the ineligible list and not be eligible to make application for reinstatement until five years afterward. If a player knowingly participates in a game with or against a club containing or controlled by ineligible players, or a player under indictment for conduct detrimental to the good repute of the game, he must wait one year to apply for reinstatement.

The commissioner's authority was strengthened by additions to the regulations that require all clubs and players to submit themselves to his discipline, as provided in the Major League Agreement, and accept his decisions rendered in accordance with the rules. Furthermore, it was provided that disputes between players and clubs must be referred to him and his decisions accepted by all parties as final. Negotiations between players and clubs regarding compensation under their contracts, however, were specifically omitted from referability to him.

In the joint meeting at Los Angeles, the 1947 All-Star game was set for July 8 in Chicago and the choice of all the players, except pitchers, was returned to the fans, whose ballots, through press and radio, are to decide the personnel of the teams. The right to name the pitchers was reserved for the managers.

Forty-Fifth Annual Convention of Minors

RETIREMENT of Judge W. G. Bramham as president of the National Association after 14 years in office, unanimous election of George M. Trautman, executive vice-president of the Detroit Tigers and former head of the American Association, to succeed him and the adoption of new five-year pacts with the majors marked the forty-fifth annual convention of the minors at Los Angeles, Calif., December 4-6. Forty-two of the 43 leagues starting the 1946 season qualified, with more than 50 circuits planned for 1947.

Bramham announced his retirement because of ill health two years short of the completion of his term, and was voted $10,000 annually for the remainder of his life as consultant to the president. After tabling a proposal by Frank Lawrence, president of the Portsmouth Piedmont League club, that the National Association be dissolved and the entire administration of the minors be merged with Commissioner A. B. Chandler's office, Trautman was unanimously elected as Bramham's successor for five years at the same salary of $25,000. Trautman subsequently moved the headquarters of the minors from Durham, N. C., to Columbus, Ohio.

Billy Evans, president of the Southern Association, was named the representative of the AA and A leagues on the Executive Committee, replacing Thomas Richardson, head of the Eastern, whose term expired. However, shortly after the close of the convention, Evans was appointed general manager of the Detroit Tigers and Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Southern Association club, was named to succeed him. Clarence Rowland, president of the Pacific Coast League, was chosen as chairman, which automatically made him vice-president of the National Association.

Arthur Ehlers resigned as promotional director and L. H. Addington as director of the publicity bureau. The positions remained vacant until the new president named their successors.

Four classifications raised their salary limits—A's to $4,250, B's to $3,600, C's to $2,800, and D's to $2,250. Prices for the transfer of umpires to the majors were set, the draft and purchase amounts being identical, at $5,000 from Class AAA, $4,000 from AA, $3,000 from A, $2,000 from B, $1,500 from C, and $1,000 from D. Waivers were eliminated as a requirement for leagues below Class A, except for National Defense Service players.

In a move to rehabilitate the treasury of the National Association, the two per cent fee on transactions, imposed before the war, was restored.

Adoption of a new Major-Minor League Agreement and Major-Minor

League Rules, which, previously since 1942, had been extended from year to year, cemented relations between the big and little circuits for five more years and, incidentally, ended a long disagreement between the two organizations over territorial protection.

The majors had consistently stood against any changes that would require them to pay more than $5,000 to the league they invaded and a reasonable compensation to the city whose club was taken over, or an amount fixed by the commissioner. However, they finally accepted at Los Angeles the principle the league invaded also should receive equitable compensation, to be decided, in case of disagreement, by a seven-man board of arbitration, but refused to make a concession demanded by the Pacific Coast League that the circuit affected first consent to the move. The Coast league also again was refused recognition as a major circuit.

In determining the life of the new agreement, the commissioner's term no longer is a factor. Instead, provision was made that all the powers and duties of the commissioner, in the event of his death, resignation or incapacity, rest with a Major-Minor League Executive Council, consisting of members of the Major League Executive Council and the president of the National Association and members of the Executive Committee. The minors also were given the privilege of terminating the Agreement before the five-year period, if three-fourths of the National Association members so vote at an annual meeting.

In addition to providing for the status of "bonus players," as explained in the account of the majors' meetings, chief changes made in the new pacts, as affecting the minors, are: Requiring all B, C and D clubs to have on their active lists at all times during the playing season no fewer than six non-selection players and defining non-selection players as those not subject to draft from the club with which they played, until the close of the current season; restrictions on signing of high school players; authorizing clubs to designate players for unrestricted selection; setting September 15 as the deadline for selections under working agreements, instead of five days prior to the close of the season of the club from which the selection is made, and the same date as the deadline for allowing options to be recalled, instead of September 10; forbidding optional agreements between competing clubs; prohibiting reacquirement of players assigned outright to a club of lower classification after being credited with three seasons' optional service, except after he has gone through the draft; elimination of closed period from August 1 to October 31 in which players could not be reinstated from voluntary retirement; requiring minor leagues be granted representation in any joint meetings of majors when they are considering amendments to the Major-Minor Agreement or Rules.

REESE, WAITKUS IN "BELIEVE IT OR NOT" FEAT

An oddity that would make even Robert L. Ripley of "Believe It or Not" fame envious occurred during the 1946 National League season. Two infielders established club fielding marks for their respective positions by breaking, in each instance, the record of none other than their own manager.

Pee Wee Reese, scrappy Dodger shortstop, fielded at a .9664 clip in 152 games to set an all-time Brooklyn record for the position. His remarkable efficiency erased the club's previous high for a shortstop—.9662—made by Leo Durocher, his pilot, in 141 games in 1938.

Charlie Grimm, Cub skipper, had a similar experience. In 1933 Grimm had a .99625 fielding average for 104 games at first base to set a Chicago N.L. team record. But this likewise was wiped out by his 1946 protege, Eddie Waitkus, who turned in a .99628 job in 106 games.

Thirteenth Annual All-Star Game

AFTER a year's interruption because of war travel restrictions, the All-Star game was resumed at Fenway Park, Boston, July 9, 1946. The American League representatives, gaining their ninth victory in 13 games, scored the most overwhelming triumph of the series, which started in Chicago in 1933, by crushing the luminaries from the National, 12 to 0. The shutout was the first scored by the American League, and the second in the 13 games. The contest drew a capacity crowd of 34,906, and a net gate of $89,071.

Ted Williams, who was to be a flop in the World's Series later in the year, had his big day in the Hub in the midsummer classic and put on a magnificent show. He was Ted Williams at his best, hitting two homers, two singles and drawing a walk in five times up, while scoring four runs and driving in five. The Boston outfielder came out of the game with a raft of new All-Star records.

Williams' first homer, off Kirby Higbe of the Dodgers in the fourth inning, was a terrific smash into the center field bleachers. In the eighth, batting against one of Pirate Rip Sewell's bloopier pitches, in which the batsman must supply his own power, Ted hit into the right field bullpen, with Kramer and Stephens on bases. Charlie Keller of the Yankees put the Americans ahead in the first inning when he bashed a homer into the right field stands after Williams drew a walk.

FIRST INNING

Nationals—After fouling off five pitches, Schoendienst grounded out to Vernon at first. Musial was safe when Pesky threw low to Vernon. It was an error. Hopp beat out a hit down the third base line, Musial holding up at second. Walker went out, Doerr to Vernon. Kurowski struck out, swinging at a fast ball. No runs, one hit, one error.

Americans—DiMaggio bounced out to Mize at first. Schoendienst tossed out Pesky. Williams went to the full count and then drew a walk. Keller walloped a home run into the right field stands, Williams scoring ahead of him. Marion threw out Doerr. Two runs, one hit, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Nationals—Mize popped to Pesky at short. Walker Cooper beat out a hit to deep short, just beating Pesky's fine throw. Marion struck out, swinging. Passeau was called out on strikes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Americans—Vernon rolled out, Marion to Mize. Keltner walked. Hayes lined to Marion, who threw to Mize in time to double Keltner off first and retire the side. No runs, no hits, no errors.

THIRD INNING

Nationals—Schoendienst flied to Williams in left. Musial popped to Doerr. Hopp flied to DiMaggio in deep center field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Americans—Luke Appling batted for Feller and bounced out, Passeau to Mize. DiMaggio dumped a single into center. Pesky rapped into a double play, Schoendienst to Marion to Mize. No runs, one hit, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Nationals—Newhouser went in to pitch for the American leaguers, Rosar to catch and Spence to center field. Walker went out, Vernon to Newhouser, who covered first. Kurowski swung at a third strike. Frank McCormick batted for Mize and flied to Spence in center field. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Americans—Kirby Higbe went to the mound for the Nationals, Phil Masi took over the catching and McCormick went to first. With the count two balls and one strike, Williams smashed a terrific home run into the center field bleachers. Keller was called out on strikes. Doerr fouled out to Kurowski near third base. Vernon flied to Walker in right. One hit, one run, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Nationals—Stephens went in at short for the Americans, Gordon to second, York to first and Stirnweiss on third, a complete new infield. Masi went out, Stephens to York. Marion flied to Keller near the right field line. Higbe swung at a third strike. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Americans—Stirnweiss struck out, swinging. Rosar slashed a single into left field. Newhouser dropped a lazy single into right-center field, sending Rosar to third and Newhouser took second on Hopp's throw in to Kurowski at third. Spence was purposely passed, loading the bases. Stephens doubled down the right field line, scoring Rosar and Newhouser. Williams singled to left, scoring Spence and sending Stephens to third. Ewell Blackwell relieved Higbe for the Nationals. Keller rapped to McCormick, who threw to Masi at the plate and Stephens was run down, Masi to Kurowski. Both Williams and Keller advanced on a wild pitch. Marion threw out Gordon. Three runs, four hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Nationals—Gustine batted for Schoendienst and went out swinging. Ennis batted for Musial and also whiffed. Lowrey batted for Hopp and lined a single into center field, the first clean hit for the Nationals. Walker fouled to Rosar. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Americans—Gustine was at second for the Nationals. Ennis in left field, Lowrey in center field and Enos Slaughter in right. York singled into right. Stirnweiss forced him at second, Gustine to Marion. Rosar forced Stirnweiss, Kurowski to Gustine. Bill Dickey batted for Newhouser and was called out on strikes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Nationals—Kramer took the mound for the Americans, with Hal Wagner catching and Sam Chapman in center field. Kurowski flied out to Chapman. Phil Cavarretta batted for McCormick and struck out, swinging at a high, hard one. Masi bounced out, Stephens to York. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Americans—Cavarretta went to first base for the Nationals. Chapman flied out to Lowrey in deep center. Marion took Stephen's sizzler and threw him out. Williams scratched a single off Cavarretta's glove. Keller drew a walk on the full count. Gordon lashed a double high off the left wall, scoring Williams and Keller. York popped out to Marion on the grass. Two runs, two hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Nationals—Marion struck out. Lamanno batted for Blackwell and went out, Gordon to York. Gustine walked. Ennis struck out. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Americans—Sewell went in to pitch for the Nationals. Stirnweiss singled into left. Wagner flied out to Lowrey in deep center. Kramer singled off the left field wall, sending Stirnweiss to third. Chapman flied out to Lowrey, Stirnweiss scoring after the catch. Stephens scratched a single to second. Williams hit a home run into the right field bullpen, scoring Kramer and Stephens ahead of him. Keller fouled to Masi. Four runs, four hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Nationals—Lowrey went out, Stephens to York. Stephens also threw out Slaughter. Verban, batting for Kurowski, fouled to Wagner. No runs, no hits, no errors.

DRAFT SESSION IN 1946 SETS RECORD

An unprecedented $353,500 was paid out for a record-breaking number of 108 players in the 1946 draft. Twenty, at a cost of $184,000, were selected by the majors, including seven pitchers, four outfielders, three first basemen, three shortstops and one third baseman, second baseman and catcher. Fifteen came from AAA leagues, four from AA and one from B. The American League drew 14 and the National six.

Selected by American League clubs were: By Philadelphia, First Baseman Ferris Fain from San Francisco, First Baseman Richard Adams from Sacramento and Catcher Edmund Mutryn from Oklahoma City; by Cleveland, Outfielder Gus Zernial from Atlanta, Pitcher Lester Willis from Memphis and Pitcher Lyman Linde from Milwaukee; by Chicago, Outfielder Lloyd Christopher from Los Angeles, Pitcher Robert Gillespie from Dallas, Pitcher Earl Harrist from Syracuse and Pitcher Peter Gebrian from Indianapolis; by New York, Outfielder Clifford Mapes from Baltimore; by Boston, First Baseman Michael Rocco from Los Angeles; by St. Louis, Pitcher Glen Moulder from Montreal and Shortstop Frank Zak from Kansas City.

Draws by National League clubs included: By Cincinnati, Shortstop Virgil Stallcup from Louisville; by New York, Shortstop Jack Lohrke from San Diego and Outfielder Al White from Toledo; by Pittsburgh, Pitcher Kenneth Holcombe from Newark; by Boston, Second Baseman Daniel Murtaugh from Rochester; by St. Louis, Third Baseman William Sinram from Sunbury.

Distribution of the 88 players selected by the minor leagues and the total amounts involved follow:

AAA—$71,500 for 14 players, including five from AA, five from A, three from B and one from D.

AA—$21,500 for seven, including one from A, five from B and one from C.

A—$28,300 for 12, including 11 from B and one from D.

B—$36,200 for 38, including 29 from C and nine from D.

C—$12,000 for 17 from D.

Bob Feller

Did Feller Break Waddell's Strikeout Record?

DID Bob Feller actually set a new all-time strikeout record by whiffing 348 batters during the 1946 American League season? This was one of the chief topics of debate developing from the game's initial postwar campaign.

The Cleveland Indian speedballer's total eclipsed all previous marks from the 60.5-foot pitching distance, according to THE LITTLE RED BOOK, recognized for more than 20 years as the sport's unofficial records tome. The high was listed by that publication as 343, set by Rube Waddell with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1904.

However, research conducted during Feller's assault on the Waddell record raised doubt as to the authenticity of the 343 figure credited to the eccentric Athletic southpaw. Numerous discrepancies were brought to light in a check of box scores in various newspapers, and evidence points to 349 as the correct total of strikeouts by the Rube in 1904. This would mean that Feller fell one short in his sensational 1946 whiffing effort.

Official records of the American League's 1904 season are not available. The circuit was then only four years old, and its official figures were not kept until 1905. For that reason A. L. officials continued to string along with the 343 mark. Commenting on the question, Earl J. Hilligan, chief of the league's service bureau, declared: "We are accepting 343 as Waddell's record. Have yet to receive any definite proof it was otherwise. It would be unfair to change the record at this late date without absolutely unchallengeable evidence."

The RED BOOK total, according to Ernest J. Lanigan, veteran historian and statistician of the game, was reached by George Moreland. Another of the sport's early historians, Moreland operated a statistical bureau in Pittsburgh early in the century. Charles D. White, also a veteran statistician, is believed to have accepted the Moreland findings in compiling the original RED BOOK figures.

Waddell, in establishing his mark, appeared in 46 games in 1904. All compilations and box scores agree in 36 of these 46 tilts. It is in the ten others that the discrepancies occur. In two instances, however, all of the half dozen or more newspapers checked for THE SPORTING NEWS in the Library of Congress by George Zielke, Washington correspondent for the Toledo Blade and Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, fail to agree with Moreland's compilation.

These two games are the May 17 contest against St. Louis and the June 22 tilt versus Boston. Moreland listed five whiff victims by Waddell for the first game; box scores in all other sources, including THE SPORTING NEWS, Sporting Life, the North American, Press and Inquirer of Philadelphia, and the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, show only four. The Press even names the victims: Burkett, Heidrick, Jones, Padden.

While Moreland claimed two strikeouts for the Rube on June 22, the above-named papers, as well as the Boston Globe, give three. Three papers carry play-by-play on the two innings Waddell worked, and agree that LaChance and Young struck out in the first and O'Neill in the second.

According to THE SPORTING NEWS box score for June 17, George Edward Waddell struck out ten at Detroit. However, all four Philadelphia papers in the Library of Congress list nine striketouts in both the box scores and stories. The Detroit Free Press also credits nine and names the victims: Barrett, Lowe, Greminger 2, Buelow 2, Killian 2, O'Leary.

On June 25, against Washington, Waddell had six victims, according to Moreland and Sporting Life, but a check in THE SPORTING NEWS, three Philadelphia papers and all three Washington sheets shows him with seven. The Philadelphia North American also makes a point of Rube's strikeouts in the story, indicating its reporter was keeping an eye on that feature.

On the other hand, the Philadelphia Press, while making no particular mention of whiffs, lists under strikeouts in the box score the following Washington players: Coughlin, Orth, McCormick, Stahl 2, Townsend, while the Ledger carries the same list but omits the "2" after Stahl. This leads to the belief that the Press also likely dropped a "2" behind another player's name to miss a seventh victim. Ossie Schreck, the A's catcher, had eight putouts in the game, one of which was in a double play.

The next instance where the compilations are at variance is June 30, at Boston. THE SPORTING NEWS file shows only two whiffs for Waddell, but all Philadelphia and Boston papers carry five. The Boston Herald names the victims: Freeman, O'Neill, LaChance 2, Ferris. The Boston Globe carries the same five in its play-by-play account: Freeman in the first, O'Neill and LaChance in the second, LaChance and Ferris in the fourth.

One of the most obvious discrepancies discovered in the original Moreland-White-RED BOOK compilation was in the July 23 game, when Rube pitched against Cleveland. Waddell was credited with only two strikeouts in this game, but all four Philadelphia papers as well as the Cleveland Plain Dealer give him nine. The Ledger and Press name the victims: Turner 2, Bay, Bemis 3, Moore 3.

Leonard Gettelson, a baseball figure filbert from Long Branch, N. J., who compiled THE SPORTING NEWS Dope Book of 1942 and therein listed Waddell's 1904 strikeout record as 352, claims to have found a list of 11 strikeouts for Waddell on July 23. The two additional whiffs were by Bay, says Gettelson. However, as Catcher Ossie Schreck had only nine putouts and no assists or errors, it is highly improbable that the A's lefthander could have had more than nine strikeouts.

On September 1, Waddell is credited with ten strikeouts in all box scores, except in the Philadelphia Inquirer and Record. The North American made a point of the ten in its lead, and the Ledger and Press name the victims: Peltz 2, Hemphill 2, Wallace, Hynes, Moran, Sugden, Glade 2. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat and the New York Times concur.

A peculiar error was discovered by Allen Lewis, Philly Inquirer scribe, for the September 5 Labor Day game in New York. Virtually all box scores give Waddell one strikeout that day, although the New York Times and New York Herald agree that he fanned no one. Play-by-play accounts in those journals, as well as in two Philly papers, verify the claim that none whiffed against the Rube in his one-third inning stint.

The accounts state that Rube walked the first New York batter up in the game, Dougherty. Keeler then sacrificed. On Kid Elberfeld's single to right, Dougherty scored. Williams hit to left and Anderson to center, the latter scoring Elberfeld, and that was all for Waddell. Chief Bender relieved the Rube, fanned Ganzel, and got Conroy on a fly to end the inning.

The play-by-play makes it appear the writer who compiled the score inadvertently credited Ganzel's whiff to Waddell instead of Bender.

Against New York, September 9, Waddell's third start in four days netted him five strikeouts, according to five Philadelphia and two New York papers, although Moreland and Sporting Life credit him with only four. The Philly Press' box score, however, names the five victims: Dougherty, Elberfeld, Conroy, McGuire 2.

In the next start, September 12, against Boston, Rube is given six whiffs by the Moreland compilation, four in THE SPORTING NEWS file and five in five Philadelphia papers. The box scores of the Ledger, Inquirer and North American specifically credit him with five.

The Ledger's box score lists Waddell's victims as LaChance, Ferris, Farrell, Freeman and Gibson. The Inquirer, in its play-by-play on the three innings Rube pitched, relates that Ferris and Farrell fanned in the second and Freeman and Gibson in the third. This journal failed to tell what happened to LaChance, third out in the first inning. While the Boston Globe, in its account of the first inning, says "Freeman and LaChance went out on weak infield hits," the Philadelphia North American is explicit on this crucial batter: "LaChance fanned."

As noted, in most of these disputed games there is disagreement in only one or two of the many sources checked. This leads to the belief the figure which does not agree likely was a typographical error. In fact, 20 years hence a similar question may be raised about Feller's record, since a box score mistake occurred in his August 24 game against the A's. While the original box score issued lists four whiffs for Bob, the play-by-play and official score show he had five in that contest.

On the basis of evidence presented, Waddell's 1904 total would be established at 349 strikeouts—rather than the 343 given him in the record books. This would leave Feller one short at 348, and the Rube thus would still hold all-time whiff honors from the present pitching distance.

In checking Waddell's strikeout total, other discrepancies were discovered in his 1904 figures. Whereas the records show 25 wins and 19 defeats, the box scores give him only 18 setbacks. His three no-decision games were August 23, September 5 and September 15. Since the A's went on to win the latter pair after Waddell was removed, it appears he was tagged with the August 23 setback. However, Waddell was removed for a pinch-litter in the last half of the ninth and Chief Bender went in to lose the game to Cleveland in the tenth, 4 to 3.

Historic Greenberg Waiver Deal

IN its first issue of the year (January 1, 1947), THE SPORTING NEWS published a dispatch from New York, reporting that — "Hank Greenberg would like to come to the Yankees and finish his career at first base. If he decides on returning to Detroit this year, he will insist on playing in the outfield.

"If he plays with the Tigers, he will demand a salary of $75,000, chiefly because the 1946 Detroit club drew 1,700,000 at home and over a million on the road, and he believes he had quite a lot to do with that.

"He would be more than delighted if he were able to wind up his career in the Bronx. With the Tigers he definitely would not return to first base, but with the Yankees he would be delighted to take over the position. The Tigers have to make up their minds if they want him at the $75,000 rate."

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The above story, written by Dan Daniel, New York correspondent of THE SPORTING NEWS, was accompanied by a two-column picture of Greenberg, captioned: "Preview of What's To Come?" and with the underline, "Hank Greenberg Admiring Yankee Flannels." The picture was taken August 26, 1943, when Hank appeared at Yankee Stadium with an Army team for a War Bond game, and showed Hank wearing the khaki of his Army days. However, some observers apparently gained the impression the picture was of recent origin, and it aroused considerable comment, especially in Detroit.)

Since Greenberg would apparently much rather play elsewhere, the Tigers decided to accommodate him. Waivers were asked and when all American League clubs had waived by January 17, Hank was immediately sold to the Pittsburgh Pirates for an estimated $35,000.

No trickery was resorted to in the waiver request. Only one player was mentioned and the player was Greenberg. Furthermore, it was the fifth time within thirteen months that the club had asked waivers on Greenberg although the only time when his name appeared alone.

The first time Greenberg was included in a waiver list was in January, 1946. The Chicago White Sox showed some interest in him. The Sox were doubtful whether Hal Trosky could make a successful comeback, and they had no assurance that their recruit first baseman, Murrell Jones, would be able to deliver. But when the Sox discovered that Greenberg's 1945 contract called for a salary of $55,000, their interest vanished.

Chicago was the only American League club that ever contacted Detroit regarding Greenberg. His name appeared on three more waiver lists before the close of 1946 and each time all clubs waived. They likewise waived in January, 1947, after they learned that Greenberg had been paid a salary of $55,000 for 1946 and wanted it increased to $75,000 for 1947.

Greenberg signed for $55,000 in 1941. He was drafted by the Army in May, after playing 19 games. He resumed at the same salary when he rejoined the club in mid-season of 1945 after his discharge. He signed for the same pay in 1946.

Two statements accompanied the announcement of Greenberg's sale to the Pirates. One was signed by Walter O. Briggs, president and sole owner of the Tigers, the other by Billy Evans who, a week previously, had been installed as general manager of the Detroit club.

"In the light of recent happenings," said Briggs, "it was felt that a change in scenery might prove beneficial to Player Hank Greenberg and the Detroit club. The culmination was the outright assignment of his contract to the Pittsburgh club of the National League."

Evans said, in part: "His going to Pittsburgh will give him a chance to perform in new fields. That ought to be a happy solution to Greenberg's problems.

"In order to bring about his transfer to Pittsburgh, it was necessary that the player first be waived out of the American League. This meant that any of the seven other clubs in the American League could have acquired Greenberg's contract and services by claiming him on waivers—at the waiver price of $10,000. No American League club was interested in his contract at that figure."

On the day after the newspapers published the story of Greenberg's sale to Pittsburgh, a telegram arrived at Briggs Stadium in Detroit, reading as follows: "I expect immediate payment of cash bonus of $20,000 as provided for in my contract."

It was signed by Greenberg and it then became known that Hank had caused to be written into his 1946 contract the strangest bonus clause any baseball contract ever carried. It provided that if the club released him, assigned his contract elsewhere, or if he retired, he was to be paid a cash bonus of $20,000. What is more, Greenberg had the clause changed on August 20 so that it covered future seasons, making the club liable beyond 1946.

Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, while commissioner of baseball, ruled that all contract clauses expire with the contract. The clause that Greenberg had rewritten in August carried over to the end of his career and covered every contingency. The club sent him the bonus money the next day, but that did not conclude Hank's arguments with the Tigers. One week after his sale to Pittsburgh he went on the radio on a national hookup and told his unseen audience that he had applied for the position of general manager on December 16. He was asked what answer he received and replied: "I never got any answer."

The following day Walter O. Briggs issued a statement: "A thorough search of the files of the Detroit Baseball Company fails to reveal a letter which Henry Greenberg says he addressed to me under date of December 16.

"Had I received such a letter I would have replied that as a successor to Mr. (George) Trautman as general manager, I desired a man with executive baseball experience, a qualification which Mr. Greenberg obviously does not possess.

"Just why Mr. Greenberg wrote me such a letter on December 16 is a little difficult to understand inasmuch as it was announced to press and radio on December 14 that the position had been tendered to Billy Evans."

When Greenberg's attention was called to the discrepancy in dates, he said that he might have been mistaken as to the date. Later he thought that he had mailed the letter on December 5 and sent to Mr. Briggs' home, marked "Personal."

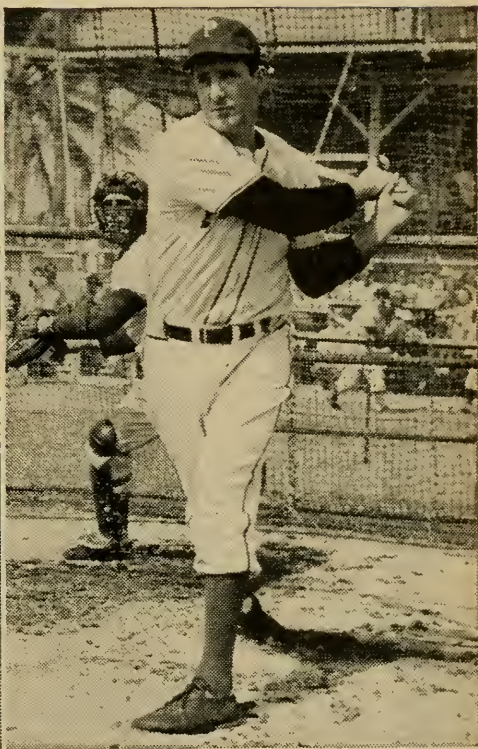

It so happens that all letters received at the Briggs' home and addressed to W. O. Briggs are taken to Briggs Stadium and turned over to a secretary, who passes any personal letters to Mr. Briggs. The secretary said positively that no letter from Greenberg, applying for the position of general manager, was ever received.

While all this was going on the Pittsburgh club tried to sign Greenberg. A few days after the deal was completed, President Frank E. McKinney offered Greenberg a salary of $55,000. This was turned down, the player informing the club chief that he had decided not to play in the National League.

McKinney raised his offer to $60,000, but Greenberg still refused to change his decision. McKinney kept raising the ante and finally reached $80,000. Greenberg agreed to play for this amount. He was to have attended the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Baseball Writers on February 9 and sign the contract there. The pen he was to use would be auctioned off.

Greenberg planned to fly to Pittsburgh on the day of the dinner, but he stayed in New York instead and announced that he was considering retirement from baseball rather than start anew in a strange environment.

John Galbreath, a wealthy real estate dealer of Columbus, O., had bought an interest in the Pittsburgh club in the summer of 1946. Galbreath is also prominent in thoroughbred racing and owns the well-known Darby Dan Farm in Kentucky. He accompanied McKinney to the Greenberg apartment in New York when McKinney finally told Hank to write his own salary figure.

After Greenberg publicly announced he was considering retirement from the game, the Pittsburgh club turned the matter over to Galbreath and empowered him to go to any financial length to secure Greenberg's signature to a Pittsburgh contract. Twelve days later it was announced that Greenberg had reconsidered his decision to retire and had signed with the Pirates.

The story behind Greenberg's capitulation was that Galbreath finally raised his offer to $100,000 basic salary for a one-year contract and, as a bonus, the choice of any yearling at the Darby Dan Farm as a gift to Mrs. Greenberg, the former Caral Gimbel.

Mrs. Greenberg has been prominently identified with horse shows. She personally showed some of the best in the past. Galbreath therefore stipulated that if Mrs. Greenberg did not care to make the selection of a yearling herself, she could employ any recognized thoroughbred expert to do the selecting. Since the Galbreath yearlings are valued from $10,000 to $25,000, the offer was more than tempting.

Hank packed his bags and left for the Pirates training camp.

ADHERING to a formula inaugurated by the Cardinals in their first World's Series of 1926, the St. Louis National League titleholders maintained their record of annexing all of their Series that went the limit by sweeping over a more highly-rated Boston Red Sox team, four games to three, in the forty-third annual fall classic staged in 1946. Edwin Hawley Manager Eddie Dyer (center) and Owner Sam Breadon (right) with Commissioner A. B. Chandler after Cardinals' Series victory.

Dyer, a freshman in the ranks of Big Time commanders, piloted the victorious Redbirds as Joe Cronin's American League champions became the first Hub representative ever to bow in the blue-ribbon competition.

The '46 Series marked the fourth successive time a Mound City entry gained the game's highest honors in full-limit series. In 1926 the Cardinals took the sixth and seventh games to win the crown from the Yankees; in 1931 the Redbirds captured the seventh game from the Athletics, and in 1934 the Frank Frisch Gas House Gang grabbed the sixth and seventh games at the expense of Detroit.

Dyer's hustling aggregation, moving ahead of the Red Sox and A's in number of World's Championships, showed uncanny prowess in comeback ability to gain the long end of the victors' purse. The Birds lost the first game, another long-standing habit, and also dropped the third and fifth tilts.

Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, courageous southpaw from Broken Bow,

Okla., pitched them back into the running in the second and sixth contests, while Righthander George Munger, aided by a 20-hit Cardinal bombardment, was an easy victor in the fourth fray.

In the seventh and deciding battle, Brecheen, winner over Mickey Harris twice by scores of 3 to 0 and 4 to 1, also responded to a hurry-up call for help from Boss Dyer in the eighth inning to emerge a three-game victor and hero of the classic. While he didn't preserve the lead passed on to him by Murry Dickson in the eighth frame, Brecheen maintained the one-run advantage given to him in the last half of that inning on hits by Enos Slaughter and Harry Walker and a spectacular dash around the hassocks by the Cardinal speedboy, Slaughter.

With Bob Klinger on the mound as the Redbirds came to bat in the eighth, Slaughter singled, but Kurowski and Rice went out. Walker then came through with a safety to left-center, and Enos made a three-base dash to the plate, much to the surprise and chagrin of the Red Sox and Shortstop Johnny Pesky, whose delay in relaying to the plate proved fatal, the ball arriving too late to snare the fleetfooted Cardinal.

Rudy York and Bobby Doerr did their best to keep Brecheen from entering the list of three-game Series winners. In the ninth both singled, but Pinky Higgins hit into a force play attempting to sacrifice, Partee fouled out and McBride, pinch-hitting, forced Higgins to wind up the Series.

ing encounter, had responded with a single that sent the game into overtime and eventually gave York a chance to become a Boston hero by dissolving a 2 to 2 tie in the tenth inning with a home run off Howie Pollet. York gained additional honors in the third game with another home run—this time with two aboard—off Dickson in the first inning. And Rudy also scored the Sox only tally in the sixth game after tripling. The former Tiger led his club in batting in runs and in total bases.

Doerr, kept out of one game and part of another by headaches, produced safeties in all six contests in which he played. No other player had a similar record. Dom DiMaggio missed connections with the base-hit column in the fourth game, Stan Musial in the second. Walker was ciphired in the sixth scrap; he didn't bat in the second.

Walker led the Series hitters with a mark of .412 and added the finishing touches to six tallies, one more than York batted across. Doerr compiled an average of .409. York was the only player to uncork hits of all dimensions.

Ted Williams was the big batting disappointment of the Series, emerging with five hits, all singles, and an average of .200. The Cardinals employed a variation of the Boudreau shift against Ted and it failed to work only once. That was in the third game when Ted bunted down the unprotected third-base line. He drove in only one run—against Pollet in the first inning of the fifth game—but the drive was sufficient to make the southpaw from New Orleans abdicate in favor of Al Brazle, who fanned Williams twice. Other whiffs came from Harry the Cat (twice) and Dickson.

Enos (Country) Slaughter emerged as the Spartan hero of the classic. He chipped in with four safeties in the fourth combat. After grounding out his first time up in the fifth game, Country was hit on the elbow by a Joe Dobson slant. The extent of the bruise did not show up at once, for Enos immediately stole second. But in the seventh inning he had to quit and there were fears in the St. Louis camp that he would be forced out of further competition in the Series.

However, Slaughter was back in action in the last two games, despite his doctor's advice to the contrary, getting a hit in each tilt and scoring the run that clinched the title.

Of the starting pitchers, only Brecheen lasted through both games in which he got the nod from his manager. Pollet went the route for the Dyer men in the opener, but was badly mauled in the fifth game, failing to last through the first inning. Dickson had to be withdrawn twice, once for a pinch-hitter and once because the contest was in danger. Munger went the route in his one start, being supplied with 12 runs as the Cards broke their single-game scoring record for a Series game. They made 11 tallies against Detroit in 1934, ten against New York eight years prior to that.

Joe Cronin got three well-pitched games out of his staff, Dave Ferriss coming through with a shutout, Dobson delivering a three-run, four-hit performance in which his support was unsteady, and Tex Hughson and Earl Johnson collaborating artistically in the game that opened the Series. Harris was twice a disappointment, while Hughson and Ferriss, in their second starts, failed to last.

OFFICIAL SCORE OF FIRST GAME

October 6, at St. Louis

For the eighth time in nine fall classics the Cardinals began their World's Series operations by losing, York's tenth-inning homer off Pollet setting them back, 3 to 2. The Cards had a 2 to 1 edge when the ninth round started, but then a false bound of a roller by Higgins and an eleventh-hour rap by McBride tied up things. York's four-bagger, with a count of two balls and no strikes, untied the knot.

center. York flied to Moore. Doerr fouled to Kurowski. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Pollet fouled to H. Wagner. Schoendienst scratched a single past second. Moore was thrown out by Doerr, Schoendienst moving to second. Musial doubled off the right field wall, scoring Schoendienst, and took third on McBride's faulty return to the infield. Slaughter was intentionally passed. Kurowski was hit by a pitched ball. Garagiola struck out. One run, two hits, one error.

SEVENTH INNING

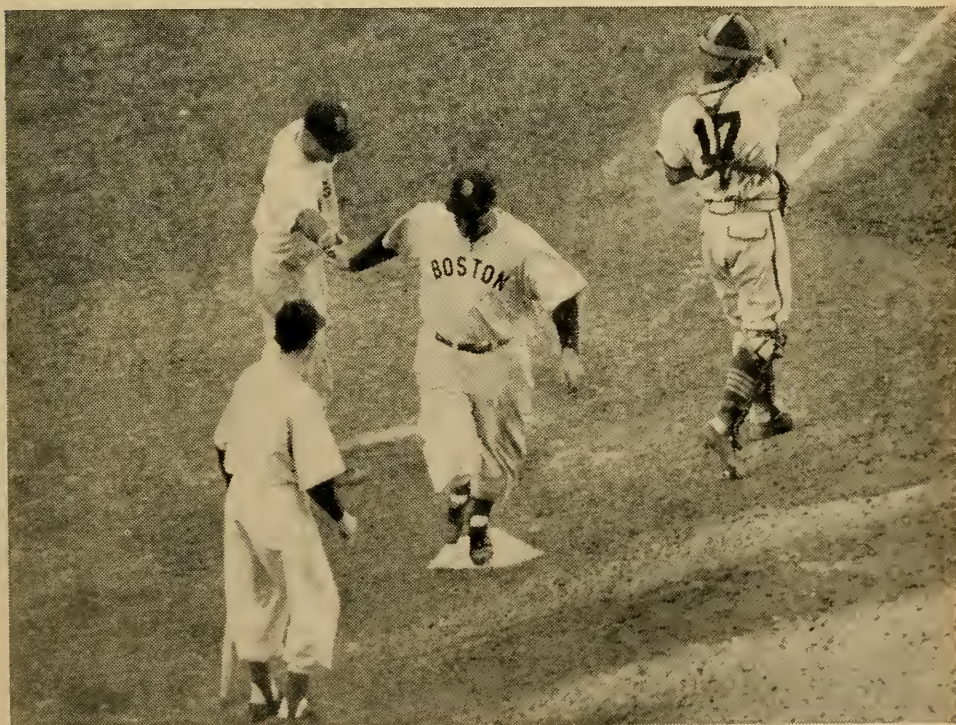

Boston—Higgins was thrown out by Marion and H. Wagner by Schoendienst. Hughson walked. McBride was thrown out by Schoendienst. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Walker walked and Marion sacrificed him to second, H. Wagner to Doerr covering first base. Pollet gazed at a third strike. Schoendienst beat out a hit to the left of the mound, putting Walker on third, and then stole second. Moore flied to Williams. No runs, one hit, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Boston—Pesky flied to Slaughter. DiMaggio singled to center and perished at second trying to stretch the hit, Moore to Schoendienst, after the Cardinal captain momentarily fumbled the ball. Williams walked. York lifted a high foul to Garagiola. No runs, one hit, no errors.

St. Louis—Musial grounded to York. Slaughter lifted to Higgins. Kurowski singled past third. Garagiola sent a fly to center, which DiMaggio lost in the sun for a double, Kurowski scoring from first, but Garagiola was cut down trying for third, DiMaggio to Pesky to Higgins. One run, two hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Boston—Doerr fanned. Higgins got a single to left when the ball took a freak bound through Marion's legs. Gutteridge ran for Higgins and took third when Russell, pinch-hitting for H. Wagner, singled to center. Partee, batting for Hughson, struck out. McBride singled between Marion and Kurowski, scoring Gutteridge and sending Russell to second. Pesky flied to Slaughter. One run, three hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Johnson pitching, Partee catching and Russell playing third for Boston. Dusak, batting for Walker, lifted to Williams. Marion fanned. Pollet laid down a bunt and was thrown out by Johnson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

TENTH INNING

Boston—Dusak went to left for St. Louis. DiMaggio was thrown out by Marion. Williams fouled to Musial. With the count two and nothing, York homered into the left field bleachers. Doerr singled to center and Johnson forced him, Schoendienst to Marion. One run, two hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Schoendienst reached first on Pesky's boot and was sacrificed along by Moore, who went out, Johnson to Doerr. Moses took McBride's place in right for Boston. Musial was thrown out by Doerr, Schoendienst going to third. Slaughter flied to Moses. No runs, no hits, one error.

OFFICIAL SCORE OF FOURTH GAME

Fourth Game

October 10, at Boston

With all nine players hitting safely and with three of them collecting four blows each, the Cardinals routed the American League champions, 12 to 3, behind effective box work by Munger. Slaughter, Kurowski and Garagiola evenly divided 12 of the 20 Redbird drives yielded by Hughson, Bagby, Zuber, Brown and Ryba. Dreisewerd was the only Boston hurler to escape punishment. The Redbirds' 20 safeties—good for 29 bases—tied a Series record set by the 1921 Giants, while the Red Sox equalled a mark by using 18 players during the nine-inning fray.

OFFICIAL SCORE OF SEVENTH GAME

Seventh Game

October 15, at St. Louis

A great bit of base running by Slaughter in the eighth inning, coupled with Brecheen's courageous relief pitching, gave the Cardinals the deciding game of the Series, 4 to 3. Slaughter's daring legwork saw him race all the way from first base to the plate on Walker's hit off Klinger to left-center as Pesky, not thinking Enos would take such a gamble, hesitated in relaying the ball home. Brecheen, relieving Dickson in the penultimate period, gained credit for his third Series victory.

FIRST INNING

Boston—Moses singled to center. Pesky singled over second, sending Moses to third. DiMaggio flied to Slaughter, Moses scoring after the catch. Williams flied to deep center and Moore, playing in right-center, had to go far to his right to make the catch. York popped to Schoendienst. One run, two hits, no errors.

SECOND INNING

Boston—Doerr beat out a high bounder to Kurowski and took second when the third baseman's low throw to first bounded away from Musial. Higgins was thrown out by Schoendienst, Doerr moving to third. H. Wagner and Ferriss flied to Walker. No runs, one hit, one error.

St. Louis—Kurowski doubled to left-center. Garagiola was thrown out by Doerr, Kurowski going to third and scoring when Walker lined to Williams. Marion rolled to Doerr. One run, one hit, no errors.

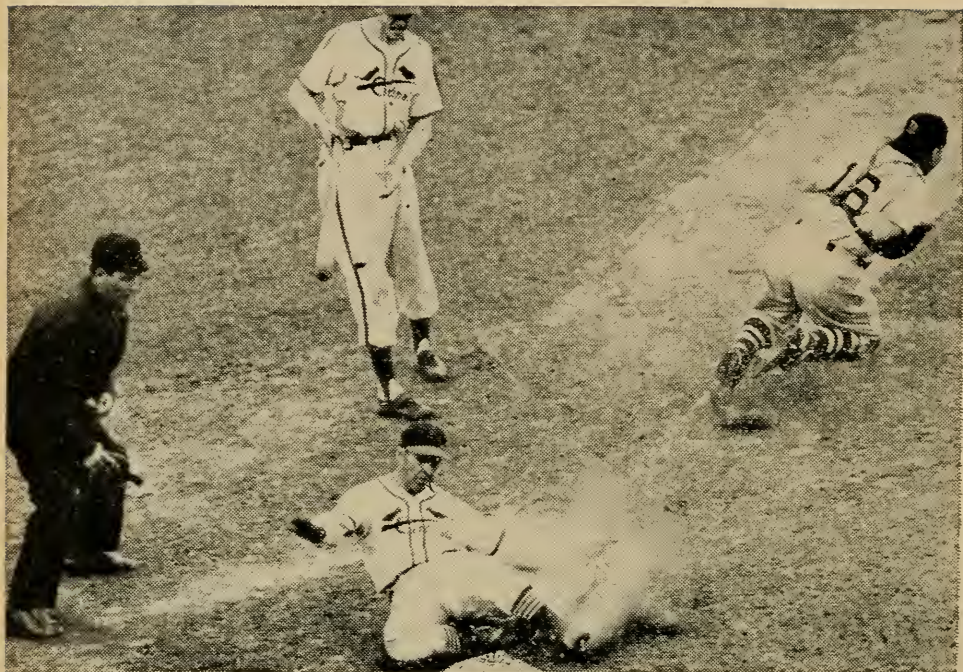

THIRD INNING

Boston—Moses fouled to Kurowski. Pesky grounded to Schoendienst. DiMaggio fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Dickson struck out. Schoendienst grounded to Pesky. Moore flied to Williams. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FOURTH INNING

Boston—Williams flied to Walker in deep center field. York fanned. Doerr flied to Slaughter. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Enos Slaughter tallying winning run in Series finale, with Marty Marion in background. Umpire is Al Barlick; catcher, Roy Partee.

St. Louis—Musial walked. Slaughter fouled to Pesky. Kurowski flied to Moses. Garagiola rolled to Doerr. No runs, no hits, no errors.

FIFTH INNING

Boston—Higgins flied to Moore, who made a spectacular backhanded running catch in left-center near the wall. H. Wagner fouled to Kurowski. Ferriss was thrown out by Dickson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Walker singled past Pesky. Marion sacrificed him to second, York to Doerr. Dickson doubled over third, scoring Walker. Schoendienst singled over second, scoring Dickson. Moore singled to center, Schoendienst halting at second. Dobson relieved Ferriss as the Boston pitcher. Musial was thrown out by Doerr, the runners advancing. Slaughter was purposely passed, filling the bases. Kurowski forced Slaughter, Higgins to Doerr. Two runs, four hits, no errors.

SIXTH INNING

Boston—Moses rolled to Musial. Pesky lined to Kurowski. DiMaggio walked. Williams lifted to Slaughter. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Garagiola fanned. Walker walked. Marion was thrown out by Doerr and so was Dickson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

SEVENTH INNING

Boston—York struck out. Doerr flied to Moore. Higgins grounded to Marion. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Schoendienst fanned. Moore flied to Doerr, who held the ball although Moses ran into him. Musial was thrown out by Dobson. No runs, no hits, no errors.

EIGHTH INNING

Boston—Russell, batting for H. Wagner, singled to center. Metkovich, batting for Dobson, doubled to left, sending Russell to third. Brecheen took Dickson's place as the St. Louis pitcher. Moses fanned. Pesky lined to Slaughter, whose quick throw kept the runners from advancing. DiMaggio doubled off the right-center field wall, scoring Russell and Metkovich, but Dom twisted his right ankle rounding first and Culberson ran for him. Garagiola split the third finger of his right hand on a foul tip from Williams' bat and Rice replaced him as the St. Louis catcher. Williams then popped to Schoendienst. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Klinger took Dobson's place as Boston's pitcher, Culberson went to center and Partee behind the bat. Slaughter singled to center. Kurowski, attempting a sacrifice, popped to Klinger. Rice flied to Williams. Walker hit a liner over Pesky's head, Slaughter scoring all the way from first when the Boston shortstop hesitated momentarily in relaying Culberson's throw to the plate, Walker reaching second for a two-base hit. Marion was purposely walked. Johnson replaced Klinger as the Boston pitcher. Brecheen rolled to Doerr. One run, two hits, no errors.

NINTH INNING

Boston—York singled to left and Campbell ran for him. Doerr singled to short left, Campbell pulling up at second. Higgins, trying to sacrifice, forced Doerr, Kurowski to Marion, Campbell advancing to third. Partee fouled to Musial. McBride, batting for Johnson, forced Higgins, Schoendienst to Marion. No runs, two hits, no errors.

Gloom in Red Sox clubhouse after the Series was heavy. The two chief mourners were Ted Williams (left) and Mickey Harris.

Head and Feller Pitched '46 No-Hitters

TWO no-hit games were hurled by ex-service pitchers in the first postwar season of 1946, and both were delivered in Greater New York in late April. Ed Head of the Dodgers, released from the Army in January, 1946, pitched the first one for Brooklyn against the Braves in a 5 to 0 victory at Ebbets Field, April 23, and exactly one week later, April 30, Bobby Feller of the Indians, a wartime Navy coxswain, hurled the second no-hitter of his career, blanking the Yankees at Yankee Stadium by a score of 1 to 0. Bob pitched his first against the Chicago White Sox on April 16, 1940, the opening game of that season.

Head's no-hitter was the first in the National League since 1944, when Jim Tobin of the Braves and Clyde Shoun each pitched nine-inning no-hit games and Tobin a second one of five innings. Head's masterpiece missed by only three days the anniversary of the game of April 27, 1944, when Jim Tobin baffled Brooklyn with his butterfly ball and held the Dodgers hitless, much to the disgust of Manager Leo Durocher.

The no-hit feat of Head marked his first appearance in the National League since July, 1944, just before he went into service. Four men reached base against him, three on walks and a fourth on Reese's fumble. Bunching ten hits off Mort Cooper, the Dodgers won for Head without much trouble. Ed, however, couldn't follow up this fine effort; he was plagued with a sore arm and was of little service to Brooklyn during the heat of the pennant race.

Feller's no-hitter was won in a pitching duel with Floyd Bevens of the Yankees, which was clinched in the ninth inning, when Bob's batterymate, Frank Hayes, lashed a home run into the left field stands.

Feller's no-hit game was the first in the American League since Dick Fowler of the Athletics, also a returned serviceman, pitched one against the St. Louis Browns, September 9, 1945. It was the first time the Yankees ever were held hitless at Yankee Stadium, and it was the first no-hitter recorded against the New York Americans since 1919, when Ray Caldwell, of Cleveland, an ex-Yankee, held them hitless, September 10.

FEDERAL JUDGE UPHOLDS GAME'S GIs

Postwar re-employment rights under the Selective Service Act of players who served in the military forces were upheld in a Federal Court test in 1946 when Al Niemiec, veteran second baseman, filed suit against the Seattle Pacific Coast League club. Niemiec, who rejoined the Rainiers in spring training after three years in the Navy, was released two weeks after the regular 1946 season opened. He was given 15 days' pay and first-class railroad fare to his Meriden, Conn., home, but his contract, calling for $720 per month, then was terminated. Niemiec later joined Providence of the Class B New England League for a brief time.

Although Organized Ball's regulations required that returning service men be carried only 30 days in spring training with 15 days of regular-season salary before they could be released or sent down, Federal Judge Lloyd L. Black of Seattle ruled in a decision handed down, June 21, that diamond performers were entitled to one year's employment at their former salary on returning from the service. As a result, the Seattle club was ordered to pay Niemiec his full season's salary, minus $75 earned while playing with Providence and $667 as a beer salesman for Emil Sick, owner of the Seattle club.

TWO PITCHERS MISS PERFECT GAME

Two National League pitchers—Charley (Red) Barrett of the Cardinals and Johnny Sain of the Braves—came within one blow of perfect games in 1946. An eighth-inning single by Del Ennis spoiled Barrett's bid, June 8, as he beat the Phillies, 7 to 0. A short fly to left field which fell between three teammates to give Grady Hatton a fluke double deprived Sain, July 12, as he stopped the Reds, 1 to 0. Both pitchers faced only 28 batters.

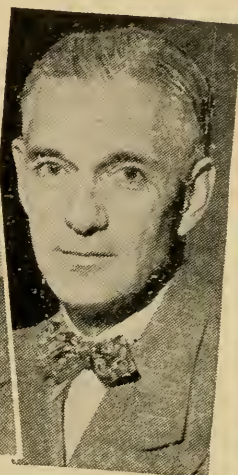

Big Managerial Turnover in Majors

Johnny Neun

Bucky Harris

Billy Herman

WITH intense interest in postwar baseball and great crowds at all the parks, competition for baseball's high places was keener than ever in 1946 and greater demands were made on the managers. Club owners had little patience with losers, and more managerial heads toppled during the playing season than ever before. Even some of the most distinguished names in the game were not spared.

The first managerial changes took place on the same day, May 24, in the two American League cities with the greatest populations—New York and Chicago—when two old standbys, Joe McCarthy of the Yankees and Jimmie Dykes of the White Sox, tendered their resignations. McCarthy was succeeded by the popular New York catcher, Bill Dickey, and Dykes by the equally popular Chicago pitching veteran, Ted Lyons.

McCarthy resigned while his club was on its way from Detroit to Boston, and at a time when the Yankees were trailing the Red Sox by five games. In his letter of resignation to President Larry MacPhail, McCarthy wrote: "My physician advises that my health would be seriously jeopardized if I continued, and this is the sole reason for my decision, which, as you know, is entirely voluntary on my part." Nevertheless, there were reports of friction between McCarthy and MacPhail, the New York owner, who had spent thousands in revamping Yankee Stadium, and was keenly desirous of celebrating the first postwar season with a winner.

Marse Joe had been director of the Yankees since 1931, and stepped down with one of the greatest managerial records of all time—eight firsts, four seconds, two thirds and one fourth, in his 15 complete seasons. From 1936 to 1943, inclusive, he won seven pennants in eight seasons, following up six of them with world's championships.

The tenure of Bill Dickey, Joe's successor, was short, as he resigned in Detroit, September 12, when MacPhail declined to assure him that he would be retained as manager for 1947. Johnny Neun, one of the team's coaches, then finished the remainder of September in command, the only time the Yankees ever had three managers in one season. Bucky Harris, with years of managerial experience with the Senators, Tigers, Red Sox and Phillies, was appointed to lead the team in 1947.

Jimmie Dykes had been in charge of the White Sox since May 9, 1934, when he succeeded Lew Fonseca. He was credited with obtaining excellent results with mediocre material, and finished third three times. Dykes had been ill during the training season; he underwent an operation for gallstones and had rejoined his club only a few weeks before he gave way to Lyons. The White Sox were a poor seventh at the time.

Luke Sewell, who managed the Browns to their only pennant in 1944 and finished third in 1945, was next on the list, resigning his St. Louis post August 31, despite the fact that his contract was to run until the end of the 1947 season. Zack Taylor, the team's veteran coach, became acting manager and he was succeeded for 1947 by Herold (Muddy) Ruel, former White Sox coach and more recently special assistant to Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

In the final week of the 1946 season, both Bill McKechnie of the Reds and Frankie Frisch of the Pirates stepped down. Bill finished sixth in the National League race and Frisch seventh. McKechnie had been manager of the Reds since 1938, and won two pennants and one world's championship. Frisch took charge of the Pirates in 1940, and lost out after the 1946 Pirates made their poorest finish in 29 years. McKechnie's successor is Johnny Neun, the Yankees' September manager, while the great second baseman, Billy Herman, will make his long deferred managerial debut with the 1947 Pirates. McKechnie landed with the Cleveland Indians as a coach, while Frisch signed to broadcast games of the New York Giants.

FELLER SETS MARK FOR LOW-HIT GAMES

Bob Feller established a new major league record for low-hit performances when he hurled one no-hitter and two one-hitters during the 1946 season. This gave the Cleveland ace a total of ten games in which he yielded less than two safeties, bettering by one the record of another ex-Indian star, Addie Joss.

Feller's initial no-hitter was against the White Sox on the opening day of the 1940 season, April 16, and the second against the Yankees, April 30, 1946. Both were 1 to 0 games. His list of one-hitters, and the blow which ruined his effort, follows:

April 20, 1938, vs. Browns, 9 to 0 (bunt by Billy Sullivan); May 25, 1939, vs. Red Sox, 11 to 0 (single by Bobby Doerr); June 27, 1939, vs. Tigers, 5 to 0 (single by Earl Averill); July 12, 1940, vs. Athletics, 1 to 0 (single by Dick Siebert); September 26, 1941, vs. Browns, 3 to 2 (bunt by Rick Ferrell); September 19, 1945, vs. Tigers, 2 to 0 (single by Jimmy Outlaw); July 31, 1946, vs. Red Sox, 4 to 1 (single by Bobby Doerr); August 8, 1946, vs. White Sox, 5 to 0 (single by Frank Hayes).

STRATTON WINS 18 GAMES IN COMEBACK

Despite the handicap of an artificial leg, Monty Stratton, one-time ace righthander of the Chicago White Sox, staged a successful pitching comeback with Sherman of the East Texas League in 1946. A hunting accident near his home town of Greenville, Tex., in the fall of 1938 cost Stratton his right leg and ended his major league mound career. However, Monty made the grade in 1946 with 18 victories against eight setbacks for a fifth-place Sherman team.

First Pennant Playoff in History of Majors

WITH the National League deadlocked at the end of the regular 1946 championship season, September 29, the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers each having 96 victories and 58 defeats, the first playoff series in major league history became necessary. In 1903, the Cubs won the National League flag by defeating the Giants in a post-season game, but that historic game of October 8 was not a playoff but a replay of a September 23 New York-Chicago contest, in which Fred Merkle failed to touch second as the Giants' "winning run" was driven home in the ninth inning. This replay was ordered by former National League President Harry Pulliam, in which action he was supported by the league's board of directors.

The National League constitution provides for the playing of a best two-out-of-three series in the event of a deadlock, such as existed at the close of the regular 1946 season. It also stipulates that the games and records of such a series shall go into the final standing of the clubs and the season's official averages. Getting Sam Breadon, president-owner of the Cardinals, and Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers, on two telephones, Ford Frick, league president, flipped a coin to decide which club would have the choice of the first game. Breadon called it incorrectly, and Durocher asked that the first game be played in St. Louis, which would give him the second and third games in Brooklyn, in the event a third contest was necessary.

However, whatever benefit Durocher expected to gain by playing a possible third game at home was lost when the Cardinals took the series in two successive games, winning in St. Louis, October 1, by a score of 4 to 2, and repeating in Brooklyn, 8 to 4, October 3. In both games, the Redbirds looked like the fresher, stronger club, and clearly demonstrated their season-long superiority over Flatbush's famous "Bums."

Eddie Dyer, St. Louis manager, won the first game with Howard Pollet, his ace lefthander, even though the slim southpaw was in no condition to give his best. He had a torn muscle in his left shoulder, which was tightly taped by Trainer Harrison Weaver before the game. Despite that handicap, Howie held the Dodgers to two runs and eight hits, while hanging up his twenty-first victory of the season.

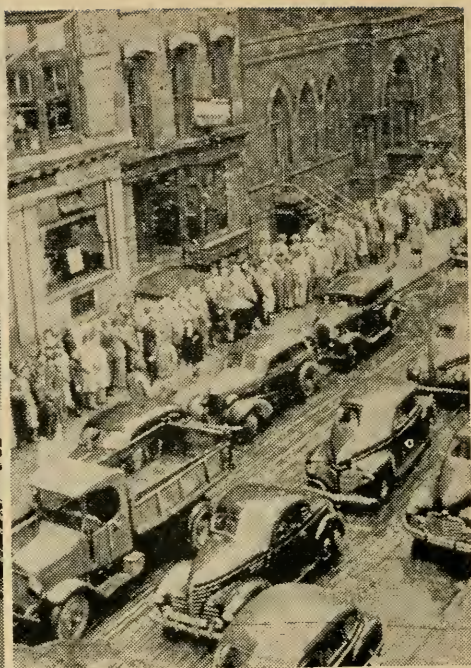

Howie Schultz accounted for both Dodger tallies, homering into the left field seats in the third and singling across the other run in the seventh. Joe Garagiola, 20-year-old catcher, was the Cardinal batting star. Garagiola drove in the first run with an infield single, produced an important bingle in the third-inning rally, and sent across the final run in the seventh with another hit.

Durocher started young Ralph Branca, who had pitched a brilliant shutout against St. Louis in Brooklyn, September 14, but this time the Redbirds tore into his fast ball early and scored three runs before Branca was knocked out in the third.

In the second game, played in Brooklyn, October 3, the Cards drove out Joe Hatten, brilliant freshman lefthander, in the fifth inning, and with an explosion of extra-base hits, including triples by Erv Dusak, Pitcher Murry Dickson and Enos Slaughter, they built up an 8 to 1 lead.

It was an afternoon of punishment for the 31,437 Brooklyn fans, for after scoring a run off Dickson in the first with the aid of a scratch hit, the Dodgers were helpless before the courageous little righthander in the next seven innings, getting no hits and putting only two runners on base on walks.

However, those fans who stayed for the last half of the ninth enjoyed a Dodger fans line up on Montague street seeking tickets for Brooklyn end of playoff series.

Sam Breardon peers out window to survey crowd at Cards' box office for playoff game ducats. At right, general view of ticket line.

MINORS' STRIKEOUT MARK SHATTERED

Bill Kennedy, southpaw of the Rocky Mount Rocks, broke an all-time minor league record in 1946 when he racked up a total of 456 strikeouts during the Coastal Plain League season. This erased the mark of 418 set by Virgil Trucks with Andalusia of the Alabama-Florida League in 1938.

Mexican League Raids

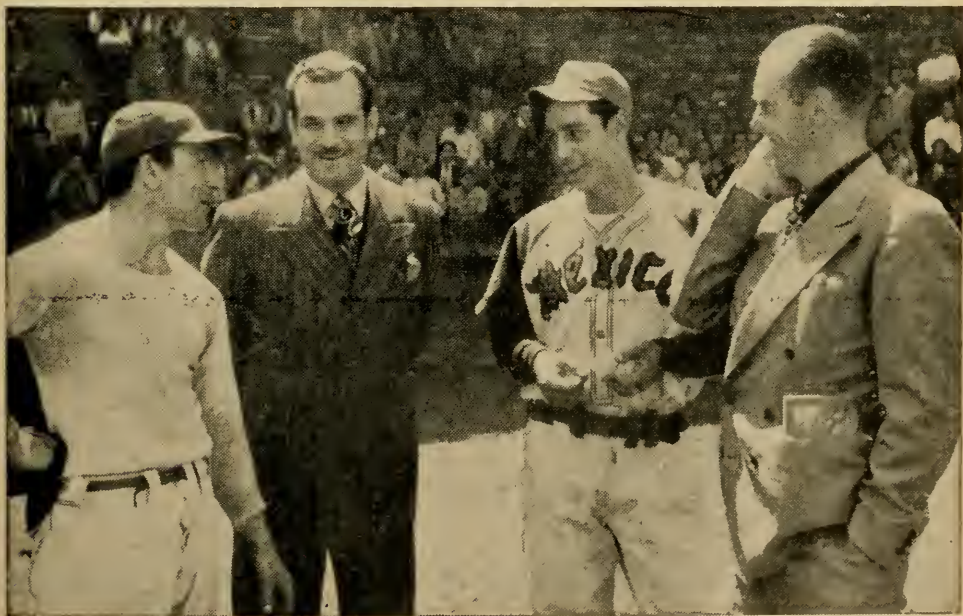

MAJOR league club owners encountered a serious headache in 1946 from the raiding of their rosters by the independent Mexican League, headed by the dynamic Jorge Pasquel, Mexican millionaire, who paid no attention to signed major league contracts and made fairly substantial inroads into the big time ranks, largely in the National League.

It was the first time the big leagues had such a problem on their hands since 1913-14, when the pseudo third major, the Federal League, bid for big league stars, and induced such top-ranking players as Chief Bender, Eddie Plank, Hal Chase, Joe Tinker and Lee Magee to enlist under its banners.

The Mexicans almost cost the Cardinals the 1946 pennant on May 23, when they induced Pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and Infielder Lou Klein to jump to their league while the St. Louis club was in New York. Lanier was the biggest star landed by the Mexicans, as he had a record of six victories and no defeats when he moved South of the Border. Martin was regarded as one of the St. Louis club's top righthanders, and Klein was second baseman of the championship club of 1943 before going into service.

However, St. Louis' foremost rival, Brooklyn, also was weakened by earlier Mexican League raids, as they took the Dodgers' catcher, Arnold (Mickey) Owen, on his discharge from the Navy, and the Puerto Rican outfielder, Luis Olmo, sixth-ranking hitter in the National League in 1945 with .313. The Mexicans also lured away Roland Gladu, a Dodger reserve, and second best International League hitter in 1945.

The Giants, however, suffered heaviest, losing Pitchers Sal Maglie and Adrian Zabala, First Baseman Roy Zimmerman, Second Baseman George

Hausmann, Third Baseman Nap Reyes and Outfielder Danny Gardella to Pasquel during the training season, while Pitchers Ace Adams and Harry Feldman jumped ten days after the N. L. race opened. In fact, in a meeting of the club in Manager Mel Ott's room in Miami, March 31, President Horace Stoneham of the Giants ordered Players Hausmann, Zimmerman and Maglie out of the training camp. While the New York club contended it lost only secondary players, there is no doubt that the departure of the four pitchers was a big factor in the Giants' tumble to the cellar.

Losses suffered by other clubs included Outfielder Rene Monteagudo by the Phillies, Outfielder Bobby Estalella by the Athletics, Infielder Murray Franklin by the Tigers, Pitcher Alex Carrasquel by the White Sox, Pitcher Tommy de la Cruz by the Reds and Outfielder Roberto Ortiz by the Senators. The last-named pair, however, had joined the Mexicans in 1945.

A holdout in the early spring, Vern Stephens, hard-hitting shortstop of the Browns, also jumped to the Mexicans, but after playing only two games, he hopped back across the border, and signed his contract with the St. Louis Americans. Inasmuch as Stephens was not a contract jumper, and returned before his club opened the season, he was welcomed back and not penalized.

Commissioner A. B. Chandler announced that players jumping to the Mexican League would be barred from Organized ball for five years. Mickey Owen left the Mexican League in August, and threw himself on Chandler's mercy, but was told he would be kept out for five years.

Agents for the Mexican League also made big offers to such Cardinal stars as Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Whitey Kurowski and Terry Moore. In late June, President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals visited Mexico City, made a personal investigation of the Mexican situation and had several conferences with Jorge Pasquel. While Breadon said he acted entirely on his own, he was hopeful his visit might clear the Mexican atmosphere. However, his action displeased Chandler, who ordered Breadon to Cincinnati to report on his talks with Pasquel. When Breadon refused, he was fined $5,000 by Chandler and suspended from the major league meetings. However, both the fine and suspension were soon lifted.

NUMEROUS STARS CALLED BY GRIM REAPER

Most prominent among the list of diamond celebrities called to High Valhalla during 1946 was Walter Perry Johnson, one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the game and an original Hall of Fame selection. The Big Train, who won 413 games during his 21-year career with Washington, succumbed in Georgetown Hospital, Washington, D. C., December 10, following a six-month illness resulting from a brain tumor. He was 59 years of age.

Other leading figures of the game who passed away during the year included John K. Tener, 82, former player and ex-president of the National League; Anthony (Push 'Em Up Tony) Lazzeri, 41, one-time Yankee second baseman; John A. (Bud) Hillerich, 80, president of Hillerich & Bradley Co., manufacturers of Louisville Slugger bats; Jack McCallister, 67, Braves' scout and former player, coach and manager; Tom Daly, 52, Red Sox scout and ex-catcher and manager; James J. Hagan, 59, traveling secretary of the Phillies for many years; Michael E. Cantillon, 79, erstwhile Minneapolis owner, and other such former major league stars as Forrest L. Cady, 57, catcher with the Red Sox; Charles P. (Chick) Fullis, 42, outfielder with the Cardinals; John P. (Jack) Quinn, 61, pitcher with numerous clubs; Joe Birmingham, 61, outfielder with Cleveland; Charles M. (Jeff) Tesreau, 57, pitcher with the Giants; John P. (Nig) Grabowski, 46, catcher with the Yankees; and George A. Strief, 89, shortstop at the turn of the century.

Two Major Clubs Change Ownership

TWO major league clubs, the Cleveland Indians and the Pittsburgh Pirates, changed hands in 1946, and brought some new blood and two interesting radio and screen personalities—Bob Hope and Bing Crosby—into the big leagues.

William L. Veeck, son of the former president of the Chicago Cubs, and associates, including Hope and Harry Grabiner, former vice-president of the White Sox, purchased the Indians, June 22, from Alva Bradley and other Cleveland business men who had operated the Cleveland club since its purchase from the widow of Jim Dunn in 1927.

A little more than a month later, August 8, the famous Dreyfuss dynasty passed out of the big leagues when Mrs. Barney Dreyfuss, widow of the Pirate owner, and William E. Benswanger, her son-in-law, sold the Pittsburgh National League club to a syndicate headed by Frank E. McKinney, Indianapolis banker and part owner of the Indianapolis American Association club. Associated with McKinney in the syndicate were Crosby, the popular crooner; Thomas P. Johnson, Pittsburgh attorney, and John W. Galbreath, Columbus, O., realtor. All were said to have approximately the same holdings.

The purchase of the Indians by young Veeck, former owner of the Milwaukee club, brought the game's No. 1 showman and a dynamic 32-year-old "youngster" into the big league picture. A World War II Marine, Veeck injured a foot at Guadalcanal, which eventually required amputation. Despite this physical handicap, young Bill threw his untiring energy into the club, and everything happened at Cleveland games, including the unveiling of a contortionist and comedian coaching duo in Jackie Price and Max Patkin, nylon showers and pyrotechnic displays with Veeck's own version of a dropped atomic bomb.

Although Veeck's methods were criticised in conservative baseball circles, he brought out the crowds. Even with a disappointing sixth-place club, the Indians drew 1,057,289 at home, topping their former record by approximately 150,000, while a paid crowd of 74,529 for a Cleveland-Yankee doubleheader, August 4, was the second highest in major league history. Hope, a Cleveland resident in his youth, said he bought into the club largely for sentimental reasons.

With the acquisition of the Pirates by McKinney, many of the old figures of the Pittsburgh club, President Bill Benswanger, Vice-President Sam Watters, and Manager Frankie Frisch, passed from the scene before the year's end. McKinney announced plans for improving Forbes Field, once one of the show places of baseball, while Billy Herman, former great second baseman, was entrusted with the job of leading the Pirates.

Pittsburgh's seventh-place position, the Pirates' lowest finish in 29 years, was a big factor in Mrs. Dreyfuss' decision to sell the club. From the time Barney Dreyfuss purchased the Pirates in 1900, the club finished in the second division only nine times in 46 seasons prior to last year.

Though welcoming McKinney and his associates, the game was saddened by the passing of the Dreyfuss regime out of big league ball after 56 years of active participation. The elder Dreyfuss, a German immigrant boy, first purchased a block of stock in the Louisville club of the original major American Association in 1890. He eventually became owner of the Louisville National club and merged the Colonels with the Pirates after the National League cut down to 12 clubs in 1900. Following Dreyfuss' death, February 5, 1932, Mrs. Dreyfuss, as chairman of the board, and Benswanger, her son-in-law, carried on.

Guild Movement Nipped in Bud

FOR the first time since Dave Fultz's old Players' Fraternity hit the skids during World War I, the major leagues were confronted with a players' union in 1946. It was organized by Robert Murphy, a young attorney from Boston, with some experience in labor relations, who termed his organization "The American Baseball Guild."

Murphy scored his major success—and eventually his biggest failure—with the Pittsburgh Pirates, the majority of whom took out Guild cards, boasting a 95 per cent membership at one time. Murphy's Guild activity developed into a disturbing movement, almost producing a players' strike.

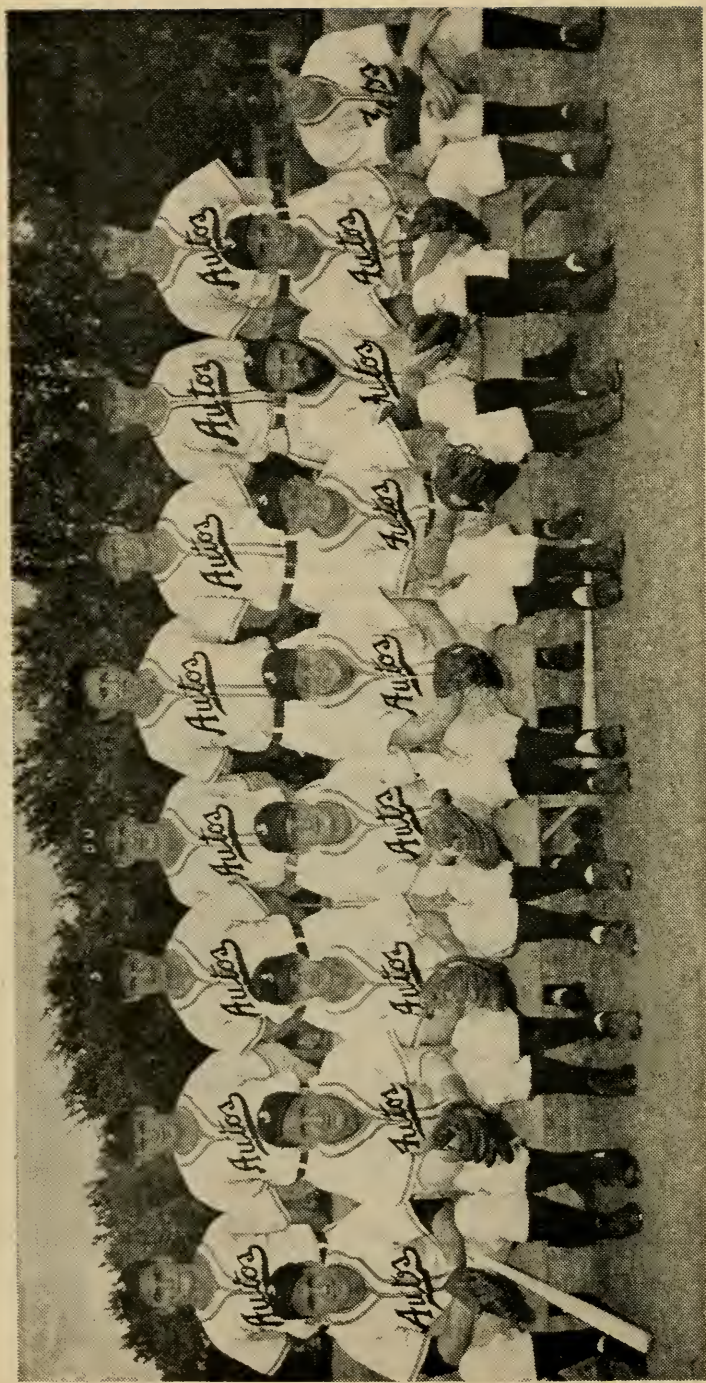

Murphy early tangled with the club over the refusal of William E. Benswanger, former Pirate president, to bargain with him, as a representative of the players, over their alleged grievances. At a Pirate clubhouse meeting, June 5, tempers flared as Benswanger and his attorneys argued to postpone the question until after the season. Murphy summarily rejected this, but by a vote of hands, the Pirates agreed to play that night. Murphy then recommended a strike for the night of June 7.

However, at a closed meeting in the Pirate clubhouse an hour before game time, from which Murphy was barred, a strike vote was taken, with 20 of the 36 favoring a strike, but lacked the three-quarters vote necessary.

Murphy later was successful in having the Pennsylvania State Relations Board order an election to have the players decide whether they wanted the Guild as a bargaining agent. But the election, August 20, resulted in a stunning rebuke for Murphy when the Pirates rejected the Guild by a vote of 15 to 3, with ten players not voting.

National Baseball Congress Program

AFTER annexing first place in the sanctioned 1946 Michigan State Tournament at Grand Rapids, the St. Joseph (Mich.) Autos won seven games and lost only one in the twelfth annual national finals at Wichita, Kan., to gain the National Baseball Congress title as the No. 1 non-professional team of the United States.

The Autos were awarded the guaranteed $10,000 cash purse, plus mileage, for winning the national crown. The Carmichael Firemen, California champions, who lost in the final contest to the Michigan state champions, 6 to 3, were presented with a check for $7,230.54 as their share.

The St. Joseph club lost only to the Waco Dons, Texas champions, 1 to 0, in a fifth round game. The Dons finished third in the national ratings, defeating the Camp Lee Travelers, Virginia champions, in the consolation game to decide third and fourth places.

The 1946 National Tournament was featured by the opening-night appearance of Commissioner Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, who hoisted the national championship flag before 10,000 fans. In a speech during the ceremonies, Chandler lauded the accomplishments of the National Baseball Congress and the part that organization has played in the creation of baseball interest.

Thirty-two state and bi-state champions competed for the 1946 national crown, along with the Enidairs of Oklahoma, defending U. S. titlists.

Recognized 1946 state champions included: Bemiston (Ala.) Cats, Ft. Smith (Ark.) Edwards Veterans, Mesa (Ariz.) Realtors, Carmichael (Calif.) Firemen, Denver (Colo.) M & O Cigars, Bridgeport (Conn.) Springwoods, Jacksonville (Fla.) Terminal Railroaders, Thomaston (Ga.) Mills, Wilder (Ida.) Giants, Chanute Field (Ill.) Planesmen, Frankfort (Ind.) Stars, Waterloo (Iowa) Dixies, Wichita (Kan.) Dodgers-Reds in 19-Inning Scoreless Tie

THE longest scoreless tie in major league history was played at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, September 11, 1946, when the Cincinnati Reds and Dodgers fought to a 19-inning deadlock, halted by darkness. The previous major league record was an 18-inning scoreless tie between Washington and Detroit of the American League on July 16, 1909.

However, the Red-Dodger marathon was not the longest in which two clubs battled without a score. On August 1, 1918, the Pirates and Braves fought off each other through 20 scoreless innings before the Pirates broke the ice with two runs in the twenty-first frame and won, 2 to 0.

Johnny Vander Meer, veteran Cincinnati southpaw, was the hero of the game, giving seven hits and striking out 14 in 15 innings. Harry Gumbert then took over, and yielded one hit in the last four. Durocher employed four pitchers—Hal Gregg, Hugh Casey, Art Herring and Hank Behrman. Cincinnati twice had what would have been the winning run shot down at the plate. Eddie Lukon tried to stretch a triple into a homer in the fifth inning, but lost out on a snappy relay, from Pete Reiser and Pee Wee Reese.

In the nineteenth and final inning, the veteran Dixie Walker threw out the fleet-footed Dain Clay trying to tally from second on Bert Haas' single.

On the same day, the Cubs and Braves played a 3 to 3, 17-inning game in their last contest of the year in Boston. The Red-Dodger tie was played off on an open date, September 20, when, with Vander Meer again pitching for the Reds, and Art Herring starting for Brooklyn, the Dodgers won, 5 to 3.

Cobb's Western Team Wins Boys' Game

AFTER being set back twice by the East in Esquire's All-America Boys' Game, the Western team, with Ty Cobb managing, won the third annual contest, 10 to 4, at Wrigley Field, Chicago, August 10, 1946. The game was played before a turnout of 28,211. Honus Wagner directed the losers. The contest was close until the sixth, when Cobb's charges put on a five-run spurge to settle the issue beyond all doubt.

Proceeds of the game were donated to the Commission for Living War Memorials and the Chicago Service Men's Centers.

GEORGE M. TRAUTMAN

Junior World's Series

FOR the first time in nine years, both the American Association and the International League were represented in the Junior World's Series by their pennant-winning teams in 1946. Montreal, after sweeping to the International flag and playoff titles under the tutelage of Clay Hopper, continued its swift pace in the annual minor league classic to defeat Louisville, four games to two. The Colonels, piloted by Harry Leibold, were making their third successive appearance as the Association representative.

The series was marked by a sitdown strike by the Kentuckians prior to the second game, resulting from a suspension handed Leibold following a run-in with J. Vincent Jamison, National Association representative on the Junior Series Commission. After a 25-minute delay in starting the tilt, peace was restored with the reinstatement of Leibold. Harry Dorish, Colonel right-hander, then proceeded to blank the Canadians with a superb two-hitter.

The winners were outhit, outfielded and outscored in the series. Two Als—Flair and Campanis—emerged as the outstanding hitters of their clubs. Flair posted a .462 average for Louisville and Campanis .350 for Montreal. Jim Gleeson of the Colonels batted in nine runs, including four with a grand-slam homer in the 15 to 6 third-game rout.

The total attendance for the series was 90,968—51,614 in Montreal and 39,354 in Louisville. Largest crowd was 19,171 in the Canadian metropolis for the final game.

Wreckage of Bus in Which Nine Players Lost Lives

Nine Players of Spokane Club Killed

IN the worst tragedy in the history of Organized Ball, nine members of the Spokane Western International League club lost their lives and the driver and six other players were injured the night of June 24, 1946, when their bus careened off a narrow road in the Cascade Mountains. The accident occurred along the Snoqualmie Pass highway at the 3,400-foot level in a drizzling rain. Dusk was falling as the chartered cross-state bus, heading for Bremerton, Wash., suddenly veered to avoid an approaching auto, and then plunged through the cable-guard railing, catching fire as it hurtled 350 feet down the steep, rocky mountainside.

Eight players were killed instantly. They were Mel Cole, 25, manager, catcher; Victor Picetti, 19, first baseman; Bob Kinnaman, 28, pitcher; George Risk, 23, shortstop; Bob James, 24, outfielder; Fred Martinez, 23, outfielder; Bob Paterson, 23, outfielder; and George Lyden, 22, pitcher. A ninth member, Chris Hartje, 31, catcher, died a few days later.

Others injured in the accident were Irv Konopka, catcher; Levi McCormack, outfielder; Ben Geraghty, second baseman; Pete Barisoff, pitcher; Dick Powers, pitcher; Gus Hallbourg, pitcher, and Glen Berg, bus driver.

The Spokane club had 18 players on its roster at the time, but three were not in the bus when the accident occurred. Milt Cadinha, the team's leading hurler, and Pitcher Joe Faria were making the trip by private car. Jack Lohrke, infielder, had got off the bus at its last stop, Ellensburg, Wash., on receiving notice to report immediately to the San Diego Pacific Coast League club, which had recalled him.

Organized Ball and fans the nation over rallied to aid the survivors and families of the victims. The Spokane Baseball Benefit Association was formed to handle the funds. The amount collected from all sources during the remainder of the year totaled $118,567.41. After deductions for admission taxes to benefit games and for expenses, $114,805.25 was turned over to dependents of the nine players who were killed and the six survivors.

PELLAGRINI HOMERS IN FIRST AB IN MAJORS

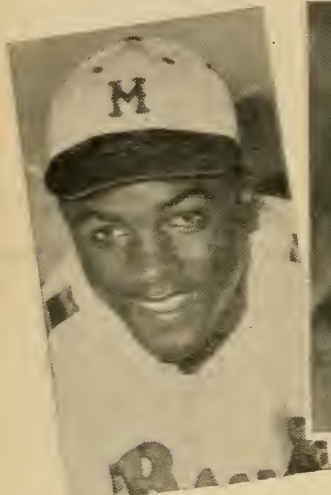

Eddie Pellagrini, rookie infielder of the Red Sox, in 1946 joined the exclusive group of players smashing home runs on their initial trips to the plate as major leaguers. Pellagrini, a native Bostonian and veteran of three and one-half years in military service, making his Big Time debut, turned the trick in the seventh inning, April 22, to give the Red Sox a 5 to 4 win over Washington.

Among players who previously smacked homers in their first trip to bat in the majors were Whitey Lockman, Giants, July 5, 1945; Buddy Kerr, Giants, September 8, 1943; Clyde Vollmer, Reds, May 31, 1942 (second game); Bill Lefebvre, Red Sox, June 10, 1938; Ernie Koy, Dodgers, and Emmett Mueller, Phillies, April 19, 1938 (same game); Clarence (Ace) Parker, Athletics, April 30, 1937; John (Blondy) Ryan, White Sox, July 15, 1930; and Earl Averill, Indians, April 16, 1929.

One of the earliest to perform the feat was Bill Duggleby, Phillies' pitcher, who homered with the sacks filled in his major league batting debut, April 21, 1898.

The Game's Sad Lexicon

RANKING with "Casey at the Bat" as the most famous bit of verse inspired by the game is "Baseball's Sad Lexicon." Author of this well-known composition is Franklin P. Adams, for years a famous columnist and since 1938 a star of the radio show, "Information, Please."

The poem, written by Adams in July, 1910, while a sports writer for the New York Evening Mail, follows:

BASEBALL'S SAD LEXICON

These are the saddest of possible words—

Tinker to Evers to Chance.

Trio of bear cubs and fleetier than birds—

Tinker to Evers to Chance.

Thoughtlessly pricking our gonfalon bubble,

Making a Giant hit into a double,

Tinker to Evers to Chance.

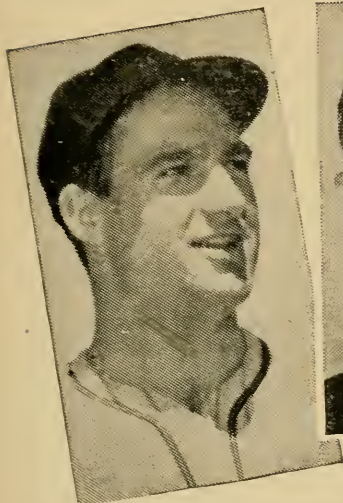

The occasion that inspired the verse long remained a mystery until Adams, from his Westport, Conn., home, explained: "I wrote the piece because I wanted to get out to the game, and the foreman of the composing room at the Mail said I needed eight lines to fill. And the next day T. E. Niles, one of the paper's executives, said that no matter what else I wrote, I would be known as the guy that wrote those eight lines. And they weren't much good, at that."

In his reply, Adams also stated he had just made a discovery—that there never was a Tinker to Evers to Chance double play in a World's Series. although the trio teamed to help the Chicago Cubs to four pennants in five years from 1906 to 1910. Members of the threesome figured exclusively in pairs, or as individuals, in eight twin killings during the four Series, however. They were: Second game, 1906—Evers to Chance; First game, 1907—Evers to Tinker; Second game, 1907—Tinker to Chance; Third game, 1907—Tinker unassisted; Fourth game, 1907—Tinker unassisted; Second game, 1908—Tinker to Chance; Third game, 1908—Evers to Chance; Second game, 1910—Tinker to Chance.

Just for the record, the first Tinker to Evers to Chance double play entered in the books was on September 15, 1902, in a game at Chicago against Cincinnati. The Cubs went on to win, 6 to 3.

McCALL TIES SOUTHERN WHIFF MARK

Making his first start of the 1946 season after two and one-half years in the Army, Robert (Dutch) McCall, Nashville lefthander, equalled the Southern Association record for strikeouts, April 30, when he fanned 17 Atlanta batters while pitching a 9 to 5 victory. His only previous league appearances had been three relief chores. McCall's 17 whiffs tied the mark set by Jinx Poindexter of Little Rock, July 11, 1936, in a two-hit, 3 to 0 win over Nashville.

FLICK GETS NINE HITS IN ROW IN GAME

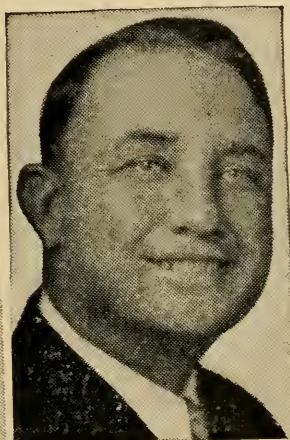

Nine consecutive hits in a single game by one player! This was the enviable record produced during a 19-inning Southern Association game at Little Rock, July 21, 1946, by Lew Flick, outfielder of the Travelers. Flick hit safely in each of his first nine trips to the plate during the game, but was retired in his tenth appearance. He came back in the second game of the Sabbath twin-bill with three hits in a row, giving him 12 safeties in 13 tries for the day.

COBB WAS FLAGGED 34 TIMES IN 1915

While establishing the modern major league record of 96 steals in 1915, Ty Cobb successfully swiped the keystone on 74 occasions, pilfered third 18 times and beat his way to the plate in four tries. Catchers when the Georgia Peach made home his objective were Bill Carrigan, Sam Agnew, Leslie Nuna-maker and John Henry. Pitching at the time were Bill James, Joe Boehling, Ray Caldwell and Herb Pennock. During his record base-stealing season, Cobb was flagged 34 times.

EARL BROWNE, ED WAYNE WIN BAT AWARDS

Leading all minor league batsmen in 1946 with a .429 average, First Base-man-Manager Earl Browne of the Owensboro Kitty League club annexed the Louisville Slugger Trophy, a full-sized sterling silver bat awarded annually to the minors' leading hitter. Thirty-five years old and a native Louisvillian, Browne also was making his managerial debut in 1946, and crowned it with a Kitty League pennant and playoff victory. Donor of the Louisville Slugger Trophy is the Hillerich & Bradsby Company of Louisville, Ky.

The Spalding Cup, presented to the top first-year batter in the minors, was won in 1946 by Ed Wayne (Wodarczyk), outfielder-infielder of Lenoir, whose .403 average paced the Blue Ridge League. The award is made by A. G. Spalding & Bros.

ORIOLES PROVE HISTORY REPEATS

That history can repeat itself, even on the diamond, was proven during the 1946 season by Baltimore of the International League. Within a six-week period a trio of Orioles twice hit successive home runs while another threesome was twice victimized by identical triple plays.

On July 10 against Newark, Bob Repass, Eddie Robinson and Howie Moss connected for home runs in order. They repeated exactly three weeks later, July 31, against Buffalo. Meantime, at Syracuse, July 4, with Clarence Campbell on second base and Repass on first, Robinson lined into a three-ply killing. Five weeks later, August 8, the same trio was wiped off the paths at Buffalo on a Robinson liner.

NEGRO STAR TOPS INTERNATIONAL LOOP HITTERS

Among the notable events of the 1946 season was the sensational debut made by Jackie Robinson, first Negro to play in Organized Ball in this century. Breaking in with a homer and three singles, good for a total of seven runs, in Montreal's season inaugural at Jersey City, April 18, Robinson continued his sensational play throughout the campaign to win the International League batting championship with a .349 average. Several other Negro performers also made their O.B. debuts on Brooklyn Dodger farm clubs in 1946, including the battery of Pitcher Don Newcombe and Catcher Roy Campanella with Nashua of the New England League, and Pitchers Roy Partlow and John Wright, sent to Three Rivers in the Canadian-American after trials at Montreal.

FROM "RAGS TO RICHES" IN YEAR

Jim McCormick of Cleveland's 1879 team had the misfortune to tie with Troy's George Washington Bradley for the dubious honor of absorbing more defeats than any other National League pitcher that season—40. McCormick turned to the right with a vengeance the following year, topping the senior organization in triumphs with 45. His two-year record was 65 wins, 68 losses.

DE WITT ERASES JUDY'S BASE-STEALING MARK

Stealing 110 bases during the 1946 Ohio State League campaign, Maynard DeWitt, 20-year-old Zanesville outfielder, came within one of the all-time minor league record for a schedule of 154 games or less. DeWitt's remarkable total erased the post-World War I mark of 107 set by Lyle Judy with Springfield of the Western Association in 1935, but was one short of the 111 pilfered by Ovid Nicholson in 123 games for Frankfort of the Blue Grass League in 1912. DeWitt appeared in 131 contests. Ralph Myers, first baseman with Spokane of the Northwestern League, was credited with 116 thefts in 1912, but played 139 games, while Jimmy Johnston, with San Francisco of the Coast league, had 124 swipes in 201 games in 1913.

MINORS REACH PEAK WITH 52 LOOPS

With 52 minor leagues lined up to start the 1947 campaign, a new high was reached in National Association annals. The previous record was established in 1910, when 46 circuits opened the season, 42 of which completed their schedules. The largest number of leagues ever to go through an entire campaign was 43 in 1940, when 44 started, one failing to complete its season.

WHITE STOCKINGS OF '80 SET HOME RECORD

Anson's Chicago White Stockings of 1880, who won the National League pennant that year with a percentage of .798, played .881 ball at home to go down in history as the most inhospitable team of all time in the treatment of its guests. Visiting combinations to the Windy City were successful in only five of 42 engagements played there, Boston and Cincinnati being unable to come through with a victory in Cook County and each of the five other clubs being successful only once.

The first setback for the Ansonites on home soil came after they had turned back their visitors 21 straight games. The Providence Grays accomplished the feat on August 12, with John Montgomery Ward pitching against Tom Poorman.

Later, J. Lee Richmond of Worcester, Tim Keefe of Troy, Jim McCormick of Cleveland and Jim Galvin of Buffalo followed Ward's example and registered victories.

Chicago had two long winning streaks during the 1880 season, the first of 13 games and the second of 21. Both were snapped while the Ansonites were playing on foreign loam—at Boston, May 29, and at Cleveland, July 10. The scores were 11 to 10 and 2 to 0, respectively.

FRANK CHANCE'S FORGOTTEN RECORD

Frank Chance, who was later to become the Peerless Leader of the Cubs, established a record in 1904 that has been overlooked these many years by the record books. This happened on Decoration Day at Cincinnati, when Husk was hit by pitched balls five times in a double-header. Jack Harper nicked the Chicago first baseman three times in the morning game, and Win Kellum twice in the afternoon fray.

Two Long Winning Streaks by Red Sox

IN winning their seventh American League championship and first in 28 years, the Boston Red Sox got away to an early jump in 1946 by running off spring winning streaks of 15 and 12 straight, respectively.

The skein of 15 was the longest in Red Sox history, and the fifth longest in the American League. The string was exceeded only by the league's record run of 19 straight by the 1906 White Sox, streaks of 17 by both the 1912 Washington Senators and 1931 Philadelphia Athletics, and a 16-straight drive by the 1926 Yankees.

With the exception of four games, all of the contests in the two streaks were played on Boston's friendly Fenway Park, where the 1946 American League champions were almost invincible in the early part of the season. The game in which Bob Feller terminated the second streak in Boston, June 12, was the first the Red Sox lost to a western club on their home field in 1946. The two streaks follow:

TWO VETERAN MAJOR LOOP TRAINERS HONORED

Trainers in every branch of sport have been honored at various times, but none ever was given a "night" like that held for Max (Lefty) Weisman. A crowd of 65,765 paid turned out at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium, August 13, 1946, to pay homage to a man who had served for 25 years as trainer of the Indians. Gifts totaling more than $6,400 were presented Weisman.

Another veteran trainer was honored during 1946 for long and distinguished service. He was Mike Martin, who served 42 years in that capacity with the Washington Senators. Martin was promoted to scout. His successor is George (Doc) Lentz. Other major league trainers for 1947, besides Weisman, are: Charles (Win) Green, Red Sox; Ed (Packy) Schwartz, White Sox; John Homel, Tigers; Ed Froelich and Gus Mauch, Yankees; James Tadley, Athletics; C. A. (Bob) Bauman, Browns; Dr. Charles K. Lacks, Braves; Harold Wendler, Dodgers; Andy Lotshaw and Joe Doller, Cubs; Richard J. Rohde, Reds; William Schaeffer, Giants; Allen (Dusty) Cooke, Phillies; Dr. Charles Jorgensen, Pirates, and Dr. Harrison Weaver, Cardinals.

ELEVEN WON FLAGS IN DEBUT AS MAJOR PILOTS

Eddie Dyer's feat of piloting the St. Louis Cardinals to the 1946 National League pennant marked the eleventh time that a manager had won an American or National league flag in his first season as a big league skipper. Previously, the trick had been accomplished five times in each circuit.

Starting with Al Spalding, who marked his managerial baptism by leading Chicago to a flag in the National League's first year, 1876, the N. L. list includes Pat Moran, Philadelphia, 1915; Gabby Street, St. Louis, 1930; Charlie Grimm, Chicago, 1932; Gabby Hartnett, Chicago, 1938, and Dyer, 1946. Bill McGunnigle also directed Brooklyn to a flag in its first season in the National League in 1890, but he had previously piloted that city's entry in the major American Association.

The group of American League pilots winning a flag in their Big Time managerial debuts includes Clark Griffith, Chicago, 1901; Kid Gleason, Chicago, 1919; Bucky Harris, Washington, 1924; Joe Cronin, Washington, 1933, and Mickey Cochrane, Detroit, 1934.

Only two of the entire group—Harris and Dyer—topped off their achievement by winning the World's Series the same year.

CLARKE CARRIED MONEY WITH HIM

When Fred Clarke, in his National League debut with Louisville on June 30, 1894, maced Gus Weyhing of the Phillies for five hits in as many times at bat, the Colonel rookie was playing with $100 in bills pinned in his pants' pocket. The money had been given Clarke by Manager Bill Barnie for reporting promptly following his purchase from Savannah.

Barnie suggested to the Southern League recruit that he wait until after the game for the $100, but Fred insisted on pre-game payment.

On first reporting to the Louisville clubhouse, Clarke toted along his favorite bat, a comparatively small model. The diminutive stick attracted the attention of his teammates, and one of the Louisville veterans told Fred that big league pitchers would knock it out of his hands.

After the contest, Clarke walked into the clubhouse with his small shillelah, threw it into the bat box and remarked: "They had a terrible time knocking it out of my hands today, didn't they!"

By direction of President Allen, 17 victories were taken from Havana because they had used an excessive number of classmen. These 17 games are not included in the standing of the clubs, but the playing records are included in all the official averages.

Playoffs—Tampa defeated Miami Beach, three games to none; West Palm Beach defeated Havana, three games to two; Tampa defeated West Palm Beach, four games to two.

WITTE AMONG ALL-TIME A. A. HOMER STARS

Jerry Witte, Toledo first baseman, tied for runner-up honors among righthanded batters in the all-time American Association home run annals when he rapped a total of 46 during the 1946 campaign. The only right-handed hitter clouting more round-trippers in an A. A. season was Nick Cullop, with 54 for Minneapolis in 1930. Witte's 46 equalled the next high total made by Vince DiMaggio with Kansas City in 1939. The Association's all-time record was made by a lefthanded batter, Joe Hauser, who had 69 with Minneapolis in 1933.

OUTFIELDER'S RECORD ERRORLESS STRING ENDS

A record skein of 267 errorless games by an outfielder came to an end, June 23, 1946, when Frank (Chick) Genovese of Louisville committed his first miscue in nearly two years in the American Association. Finishing the 1944 campaign with 73 consecutive errorless tilts, Genovese went through 154 league games in 1945 without a miscue and added 40 more in 1946 before allowing a ground ball to roll through him to snap the string. Genovese's skein exceeded by 80 games the major league mark set by Danny Litwhiler.

WHIFFS 20 IN TEN-INNING TILT

Thomas J. Gatto, young southpaw pitching his first season in O. B., established a Wisconsin State record when he struck out 20 Green Bay batters in a ten-inning game for Oshkosh, August 10, 1946. In another start Gatto equalled a league record by fanning 17 in a seven-inning tilt. Gatto's promising career, however, was short-lived, an automobile accident at Mount Kisco, N. Y., in March, 1947, proving fatal to the youngster.

MEXICAN NATIONAL ONLY '46 LOOP TO FAIL

Only one league failure marred the 1946 record of the National Association, and that was outside the United States. Starting the campaign with 43 circuits, the minors saw only the new Mexican National League fail by the wayside. The Class B loop opened its season March 14 with six clubs—Chihuahua, Juarez, Mexico City, Saltillo and Torreon in Mexico and El Paso in Texas. However, late in April the Mexico City and Torreon clubs were forced to give up because of pressure from the independent Mexican League sponsored by the Pasquel brothers. The four other teams continued until May 27 when the league, handicapped by internal feuds and financial difficulties, disbanded. Final standings found Juarez and Chihuahua tied for first place with 23 wins and 21 losses each, followed by Saltillo, 23-22, and El Paso, 18-27.

MINORS NAME MOST VALUABLE PERFORMERS

Polls conducted annually in six of the seven AAA, AA and A leagues to select most valuable players resulted in only one performer from a 1946 regular-season champion receiving the No. 1 accolade. He was Sabbath (Sam) Mele, outfielder of Scranton, who was voted the Eastern League's most valuable. Other league choices were First Baseman Jerry Witte, Toledo, American Association; First Baseman Eddie Robinson, Baltimore, International; First Baseman Les Scarsella, Oakland, Pacific Coast; Outfielder Tom Neill, Birmingham, Southern, and Third Baseman Henry Schenz, Tulsa, and Pitcher Hank Oana, Dallas, Texas League. The latter circuit conducted two polls, placing pitchers in a separate category.

ALL-STAR ROOKIE TEAM OF 1946

The National League made almost a clean sweep of THE SPORTING NEWS' annual rookie team, selected each year from among first-year players. Representatives from the senior circuit won ten of the eleven places in 1946, the only American leaguer to break into the team being Walter (Hoot) Evers, young center fielder of the Tigers, who was out with injuries much of the season. The entire team was made up of former servicemen.

Despite the fact that the war was supposed to hold back the development of rookies, a fine crop of young players came up in 1946, giving especial emphasis to slugging. Ralph Kiner of the Pirates, selected for right field, led the National League in home runs, while Del Ennis of the Phillies and Grady Hatton of the Reds were the slugging stars of their respective teams.

The honor of being the rookie of the year was almost a dead heat between young Ennis and Eddie Waitkus, first baseman of the Cubs. The latter played 12 games with the Cubs in the fall of 1941, shortly before he went into service, but 1946 was his first season as a regular member of the Chicago squad.

The 1946 All-Star Rookie Team consisted of the following:

First Base.....	Eddie Waitkus, Cubs
Second Base.....	Buddy Blattner, Giants
Shortstop.....	Bill Cox, Pirates
Third Base.....	Grady Hatton, Reds
Left Field.....	Del Ennis, Phillies
Center Field.....	Walter Evers, Tigers
Right Field.....	Ralph Kiner, Pirates
Catcher.....	Bruce Edwards, Dodgers
Pitcher.....	Joe Hatten, Dodgers
Pitcher.....	Ewell Blackwell, Reds
Pitcher.....	Warren Spahn, Braves

BOUDREAU TOPS SHORTSTOPS SEVENTH YEAR IN ROW

In leading American League shortstops in fielding in 1946, Lou Boudreau annexed No. 1 honors in this department for the seventh consecutive season. Brought up from Buffalo in August, 1939, the Cleveland star paced the league at fielding his position the next year, his first full season with the Indians. In 1945 Boudreau played only 97 games before a broken ankle sidelined him in mid-August, but his .983 percentage made him the nominal leader to continue his brilliant run.

CATCHERS' IRON MAN SKEINS SNAPPED

Two remarkable durability records by catchers came to an end early during the 1946 season. The first—and longest—was that of Frank Hayes, veteran American League paddist. Starting on October 2, 1943, Hayes caught 312 consecutive league games for the Browns, Athletics and Indians over a four-season span before giving way in the Cleveland lineup to Sherman Lollar, April 24, 1946, to terminate the string. The other iron man mark belonged to Ray Mueller, Cincinnati backstop. Excepting 1945, when he spent the entire season in the Army, Mueller worked behind the bat in 233 consecutive games for Cincinnati from July 31, 1943, until he was benched in favor of Ray Lamanno, May 7, 1946. The previous American League record was 100 games by Steve O'Neill with Cleveland in 1920, while the old National mark was 133 by George Gibson with Pittsburgh in 1909.

REFEREE IN WORLD'S SERIES OF 1886

An oddity of World's Series history was the use of a referee in two games in the 1886 classic between Comiskey's St. Louis Browns and Anson's Chicago White Stockings, in addition to two umpires, both of whom stood behind the plate and called balls and strikes. The referee—Honest John Kelly—had the power to overrule the arbiters, one man working when the team of his league was at bat and the other standing by. Kelly occasionally made new decisions for the umpires, who were Quest for the National League and McQuade for the Association. This happened in the second and fifth games.

Prior to the start of the Series, four umpires were named, but in the other contests only one man functioned—McQuade in the first game, Kelly in the third, Quest in the fourth, and Pierce in the sixth.

THREE PITCHES, THREE HOMERS—TWICE IN '46

Twice during the 1946 season a trio of batters stroked home runs on three successive pitches. The first such spectacle was witnessed in a Southern Association game at Sulphur Dell, Nashville, July 8. In the fifth inning, with Bob Raney pitching for Little Rock, three Nashville batters—Pete Thomassie, Cy Block and Bill Manning—lofted successive pitches over the fence. This was the third such performance to be entered into the Southern Association record books.

A similar feat was recorded in a Northern League game at St. Cloud, August 23. With Stan Kmet pitching for Eau Claire, Hal Schadt, Ed Gittens and Tony Jaros slammed successive pitches over the left field barrier for homers in the sixth frame. On the fourth pitch of the inning, Bruts Welsch singled.

FIVE BROADCASTERS CITED AS OUTSTANDING

Selected by THE SPORTING NEWS as the No. 1 play-by-play broadcasters of 1946 were Mel Allen, New York, in the American League, and Harry Caray, St. Louis, in the National League. Allen narrated both home and road games of the Yankees, traveling with the club, while Caray, who covered home games of both St. Louis clubs, was chosen on the basis of his description of Cardinal contests.

Three sports commentator awards were also made: Harry Wismer, director of the American Broadcasting Company, was designated from the East; Sam Molen, sports director of KMBC, Kansas City, from the Middle West; and Sam Balter, sports director of KLAC, Hollywood, from the Pacific Coast.

FIVE BANNED IN GAMBLING PROBE

Five players were placed on Organized Ball's ineligible list, January 25, 1947, following investigation of alleged gambling reports in the Evangeline League by Judge W. G. Bramham, retiring president of the National Association. The quintette included Manager Paul Fugit, Alvin W. Kaiser, Leonard Pecou and William C. Thomas of the Houma team and Don Vettorel of Abbeville. After hearing charges of conspiracy to "throw games" and association with known gamblers, Bramham turned the investigation over to his successor, George M. Trautman, who subsequently gave the Evangeline League a clean bill of health for 1947.

BOO FERRISS MATCHES WES FERRELL'S FEAT

When Dave (Boo) Ferriss posted 25 victories for the Red Sox in 1946, the stellar Boston righthander became the first pitcher in 16 years to win a score or more of games in each of his first two seasons in the majors. The last pitcher who had accomplished the feat was Wes Ferrell, one-time Red Sox chucker, in 1929 and 1930 with Cleveland. Ironically, both Ferrell and Ferriss registered the same number of victories in their freshman and sophomore years—21 and 25, respectively. Wes added 22 triumphs in 1931 and 23 in 1932 to rank as the only pitcher in modern history to win at least 20 in each of his first four major seasons.

DALLAS WINS DIXIE SERIES RENEWAL

With the Texas League resuming play in 1946 after a three-year war-time lapse, the annual Dixie Series between that circuit and the Southern Association was renewed. Al Vincent's Dallas club, Texas loop playoff winner after finishing second during the regular season, swept four straight games from Kiki Cuyler's Atlanta Southern Association champions, despite a nine-day layoff for the Dallas club between its last playoff game and the opening of the Dixie Series. Paid attendance for the four tilts was 33,134, including 20,626 at Dallas and 12,508 at Atlanta.

WILLIAMS FAMILY LONG ON HOMERS

The Williams boys—Ted, Fred, Kenny and Jimmy—compose the greatest home run clan in major league history. The four have accounted for 661 circuit clouts, Fred leading the pack with 251. Ken had 196 to his credit when he quit. Ted upped his total to 165 in 1940—and is still going. Jimmy brings up the rear with a paltry 49, but his 11 years in the majors were spent when there was no lively ball.

Fred's biggest yearly total was 41, Kenny's 39, Ted's 38, and Jimmy's nine. The figures:

Player	National	American	Total
Fred Williams	251	251
Kenneth Williams	0	196	196
Ted Williams	165	165
Jimmy Williams	14	35	49
Totals	265	396	661

YORK SOCKS TWO GRAND-SLAM IN INNING

Rudy York, Red Sox first baseman, became the third player in major league history to hit two homers with the bases filled in one game as he almost single-handedly batted Boston to a 13 to 6 win over the Browns at St. Louis, July 27, 1946. In all, York drove in ten runs—one short of Tony Lazzeri's league mark. Lazzeri, with the Yankees on May 24, 1936, and Jim Tabor, with the Red Sox on July 4, 1939, were the only other players to hit two grand-slam homers in one game.

York doubled in two markers in the first inning off Bob Muncrief to start his sensational performance. His base-clearing homers came in the second and fifth, both off Tex Shirley. Stan Ferens fanned Rudy in the seventh, and Ellis Kinder fed him a double play ball in the ninth.

Shirley pitched three grand-slam homers in 1946—the other to Lee Culberson, Red Sox, in the fourteenth inning, May 7. The only major leaguer besides York hitting two homers with the sacks clogged during the year was Teammate Ted Williams—off Kinder of the Browns and Steve Gromek of Cleveland.

K-O-M League

CLASS D

(Compiled by Kenneth L. Simons, League Statistician, Pittsburg, Kan.)

STANDING OF CLUBS AT CLOSE OF SEASON

Club	W.	L.	Pct.	Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Chanute	68	53	.562	Pittsburg	61	59	.508
Miami	69	54	.561	Carthage	54	66	.450
Iola	63	57	.525	Bartlesville	47	73	.392

Playoffs—Iola defeated Miami, three games to two; Chanute defeated Pittsburg, three games to two; final series between Iola and Chanute ended in three-to-three tie when rain and lack of available playing field caused cancellation of seventh game.

RED SOX SMASH TWIN-BILL MARKS

The Boston Red Sox performed at a record-breaking pace in double-headers while making a runaway of the 1946 American League pennant race. Joe Cronin's club, participating in 27 twin-bills, went through the entire campaign without suffering a double setback and on 14 occasions swept both ends of the attraction. The 14 sweeps equaled the league mark shared by the Yankees and Indians of 1943 and the 1945 Senators. It was, however, far short of the National League record of 20 set by the Cubs in 1945. The Red Sox' appearance in 27 bargain bills during the season, without suffering a twin reverse, was believed to be an all-time record, although no statistics are available on such performances.

A breakdown of the Red Sox' 1946 double-header record revealed ten sweeps in 16 bargain attractions at Fenway Park, and four sweeps in 11 road twin-bills. In contrast to the Red Sox' spectacular showing, the Philadelphia A's won both games of a double-header only once in 31 tries during the season. At Shibe Park the Mackmen lost three and split 11, while on the road they captured one twin-bill, lost nine and divided on seven other occasions.

TONY NAPOLES WINS 22 WITHOUT LOSS

By far the most sensational victory record posted in Organized Ball in 1946 was that of Tony Napoles, 21-year-old Cuban speedball artist of Peekskill in the North Atlantic League. Napoles turned in a clean slate of 18 wins and no losses during the regular season, and then captured four more games without a defeat in the playoffs. His season's string of 22 triumphs in as many decisions is believed to be an all-time mark, and tops by one the skein of 21 consecutive wins credited to Baxter Sparks with Yazoo City of the Delta League in 1904.

MAJOR LEAGUE FRANCHISES CHEAP IN '87

Sixty years ago the price of major league franchises was far from prohibitive.

In March, 1887, Indianapolis interests bought the St. Louis National League Maroons, lock, stock and barrel, for $12,000 and the National League itself purchased the Kansas City players for half that sum—and then proceeded to resell them to other clubs of the circuit.

LIP USED 380 HURLERS IN 157 GAMES

Leo Durocher's motto as Brooklyn manager in 1946 was not: "Spare the pitchers." The Dodger boss is believed to have set an all-time record for changing chackers. Brooklyn pitchers went the route in only 52 games, and in the club's 157 contests Leo used 380 hurlers—an average of more than two per game.

WHITE SOX NO-HIT HEROES

Chicago's White Stockings are well supplied with no-hit heroes in their masterminding department. Manager Ted Lyons set the Red Sox back without a blow, August 21, 1926, and Coach Urban Faber, for Dubuque, on August 18, 1910, retired 27 Davenport batters in succession. Bob Coleman, later a Brave manager, and Ray Chapman, killed by a pitched ball in 1920, played with the losers when Urban the Red was achieving his greatest triumph.

NO IRON MEN IN 1946

There were no iron men in the majors in 1946, but two pitchers did succeed in getting credit for a pair of wins in one day. Both were employed by St. Louis clubs—Brownie Tom Ferrick over Philadelphia on August 4, and Cardinal Alpha Brazle over Cincinnati on September 2. Ferrick toiled three and two-thirds innings, Brazle nine and two-thirds.

DUFFY'S UNIQUE RECORD IN FOUR MAJORS

Hugh Duffy boasts one record that no other player has equalled—or ever will equal. That is his mark of having a lifetime batting average of over .300 in all four major leagues in which he played—.340 in the American Association, .330 in the National League, .328 in the Players' League and .308 in the American League, giving him a composite lifetime percentage of .330. Duffy's salary when he started playing professionally in the Rhode Island State Association in 1884 was $5 per week.

OFFICIAL PLAYING RULES OF Professional Base Ball Clubs

As adopted at the meeting of the Joint Playing Rules Committee of the National League and the American League, held at National League Headquarters, New York City, March 2, 1904. Amended February 14, 1906; February 25, 1907; February 27, 1908; February 17, 1909; January 24, 1910; February 13, 1914; February 13, 1916; February 10, 1920; February 23, 1921; January 29-30, 1926; December 12, 1930, by the National Joint Rules Committee of Professional Base Ball; December 15, 1938; February 12-13, 1940.

Official text of the rules printed in large type. Explanatory notes in smaller type.

The Ball Ground.

RULE 1 The ball ground must be enclosed. To obviate the necessity for ground rules, the shortest distance from a fence or stand on fair territory to the home base should be 250 feet and from home base to the grand stand sixty (60) feet.

Enclosure applies to professional leagues, but many leagues have eliminated the ground rule where the stands are less than 60 feet distant and rule ball in play.

To Lay Off the Field.

RULE 2 To lay off the lines defining the location of the several bases, the catcher's and the pitcher's position and to establish the boundaries required in playing the game of base ball, proceed as follows:

In laying out the diamond care should be taken to have it set in such position that the least possible amount of the sun's rays will shine directly in the eyes of the players and spectators. Having the back point of the plate set to point due West-South-West, and the diamond laid out at that angle will obtain the best results. Seats and stands should be arranged to make the most of such arrangement. The seats should be placed so that the extended foul lines will form equal spaces on each side of the diamond from the foul lines to the fence or stands, if possible.

Diamond or Infield.

From a point, A, within the grounds, project a point, B, 124 feet from point A, lay off lines B C and B D at right angles to the

Publisher's Note

When the American Sports Publishing Company was taken over by A. S. Barnes & Co., and the latter decided to forego publishing the Spalding-Reach Guide, THE SPORTING NEWS was given an opportunity to purchase the plates covering the official rules and their interpretations by the late John B. Foster, noted authority on rules. Following the meeting of the rules committee at Belleair, Fla., February 12-13, 1940, numerous changes in the playing code were made.

It since has become apparent that along with the development of the game different interpretations were necessary, and, as a result, the notes explaining the rules have been completely revamped by Edgar G. Brands, editor of THE SPORTING NEWS, since 1930. As editor of THE SPORTING NEWS, Brands sat in at the meetings of the rules committee at Belleair, and, in answering questions on the rules, from all parts of the world, he has been in closer touch, the year around, with the problems developing on the diamond than any other man.

The opinions of men will always vary, according to Brands, who declares there are no hard and fast rules with respect to interpretations of the playing code. Brands believes, however, the explanations accompanying the official rules are sound and will help to clarify some of the moot points that have been raised. The explanatory notes are fully protected by copyright and must not be republished without permission.

line A B; then, with B as a center and 63.63945 feet as a radius, describe arcs cutting the lines B A at F and B C at G, B D at H and B E at I. Draw lines F G, G I, I H, and H F, each 90 feet in length, which said lines shall be the containing lines of the Diamond or Infield.

In laying out a baseball field, proceed as follows:

With a steel tape-measure lay out the base lines and place the home plate and the pitcher's box as shown in the diagram on Page 554. If it is possible to do so, have the home plate due north and the pitcher's plate due south.

Remove the sod from the base lines between the home plate and first and third bases; also from first base to second base and from second base to third base. The sod may be removed from around the pitcher's plate.

Fill in the base lines and the ground around the pitcher's plate if the sod is removed.

Mark lines of batsman's box, on each side of home plate, with white-wash, chalk or similar substance. Also foul line, 3 inches wide, from home plate to first base and from home plate to third base, continuing out into the field beyond first and third bases.

Distance from home base to first base, 90 feet; from first base to second base, 90 feet; from second base to third base, 90 feet, and from third base to home plate, 90 feet. Total distance around the bases, 360 feet.

Distance from point of home plate to pitcher's slab, 60 feet, 6 inches. Distance is measured from point of home plate, where the base lines intersect, and not from the front part of the plate.

Distance across diamond, from home plate to second base, 127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches; from first base, across diamond, to third base, the same.

Size of batsman's box, 6 feet by 4 feet.

Size of pitcher's plate, 24 inches by 6 inches.

Size of base bags, 15 inches square.

Home plate, 1 foot square, with the corners filled in on the portion facing the pitcher, where it will measure 17 inches across.

Where space is limited, the official rules specify that the shortest distance from home plate to a fence or stand in fair territory should be 250 feet and from home plate to grandstand, 60 feet.

A simple method of laying out a ball field with a piece of cord is as follows:

First—Get a piece of rope or cord, with no stretch in it. Second—Measure off the following distance and make a knot at each distance: 60 feet 6 inches—90 feet—127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches—180 feet. Third—Decide upon the location of home plate (north and south is preferable, to avoid the sun in the fielder's eyes); fasten the rope end to a peg at home and walk straight to full length of rope; 60 feet 6 inches will be the pitcher's slab; 127 feet $3\frac{3}{8}$ inches will be second base; put in spikes to mark same. Next fasten the knot at 180 feet at second; grasp knot at 90 feet and walk out to right of home until the rope is tight at all points; this will be first base; go to the left in same manner and you will have third base. This can be done in less than ten minutes. This method is good for use at picnics, outings or similar events.

OFFICIAL DIMENSIONS OF DIAMONDS FOR BOYS UNDER SIXTEEN YEARS OF AGE.

Distances between bases, 82 feet; home plate to second base, 115 feet $11\frac{1}{2}$ inches; same distance across diamond from first base to third base; home plate to pitcher's plate, 50 feet.

The Catcher's Lines.

RULE 3 SECTION 1. With F as a center and 10 feet radius, describe an arc cutting line F A at Z and draw lines Z J and Z K at right angles to F A, and continue each out from F A not less than 10 feet.

SEC. 2. With F as a center and 60 feet radius, describe an arc cutting F A at L and draw lines L M and L O at right angles to F A, and continue each out from F L not less than 60 feet, to form the back stop line.

The Foul Lines.

RULE 4 From the intersection point, F, continue the straight lines G F and H F until they intersect the lines L O and L M, and then from the points G and H in the opposite direction until they reach the boundary lines of the ground and not less than 10 feet above the top of fence or stand; and said lines, not less than 3 inches wide, shall be made, on the playing field, of lime, whiting, chalk or other powder or paint.

The Player's Lines.

RULE 5 With F as center and 50 feet radius, describe arcs cutting lines F O and F M at P and Q; then, with F as center again and 75 feet radius, describe arcs cutting F G and F H at R and S; then, from the points P Q, R and S draw lines at right angles to the lines F O, F M, F G and F H, and continue the same until they intersect at the points W and T.

The Coachers' Lines.

RULE 6 With R and S as centers and 15 feet radius, describe arcs cutting the lines R W and S T at X and Y, and from the points X and Y draw lines parallel with the lines F G and F H and continue same out 15 feet to an extension of lines I G and I H, respectively.

Coachers are obliged to stay within the confines of the coacher's box, which as will be noted on the diagram (Page 554), does not permit them to go nearer than 15 feet to the base lines.

Coachers may not go beyond an extension of the base lines running between first and second bases and between second and third bases. This keeps them completely out of outfield territory. Not more than two coachers may be on the field at the same time—one in each coacher's box.

The Three-Foot Lines.

RULE 7 With F as a center and 45 feet radius, describe an arc cutting the line F G at the figure one (1) and from the figure one (1) to the distance of three feet draw a line at right angles to F G, and mark point 2; then from point 2 draw a line parallel with the line F G to a point three feet beyond the point G, marked 3; then from the point 3 draw a line at right angles to line 2, 3, back to and intersecting with F G.

The Batsman's Lines.

RULE 8 On either side of the line A F B describe a rectangle 6 feet long and 4 feet wide (marked 9 and 10, respectively). The longest side of each rectangle shall be parallel with the line A F B and the rectangles shall be 29 inches apart or $14\frac{1}{2}$ inches on either side of line A F B. The middle of the long side of each rectangle shall be on a line with the middle corners of home plate.

See enlarged section on diagram of field (Page 554), showing position of home plate and batsman's box.

If it is not possible to outline a "box" it should be remembered that the batter is never allowed to step over home plate to strike at the ball, and that he must not run forward toward the pitcher, to exceed three feet from the center of the plate, to strike at the ball.

The Pitcher's Plate.

RULE 9 SECTION 1. From point F measure along line F E a distance of 60 feet 6 inches to point 4, which marks the front of the pitcher's plate. Draw a line 5, 6, passing through point 4 at right angles to F4, and extending 12 inches on either side of line F B; then with line 5, 6, as a side, describe a rectangle 24 inches by 6 inches in which shall be placed the pitcher's plate.

SEC. 2. The pitcher's plate shall not be more than 15 inches higher than the base lines or the home plate, which shall be level with the surface of the field, and the slope from the pitcher's plate to every base line and the home plate shall be gradual.

The Bases.

RULE 10 SECTION 1. Within the angle F, describe a five-sided figure, two of the sides of which shall coincide with the lines F G and F H to the extent of 12 inches each, thence parallel with the line F B $8\frac{1}{2}$ inches to the points U and V a straight line between which, 17 inches long, will form the front of the home base or plate.

SEC. 2. Within the angles at G and H describe squares, whose side are 15 inches in length, two of the sides of which squares shall lie along the lines F G and G I, I H and H F, which squares shall be the location of the first and third bases, respectively. At point I, the intersection of G I and H I, describe a square 15 inches on each side, the center of which is directly over point I and whose sides are parallel to G I and H I. This shall locate second base.

Home Base and Pitcher's Plate Must Be of Rubber.

RULE 11 The home base at F and the pitcher's plate at 4 must be each of whitened rubber, and so fixed in the ground as to be even with its surface. The size of the pitcher's plate shall be 24 inches by 6 inches.

See enlarged section on diagram of field (Page 554), showing position of home plate.

Particular care should be taken to have the edges of the home plate EVEN with the surface to prevent a runner sliding into the plate from injuring his legs, particularly his ankles. The edges of the plate are beveled and the proper joining of the ground and the plate will positively help prevent accidents of this kind.

Bases of White Canvas.

RULE 12 The first base at G, the second base at I and the third base at H must each be a white canvas bag, 15 inches square and not less than 3 nor more than 5 inches in thickness, filled with soft material and securely fastened in place at the points specified in Rule 10.

The bases, except home plate, are best constructed of canvas bags filled with sawdust. Home plate should be of whitened rubber, whenever it is possible to obtain it. Some cruder substance may be used for bases if nothing else is obtainable, but it is best to follow the suggestions given. First, second and third bases should be attached to pegs driven in the ground, and home plate should be sunk so that its upper surface is on a level with the surface of the ground. Bases must not be less than 3 nor more than 5 inches thick.

White Lines to Designate Playing Field.

RULE 13 The lines described in Rules 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, and 8 must be marked with lime, chalk or other white material, easily distinguishable from the ground or grass.

Rules 2 to 13, inclusive, describe mathematically how to lay out a diamond for professional contests. For schoolboys, the National Joint Rules Committee recommends a smaller size diamond. Semi-professional and independent games are played on diamonds of the regulation size.

A circle of about five feet in diameter should be marked off about half way between the plate and the stand and to the outer side of the extended foul lines to be occupied by the next batter. He, however, should be ready on the bench to promptly take his place at bat and not delay the game.

The Ball.

RULE SECTION 1. The ball must weigh not less than 5 nor 14 more than $5\frac{1}{4}$ ounces avoirdupois, and measure not less than 9 nor more than $9\frac{1}{4}$ inches in circumference.

The Spalding National League Ball is used in the National League and the Reach American League Ball is used in the American League.

SEC. 2. The president of the league of which the contesting clubs are members shall specify the number of base balls which the home club must deliver to the umpire prior to the hour set for the commencement of a championship game, and all of such base balls shall be of the regulation make adopted by the said league. If the ball placed in play be batted or thrown out of the grounds or into one of the stands for spectators, or in the judgment of the umpire becomes unfit for play from any cause, the umpire shall at once deliver an alternate ball to the pitcher and another legal ball shall be supplied to him, so that he shall at all times have in his control one or more alternate balls. Provided, however, that all balls batted or thrown out of the ground or into a stand shall when returned to the field be given into the custody of the umpire immediately and become alternate balls, and so long as he has in his possession two or more alternate balls he shall not call for a new ball to replace one that has gone out of play. The alternate balls shall become the ball in play in the order in which they were delivered to the umpire.

The best judgment should be used in throwing out balls during a game as being unfit. Balls are a very expensive item for the smaller leagues. The courtesy of exchanging a ball for a pitcher doesn't mean that the ball the pitcher wanted to be changed should be thrown out as it is oftentimes the mental condition the pitcher is in that makes him desire to have the ball changed.

SEC. 3. Immediately upon the delivery to him of an alternate ball by the umpire, the pitcher shall take his position and on the call of "Play," by the umpire, it shall become the ball in play. Provided, however, that play shall not be resumed with an alternate ball when a fair batted ball or ball thrown by a fielder goes out of the ground or into a stand for spectators until the base-runners have completed the circuit of the bases unless compelled to stop at second or third base in compliance with a ground rule.

Discolored or Damaged Balls.

SEC. 4. In event of the ball being intentionally discolored by any player, either by rubbing it with the soil, or by applying rosin, paraffin, licorice, or any other foreign substance to it, or otherwise intentionally damaging or roughening the same with sand-paper or emery-paper or other substance, the umpire shall forthwith demand the return of that ball, and substitute for it another legal ball, and the offending player shall be debarred from further participation in the game. If, however, the umpire cannot detect the violator of this rule, and the ball is delivered to the bat by the pitcher, then the latter shall be removed at once from the game, and as an additional penalty shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days. See Rule 27, Section 2.

Rosin or soil is allowed to aid the pitcher in controlling the ball, but not for the purpose of discoloring same.

Home Club to Provide Balls.

SEC. 5. In every game the balls played with shall be furnished by the home club (as provided in Sec. 2, Rule 14), and the last in play shall become the property of the winning club. Each ball shall be enclosed in a paper box, which must be sealed with the seal of the president of the league and bear his certificate that the ball contained therein is of the required standard in all respects. The seal shall not be broken by the umpire except prior to game time, and for the purpose of inspecting the ball and removing the gloss therefrom.

If, in the judgment of any league president, it shall be advisable to use balls that have been used but which are in good condition, such balls must be delivered by the home club to the umpire prior to the game. If, in the judgment of the umpire, any such balls are unfit they shall be rejected. No ball shall be legal that has not been accepted by the umpire as in good condition.

Reserve Balls on Field.

SEC. 6. The home club shall have at least a dozen regulation balls on the field during each championship game, ready for use on the call of the umpire.

The president of the league shall determine the number of baseballs which the home club must deliver to the umpire. This is far more to the purpose than the old method by which the home club was presumed to give two baseballs of regulation make to the umpire. The umpire in major league games has at his command all of the baseballs necessary to continue the game, no matter what total. In amateur baseball it is still customary to give the umpire two new baseballs.

As will be noted, Section 4 of this rule is ironclad in its punishment for discoloring or damaging the ball.

Section 5 of Rule 14 is self-explanatory. The umpire breaks the seal of the box containing the baseballs prior to the game for the purpose of inspecting the ball and removing the gloss from its surface.

The home club should send to the umpires' dressing room before game time the regulation number of new balls as required by that particular league's rules to have the gloss removed and time enough allowed so that the umpires will not be hurried about dressing, etc. The balls should be discolored as little as possible in removing the gloss.

It is customary for the home team to provide baseballs in amateur games as well as in professional games. The umpire has the custody of the ball when it is not in play, but at the completion of the game the last ball in play goes to the winning team.

The Bat.

RULE 15 The bat must be round, not over two and three-fourths inches in diameter at the thickest part, nor more than 42 inches in length, and entirely of hardwood in one piece. Twine may be wound around it or a granulated substance applied to it for a distance of 18 inches from the end of the handle, but not elsewhere.

Note that the bat must be one piece and entirely of hardwood. A bat loaded with a metal filling is not legal.

Young players should be instructed how to properly hold the bat while batting. "Trade Mark Up" is the "proper manner" and if followed you would not so often break or crack your favorite bat. This is one of the principal reasons that the bat is so marked.

Number of Players in a Game.

RULE 16 The players of each team actively engaged in a game at one time, shall be nine in number, one of whom may act as captain. In no case shall more or less than nine men on each team be allowed to play at one time as regular players, substitutes to become regulars, and regulars to be eliminated when so specified to the umpire by captains or managers.

This rule always is to be observed.

Substitutes.

RULE 17 SECTION 1. Each club shall be required to have present on the field during a championship game a sufficient number of substitute players in uniform conforming to the suits worn by their team-mates, to carry out the provisions of this code, which requires that not less than nine (9) players shall occupy the field in any inning of the game.

SEC. 2. Any such substitute at any stage of the game, except when the ball is in play, may take the place of a player whose name is in his team's batting order, but the player whom he succeeds shall not thereafter participate in that game.

SEC. 3. A base-runner shall not have another player whose name appears in the batting order of his team run for him except by the consent of the manager or captain of the other team.

SEC. 4. In event of the pitcher being taken from his pitching position by either manager or captain, the player substituted for him shall continue to pitch until the batsman then at bat has either been put out or has reached first base, or the side has been retired. The only exception to this rule shall be when the pitcher substituted sustains some disability which, in the judgment of the umpire-in-chief, incapacitates him from pitching.

SEC. 5. When the umpire announces the pitcher prior to commencement of game, the player announced must pitch until the first batsman has either been put out or has reached first base. The only exception to this rule shall be when the pitcher sustains some disability which, in the judgment of the umpire-in-chief, incapacitates him from pitching.

SEC. 6. Whenever one player is substituted for another, whether as batsman, base-runner, or fielder, the manager or captain of the team making the change must immediately notify the umpire. The manager or captain shall state where the substitute shall take his place in the batting order. A fine of $25 shall be assessed by the umpire against the manager or captain for each violation of the rule, and the president of the league shall impose a similar fine against the umpire, who, after having been notified of a change, fails to have proper announcement made to the spectators. Provided, however, that if through oversight, such announcement is not made, the substitute player will be considered as in the game, as follows:

- (1) If a pitcher, when he takes his place on the pitcher's plate;
- (2) If a batter, when he takes his place in the batsman's box;
- (3) If a fielder, when he takes the place of the fielder substituted for;
- (4) If a runner, when he takes the place of the runner substituted for; and any play made by or on such unannounced substitute shall be legal under these rules.

It is possible to substitute a fielder for the pitcher and place the pitcher in the fielder's position, or in some other position, and later return the pitcher to his position if the captain of the team so desires, provided the pitcher remains in the game. If the captain of the team in the field agrees to permit another player to run for the batter, after the latter has reached first base, and agrees to permit the batter to play as a fielder when the team at bat returns to the field, there is no objection.

If the substitute takes the proper position assigned to him, any play which he makes is legal, in spite of the fact that the umpire may not have been notified and may not have made announcement of the substitution. Neglect by a captain is not allowed to affect actual field work.

Penalties which are provided in fines apply solely to professional baseball.

Positions of the Players.

RULE 18 SECTION 1. The players of the team not at bat may be stationed at any points of the field on fair ground their captain may elect, regardless of their respective positions, except that the pitcher, while in the act of delivering the ball to the bat, must take his position as defined in Rules 9 and 27.

SEC. 2. No player of the team "at bat," except the batsman, shall occupy any portion of the space within the catcher's lines as defined in Rule 3. The triangular space back of the home base is reserved for exclusive use of the umpire, catcher and batsman, and the umpire must prohibit any player of the team "at bat" from crossing the same at any time while the ball is in the hands of the pitcher or catcher, or passing between them while standing in their positions.

SEC. 3. The players or coaches of the team at bat must immediately vacate any space occupied by them if it is needed by a fielder attempting to handle a batted or thrown ball.

Two teams make up each contest, with nine players on each. The fielders are known as the pitcher, catcher, the first baseman, the second baseman, the third baseman, the shortstop, the left fielder, the center fielder and the right fielder. None of these is required to occupy an exact position on the field, except the pitcher, who must stand with one foot touching the pitcher's rubber when in the act of delivering the ball to the batter.

Players are cautioned against the habit of infringing upon the space within the catcher's lines and batsmen against leaving the bench before it is their turn to do so. Games expedited by being played with alertness and energy are desirable, but the rules should not be violated for speed. Moreover, too much speed makes it appear at times as if the player cared little for the game. This refers more to the professional than to the amateur player.

Players and coaches must make room for fielders trying for all fielding plays.

Must Not Mingle With Spectators.

RULE 19 Players in uniform shall not be permitted to occupy seats in the stands, nor to mingle with the spectators. No Manager, Captain, Coach or Player shall address the spectators during a game except in reply to a request for information about the progress or state of the game, or to give the name of a player.

In American League when players approach stands to converse with spectators, umpires report to league headquarters the name of any player violating this rule and a fine of $5.00 is imposed. If the offense is repeated the fine is doubled. National League permits talking to spectators, but not fraternizing with opposing players.

Uniforms of Players.

RULE 20 Every club shall adopt two uniforms for its players, one to be worn in games at home and the other in games abroad, and the suits of each of the uniforms of a team shall conform in color and style. No player who shall attach anything to the sole or heel of his shoe other than the ordinary base ball shoe plate, or who shall appear in a uniform not conforming to the suits of the other members of his team, shall be permitted to take part in a game. Glass buttons or polished metal must not be used on a uniform.

In professional leagues the home uniform is usually white and the traveling uniform of gray or some darker color.

No exception is to be made regarding attaching a foreign substance to the shoe.

Note restrictions about glass buttons and polished metal on uniforms.

Size and Weight of Gloves.

RULE 21 The catcher may wear a leather glove or mitt of any size, shape or weight.

The first baseman may wear a leather glove or mitt not more than 12 inches long from top to bottom and not more than 8 inches wide across the palm, with thumb and palm connected by leather lacing of not more than 4 inches from thumb to palm, which lacing shall not be enlarged, extended or reinforced by any process or material whatever.

Every other player is restricted to the use of a leather glove weighing not over 10 ounces and measuring not over 14 inches around the palm. The pitcher's glove must be uniform in color.

It is imperative that the pitcher's glove be uniform in color, in order to prevent a distracting confusion of colors as the pitcher delivers the ball.

Players' Benches.

RULE 22 SECTION 1. Players' benches must be furnished by the home club and placed upon a portion of the ground not less than twenty-five (25) feet outside of the players' lines. One such bench shall be for the exclusive use of the visiting team and the other for the exclusive use of the home team. Each bench must be covered with a roof and closed at the back and each end; a space, however, not more than six (6) inches wide may be left under the roof for ventilation. All players and substitutes of the team at bat must be seated on their bench, and remain there until their team has been retired, except the batsman, base-runners and such others as are legally assigned to coach base-runners. Under no circumstances shall the umpire permit any person except the players and substitutes in uniform, coaches in uniform, trainer, and the manager of the team entitled to its exclusive use to be seated on a bench.

Player next at bat should be in batting circle with bat.

Players next at bat should be the only ones allowed to occupy the circle for the next batter to stand while awaiting his turn to bat. Bat boys and other ground attachees should remain in the background as far as possible and are not to touch the ball at any time while it is in play and should be so instructed and ordered by both the managers and umpires. This has caused serious trouble by not being followed.

In the smaller leagues there is at times a lack of space to take care of all the players on the bench, in which case they should sit as close to the bench as possible and in line with the bench and the last man so seated to be the boundary line of the bench.

Penalty for Violation.

SEC. 2. Whenever the umpire observes a violation of the preceding section, he shall immediately order such player or players as have disregarded it to be seated. If the order be not obeyed within one minute the offending player or players shall be fined $5.00 each by the umpire. If the order be not then obeyed within one minute, the offending player or players shall be debarred from further participation in the game, and shall be obliged to leave the playing field forthwith.

All ball grounds should be provided with two players' benches back of the base lines, one on each side of the home plate. They must be not less than twenty-five feet outside of the coaches' lines. Each team should occupy one of the benches exclusively, and their bats and accoutrements should be kept near the bench, and the players should remain on the benches.

Money penalties provided for in Sec. 2 apply to professionals.

A Regulation Game.

RULE 23 SECTION 1. It is a regulation game if the team second at bat scores more runs in eight (8) innings than the team first at bat has scored in nine (9) innings.

SEC. 2. It is a regulation game if the team last at bat in the ninth inning scores the winning run before the third man is out. If a batsman in the last half of the final inning of any game hits a home run over the fence or into a stand, all runners on bases at the time, as well as the batsman, shall be entitled to score, but to score legally all bases must be touched in order by all runners. The final score of such game shall be the total number of runs made by each team.

SEC. 3. It is a regulation game if it be called by the umpire on account of darkness, rain, or other cause which in the umpire's judgment interferes with further play, provided five or more equal innings have been played; or if the team second at bat shall have made more runs at the end of its fourth inning, or before the completion of its fifth inning, than the team first at bat has made in five completed innings.

SEC. 4. If the score be a tie at the end of nine (9) innings for each team, play shall be continued until one team has scored more runs than the other in an equal number of innings; provided, that if the team last at bat scores the winning run before the third man is out in any inning after the ninth, the game shall terminate and be a regulation game.

SEC. 5. A regulation drawn game shall be declared by the umpire if the score is equal on the last even innings played, when he terminates play in accordance with Section 3 of this rule after each team has played five (5) or more equal innings. If the team that went second to bat is at bat when the game is terminated, and has scored in the incompleted inning the same number of runs as the other team, the umpire shall declare the game drawn without regard to the score of the last equal inning. If the team last at bat shall, before the completion of its fifth inning, equal the score made by the opposing team in five (5) complete innings, the game shall be declared legally drawn, and all individual and team averages shall be incorporated in the official playing records.

SEC. 6. It shall be a regulation game if at any time after five (5) innings have been completed, the umpire shall call it in accordance with Section 3 of this rule, and the score shall be that of the last equal innings played; except that if the team second at bat shall have scored in an unequal number of innings more runs than the team first at bat, or if the team second at bat is at bat when the game is called, and has scored in the incompleted inning the same number of runs, or at least one run more, than the team first at bat, the score of the game shall be the total number of runs that each team has made.

SEC. 7. Whenever two games are scheduled to be played in one afternoon, the first game shall be the regularly appointed game for that day. If games are scheduled for morning and afternoon, and it is agreed to play both games in the afternoon, the first game shall be that which was originally scheduled to be played in the afternoon. No club or clubs shall engage in more than two championship games within a period of one day.

SEC. 8. No inning of any night game shall be started after 12:50 a. m.

If the first game of a double-header is started and called off, the second game must also be called off.

No matter how long the first game of a double-header lasts the second game must be started and play continued as long as conditions so warrant.

If the first game is started it must be completed before the second game can be started.

No night game can be started after 12:50 a. m., but if an inning has been started before that time it must be finished.

Forfeited Games.

RULE 24 A forfeited game shall be declared by the umpire in favor of the club not in fault, and the score shall be recorded as 9 to 0, in the following cases:

SEC. 4. If a team employ tactics palpably designed to delay or shorten the game.

SECTION 1. If the team of a club fail to appear upon the field, or being upon the field, refuse to begin a game for which it is scheduled or assigned, within five minutes after the umpire has called "Play" at the hour for the beginning of the game, unless such delay in appearing, or in commencing the game be unavoidable. team fails to resume playing in one minute after the umpire has called "Play."

SEC. 2. If, after the game has begun, one team refuse to continue to play, unless the game has been suspended or terminated by

SEC. 3. If, after play has been suspended by the umpire, one the umpire.

SEC. 5. If, after warning by the umpire, any one of the rules of the game be wilfully and persistently violated.

SEC. 6. If the order for the removal of a player, as authorized by Rules 14, 19, 30, 51 and 60, be not obeyed within one minute.

SEC. 7. If, because of the removal of players from the game by the umpire, or for any cause, there be less than nine players on either team.

SEC. 8. If, after the game has been suspended, the orders of the umpire are not complied with as required by Rule 26.

SEC. 9. If, when two games are scheduled to be played in one afternoon, the second game shall not be commenced within twenty minutes after the completion of the first game. The umpire of the first game shall be the timekeeper.

SEC. 10. In case the umpire declare the game forfeited he shall transmit a written report thereof to the president of the league within twenty-four hours thereafter. However, a failure on the part of the umpire to notify the president shall not affect the validity of his award of the game by forfeiture.

SEC. 11. In a regulation game which the umpire shall declare forfeited after four and one-half innings have been played, all individual and team averages shall be incorporated in the official playing records, except that no pitcher shall be credited with a victory or charged with a loss in said game.

It is true that all the sections of this rule are not observed to the exactness of a second, nor even a minute, but the intention of the rulemakers is to provide a penalty which can be enforced for any violation of unsportsmanlike delay if the umpire feels it within his judgment to act. Section 1 is to provide for wilful absence from the field; Section 2 means exactly what it says, and any umpire should never hesitate to enforce it. An umpire can forfeit a game under Section 3, under Section 4, and under Section 5, but umpires do not always use a stopwatch. There have been times perhaps when it would have been better had they done so. Section 6 is violated frequently in the spirit if not the letter, yet after one minute has elapsed the umpire has it within his power to act at once. No game can be played with fewer than nine players on a team (Section 7). Section 8 is enforceable in amateur games, while Sections 9 and 10 apply more to professional games governed by organized leagues.

No Game.

RULE 25 "No game" shall be declared by the umpire if he terminates play in accordance with Rule 23, Section 3, before five (5) innings have been completed by each team; but if the team last at bat is at bat in the last half of the fifth inning and has equaled before the completion of that inning the score of the team first at bat, the umpire shall declare the game "legally drawn" in accordance with Rule 23, Section 5. If the team second at bat shall have made more runs at the end of its fourth inning, or before the completion of its fifth inning, than the team first at bat has made in five (5) completed innings of a game so terminated, the umpire shall award the game to the team having made the greater number of runs, and it shall count as a legal game in the championship record.

This rule provides explicitly that if the team second at bat has more runs at the end of the fourth inning than the team first at bat has made at the end of its completed half of the fifth inning, the team second at bat wins. An added phrase provides a legal definition of victory if team second at bat is in the lead and the game is terminated before the fifth inning is completed.

Choice of Innings—Fitness of Field for Play.

RULE 26 The choice of innings shall be given to the manager or captain of the home team, who shall be the sole judge of the fitness of the ground for beginning a game; but, after play has been called by the umpire, the latter alone shall be the judge as to the fitness of the ground for resuming play after the game has been suspended, and when time is so called the groundkeeper and sufficient assistants shall be under the control of the umpire for the purpose of putting the ground in proper condition for play, under penalty of forfeiture of the game by the home team.

Umpires are the sole judges as to the fitness of the playing field for starting the second game of a double-header. This rule applies to any advertised double-header with one admission. Twilight and night games come under the ruling, unless they are distinct contests, such as are morning and afternoon games.

THE PITCHING RULES.

Delivery of the Ball to the Bat.

RULE 27 SECTION 1. Preliminary to pitching, the pitcher shall take his position facing the batsman with his pivot foot always on or in front of and in contact with the pitcher's plate. In the act of delivering the ball to the batsman, the pitcher's other foot is free, except that he cannot step to either side of the pitcher's plate. He shall not raise either foot until in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman, or in throwing to a base. With a runner on first or second base, the pitcher must face the batsman with both hands holding the ball in front of him. If he raises his arms above his head or out in front, he must return to a natural pitcher's position and stop before starting his delivery of the ball to the batsman.

NOTE—After pitcher takes legal position for delivery of ball to batsman, he may take one step backward and one step forward, but not to either side.

SEC. 2. At no time during the progress of the game shall the pitcher be allowed to (1) apply a foreign substance of any kind to the ball; (2) expectorate either on the ball or his glove; (3) rub the ball on his glove, person or clothing; (4) deface the ball in any manner; or to deliver what is called the "shine" ball, "spit" ball, "mud" ball or "emery" ball. For violation of any part of this rule the umpire shall at once order the pitcher from the game, and in addition he shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days, on notice from the president of the league. Provided that, under the supervision and control of the umpire, the pitcher may use to dry his hands a small, finely meshed sealed bag containing powdered rosin, furnished by the league.

Young pitchers should take strict notice of Section 1 of this rule in order that they may not acquire an illegal delivery, which results in balking. The pitcher must keep his pivot foot in contact with the rubber when he delivers the ball to the batter. His other foot is free and he may take one step backward and one step forward, but not to either side, when delivering the ball. The pitcher must not raise his foot and wheel suddenly and throw to a base, unless he takes one step directly toward that base. He must also, when runners are on base, avoid committing a balk as defined in the several sections of Rule 31.

Section 2 was adopted in 1920. It is the rule which pronounced the doom of the freak pitching deliveries that had crept into baseball from time to time. Young pitchers should specially take cognizance of this section. Freak deliveries are of no assistance to pitchers, because they are liable to suspension at any time if the umpire decides that the rule has been violated. A penalty of that severity makes it absurd for a beginner anxious to learn to pitch to waste his time on anything except straight baseball, which it is desirous to encourage. The rosin bag is solely to aid the pitcher to dry his hands.

With runners on the bases, pitchers seek to gain an advantage by delivering the ball to the batsman, without returning to a natural pitching position. In other words, they do not pause or hesitate as required by the rule. This has a tendency to hold the runners more closely to the bases and adds to the deception of the pitcher's assortment of stuff.

The rule states with a runner on first or second base, if the pitcher raises his arms above his head or out in front, he must return to a normal pitching position and STOP before starting his delivery to the batsman. Pitchers are constantly seeking to beat this rule by delivering the ball to the batsman with one continuous motion, rather than coming to a definite pause in the delivery on reaching the normal pitching position. The penalty is a balk, if pitcher does not come to full stop.

Pitchers are not allowed to wear a split sleeve if in the umpires' judgment it can in any way interfere with the batter.

Quick return pitch is not allowed and "Time" is to be immediately called by the umpire if and when such pitch is made.

If in the opinion of the umpire the pitcher throws a "Bean Ball" the pitcher shall be warned by the umpire and if the pitcher repeats this pitch he shall be removed from the game and the league office notified with full particulars.

The umpire is to provide a rosin bag furnished by the league to be placed on the ground back of the pitcher. The pitcher is not allowed to carry the bag in his pocket unless told to do so by the umpire. Pitcher is not allowed to apply rosin to any part of his uniform or ball.

A Fairly Delivered Ball.

RULE 28 SECTION 1. A fairly delivered ball is a ball pitched or thrown to the bat by the pitcher while standing in his position and facing the batsman that passes over any portion of the home base, before touching the ground, not lower than the batsman's knees, nor higher than his shoulder. For every such fairly delivered ball the umpire shall call one strike.

SEC. 2. If, with no one on base, the pitcher deliver the ball while off the pitcher's plate, and the batsman strike at such illegally delivered ball, it counts either as a strike or whatever play may follow.

The first section refers, of course, to when the batsman does not attempt to strike at a fairly delivered ball. When the batsman swings at a pitched ball, fairly or unfairly delivered, it is automatically a strike under most conditions and must be called by the umpire.

An Unfairly Delivered Ball.

RULE 29 An unfairly delivered ball is a ball delivered to the bat by the pitcher while standing in his position and facing the batsman that does not pass over any portion of the home base between the batsman's shoulder and knees, or that touches the ground before passing home base, unless struck at by the batsman, except as provided for in Section 4 of Rule 46; or, with the bases unoccupied, any ball delivered by the pitcher while no foot is in contact with the pitcher's plate, unless struck at by the batsman. For every unfairly delivered ball the umpire shall call one ball.

Note that if a ball touches the ground before passing home plate it is a ball, provided it does not later hit the batsman. In other words, if it strikes the ground and goes on its way, it is a ball. However, if such a pitch after striking the ground, should then hit the batsman, he would be entitled to first base on being hit by a pitched ball. If he elects to strike at it whatever happens is legal.

There are three possibilities that can arise from an unfairly delivered ball that results from a pitcher not having his pivot foot in contact with the rubber when he delivers it. For such an unfairly delivered ball, if there are no runners on the bases, the umpire shall rule it a ball, even though it passed over the heart of the plate within the strike zone, unless the batsman should strike at it. If the batsman so elects, it counts as a strike or whatever play may follow. With a runner or runners on the bases, such a delivered ball becomes a balk.

Delaying the Game.

RULE 30 SECTION 1. When the batsman is standing in his proper position, the ball shall not be thrown by the pitcher to any player other than the catcher except in an attempt to retire a base-runner. If repeated after warning by the umpire, the pitcher shall be removed from the game.

SEC. 2. The umpire shall call a ball on the pitcher each time he delays the game by failing to deliver the ball to the batsman for a longer period than 20 seconds, excepting that at the commencement of each inning, or when a pitcher relieves another, the pitcher may occupy one minute in delivering not to exceed five balls to the catcher or an infielder, during which time play shall be suspended.

There is a very severe penalty against the pitcher if he throws to a base as one might say "for fun" or to delay a game. Wilful delay on the part of the pitcher in delivering the ball, especially when storm threatens, should be punished by the umpire as Section 2 provides.

At the beginning of each inning the pitcher is allowed to throw five balls to the catcher or to an infielder for "warming-up" practice, the batsman refraining from occupying his position in the "box" at home plate.

Balks.

RULE 31 A balk entitling the base-runner, or runners, to advance one base shall be called by the umpire as follows:

SECTION 1. Any motion made by the pitcher while in position to deliver the ball to the bat without delivering it, or to throw to first base when occupied by a base-runner without completing the throw.

SEC. 2. Throwing the ball by the pitcher to any base to catch the base-runner without first stepping directly toward such base in the act of making such throw; or throwing or feinting to throw to an unoccupied base.

SEC. 3. Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while the pivot foot is back of or not in contact with the pitcher's plate.

SEC. 4. Any delivery of the ball to the bat by the pitcher while he is not facing the batsman.

SEC. 5. Any motion in delivering the ball to the bat by the pitcher while not in the position defined by Rule 27, Section 1.

SEC. 6. Holding of the ball by the pitcher so long as, in the opinion of the umpire, to delay the game unnecessarily.

SEC. 7. Making any motion to pitch while standing in his position without having the ball in his possession; or, regardless of whether he makes any motion to pitch or not, if the pitcher takes a legal position on the pitcher's plate without the ball in his possession, or if he takes a position off the pitcher's plate and feints to deliver the ball to the bat.

SEC. 8. Making any motion of the arm, shoulder, hip, knee, foot or body the pitcher habitually makes in his method of delivery, without immediately delivering the ball to the bat.

SEC. 9. After the pitcher has taken position, with both hands holding the ball in front of him, he cannot take either hand off the ball except in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman or in throwing to bases.

SEC. 10. If the pitcher steps off the pitcher's plate, after being in position for the purpose either of drying his hands or rubbing his eyes, or for other reasons, and it is a legitimate action not understood or interpreted by the umpire as intended to deceive a base-runner, then the umpire shall call "Time."

SEC. 11. If the pitcher, in the act of delivering the ball to the batsman or in throwing to first base, drop the ball, either intentionally or accidentally.

NOTE—With no one on bases, it is not a balk if the pitcher drops the ball while delivering it to the batsman.

SEC. 12. In case a "balk" is called, the ball shall be considered "dead" when announcement is made, and no play can be made until the runner or runners reach the base or bases to which they are entitled.

Professionals are more inclined to try to balk, or half balk, as it is called, than amateurs. Section 3 emphasizes the fact that the pitcher's pivot foot must be in contact with the rubber when he delivers the ball. The other foot may be behind or in front, but not on the side. Section 4 is violated with so much subtlety that it is often hard even for umpires to recognize when the pitcher is facing the batsman. Not only is there a penalty of a called ball against the pitcher if he fails to deliver the ball to the batter within twenty seconds, but if the umpire concludes that he is trying to delay the game he may call a balk, which would score a runner on third base and advance a runner on any other base.

Note Section 7 carefully. If the pitcher takes a legal position on the pitcher's rubber without the ball in his possession, or if he feints to deliver the ball to the batter and is not on the rubber and the ball is not in his possession, it is a balk.

Sections 9, 10, 11 and 12 of Rule 31 are plain and definite. Section 9 refers to the position of the pitcher's hands on the ball. Section 10 refers to the stepping of the pitcher from the rubber. Section 11 refers to the pitcher dropping the ball. If there are runners on the bases and the pitcher drops the ball in the act of delivering it to the batter it is a balk. Section 12 rules that a balk is also a dead ball. This is often overlooked and is important.

Ball Dead Not in Play.

RULE The ball is dead and not in play:

- 32
- (1) If a pitched ball touches any part of the batsman's person or clothing while the batsman is standing in his position, whether the ball is struck at or not;
 - (2) If a balk is committed;
 - (3) In case of an illegally batted ball;
 - (4) In case of a foul hit not legally caught;
 - (5) In case of interference with the fielder or batsman;
 - (6) In case a fair hit ball strikes a base-runner or umpire before touching a fielder;
 - (7) In case the ball is handled by a spectator as set forth in Rule 33.

In all of the foregoing cases the ball shall not be considered in play until it be held by the pitcher standing in his position and the umpire shall have called "Play."

These "automatic" cases of time should be called by the umpire to avoid confusion and to them can be added such cases as the batter calls for time when there is a substitution being made on the bases one base runner for another. Changing of the ball in play for the alternate ball in fact any time the umpire stops play for any legitimate reason he should call time and in a manner that players and spectators will know it.

Ball is dead in American League when fielder falls into dugout, bench or stand at any point after making catch of fly ball. However, if fielder steps into dugout but does not fall down, the ball remains in play.

Balls Handled by Spectators.

RULE A batted or thrown ball touched, stopped or handled by a person not engaged in the game is dead and not in play.

33

If a fair hit, the batsman making the hit shall be entitled to two bases and each base-runner shall be entitled to advance two bases. If a thrown ball, each base-runner shall be entitled to advance in accordance with Section 2 of Rule 65.

If a batter hits a ball that is touched by a spectator, the batter and all the runners advance two bases, the batter goes to second, the runner, who was on first at the time the pitch was made, moves to third and the runner, who was on second, scores. It all takes place with the position of the runners at time the pitch was made.

Ball is dead and runners advance two bases when ball is thrown by infielder.

On thrown balls by outfielder the situation is different. For example, with men on first and second, batter singles to right field. Fielder juggles ball, man on second scores and man on first going to third, draws a wild throw that hits spectator behind third base and ball rebounds on the playing field. Ball is dead. Umpires direct runners where to go, according to positions of runners when throw was made. If runner, who was on first, had passed second base at time throw was made, he is allowed to score. The batter is allowed to go to third, if umpires decide he passed first base at time throw was made.

THE RULES FOR BATSMEN.

The Batsman's Position.

RULE 34 Each player of the team at bat shall become the batsman and must take his position within the batsman's lines (as defined in Rule 8) in the order that his name appears in his team's batting order.

The batting list of a team may be arranged as its captain desires. It is not necessary that the captain shall be first at bat. Nor is it necessary that there shall be any fixed order, as outfielders, infielders and then the catcher and pitcher. Schoolboys of a generation ago thought a batting order arranged as so outlined to be orthodox. In some sections it has come to be a practice which is considered one of the essentials of the game, but is only by heritage and not authority.

The Order of Batting.

RULE 35 The batting order of each team must be on the score card and must be delivered before the game by its manager or captain to the umpire at the home plate, who shall submit it to the inspection of the manager or captain of the other team. The batting order delivered to the umpire must be followed throughout the game unless a player be substituted for another, in which case the substitute must take the place in the batting order of the retired player.

Major leagues require the manager of home team to deliver his batting order first to the umpire. Then the visiting manager or captain, delivers his lineup, after which, for the first time, they can inspect rival lineups.

If the umpire should make a mistake in announcing the pitcher, and his attention is called to the error, he should refer to his batting order and make proper announcement. No one should suffer because of umpire's error in announcing.

The acceptance of the batting orders of the two teams at the plate constitutes an "announcement." Pitchers named in such batting orders are "in the game," and must pitch to the first batter to face him until that first batter has either been retired or reaches first base.

The First Batsman in an Inning.

RULE 36 After the first inning the first batsman in each inning shall be the batsman whose name follows that of the last man who completed his "time at bat" in the preceding inning.

After the first inning the first batter in each succeeding inning is the player following the man who completed his full time at bat in the inning before, "Time at bat" means a full term at bat. Two strikes, or one, two or three balls, or one strike and three balls, for example, is not a full "time at bat." If a batter has but one strike in the first inning and the third man be put out while he is at bat, he becomes the first batter in the following inning, not having completed his full time at bat in the inning previous. In such case, any balls and strikes called in the preceding inning do not count when he assumes his time at bat in the next inning.

A Fair Hit.

RULE 37 A fair hit is a legally batted ball that settles on fair ground between home and first base, or between home and third base, or that is on or over fair ground when bounding to the outfield past first base or third base, or that touches first base or third base, or that first falls on fair territory on or beyond first base or third base; or that, while on or over fair ground, touches the person of the umpire or a player. A fair fly must be judged according to the relative position of the ball and the foul line, and not as to whether the fielder is on fair or foul ground at the time he touches the ball.

A batted ball that touches first base or third base is a fair hit even if it later bounds foul.

A Foul Hit.

RULE 38 A foul hit is a legally batted ball that settles on foul territory between home and first base or home and third base, or that bounds past first or third base on or over foul territory, or that falls on foul territory beyond first or third base, or, while on or over foul ground, touches the person of the umpire or a player, or any object foreign to the natural ground. A foul fly must be judged according to the relative position of the ball and the foul line, and not as to whether the fielder is on foul or fair ground at the time he touches the ball.

Any legally batted ball that settles on foul ground is a foul hit, except that a ground hit, should it roll from foul to fair territory between first and home or third and home, and remain there, is a fair hit.

A ground hit that first strikes fair territory and rolls outside of the foul line between first and home, or third and home, is a foul hit if the ball remains outside. As also is a batted ball that hits the pitching rubber and bounds into foul territory before passing first or third base, without touching a fielder.

Any legally batted ball that falls on foul territory beyond first base, or third base, or that touches the person of a player or an umpire on foul ground, is a foul hit.

Note again the phrase, "while on or over foul ground, touches the person of the umpire or player." This does not mean that a ball is fair if it is over foul ground and the player is on fair ground. Many disputes arise over this point.

A Foul Tip

RULE 39 A foul tip is a ball batted by the batsman while standing within the lines of his position, that goes sharp and direct from the bat to the catcher's hands and is legally caught.

A foul tip is a ball shooting off the bat to the catcher. The first two of such foul tips count as strikes even if not caught by catcher, in which case base runners may not advance. Any foul tip caught by the catcher constitutes a strike and ball is in play. Runners cannot advance, nor can a third strike be called, if the ball strikes the body or equipment of the catcher before he makes the catch.

A Bunt Hit.

RULE 40 A bunt hit is a legally batted ball, not swung at, but met with the bat and tapped slowly within the infield by the batsman. If the attempt to bunt result in a foul not legally caught, a strike shall be called by the umpire.

A bunt hit is legally tapping the ball slowly within the infield by the batsman. If a foul result which is not legally caught, the batsman is charged with a strike, whether it be the first, second or third strike. So proficient have batters become that tapping the ball has been literally changed to pushing or "dragging" the ball. Speed, a quick start, and the ball lacking force as it rolls, are factors that combine for success.

Any bunt rolling foul is a strike. If the ball twists, rolls or bounds outside the foul line and the baseman traps it at once, the batsman is charged with the first, second or third strike, as the case may be. The moment that a fielder touches a bunted ball on foul ground it becomes a foul. If the ball merely grazes the tip of his finger it becomes foul.

The batsman is out on a bunt that rolls foul if the attempted bunt be made on the third strike. It is not just a plain foul, as some appear to think, but a bona fide strike, and must be ruled upon and treated as such.

Balls Batted Outside the Playing Field.

RULE 41 SECTION 1. When a batted ball passes outside the playing field the umpire shall decide it fair or foul according to where it leaves the playing field.

This section, modified in 1931, gives justice to the batter. A batted ball must be decided fair or foul at the exact point at which it leaves the playing field.

SEC. 2. A fair batted fly ball that goes over the fence or into a stand shall entitle the batsman to a home run unless it should pass out of the ground or into a stand at a less distance than two hundred and fifty (250) feet from the home base, in which case the batsman shall be entitled to two bases only. In either event the batsman must touch the bases in regular order. The point at which a fence or stand is less than 250 feet from the home base shall be plainly indicated by a white or black sign or mark for the umpire's guidance.

If there were a ground rule that a home run could be batted into a stand or over the fence at a distance less than 250 feet from the home plate it could be observed, but such a "home run" is about like a squib as compared with a cannon cracker. It is not a standard home run and leagues should not attempt it.

Note that the batsman must circle the bases in order, even if a home run is automatically such a run. If a ball game is being played upon an improvised field, or upon a field that is limited in area and the 250-foot rule for a home run is in effect, every effort should be made to designate the exact spot at which the 250-foot limit is located; a marking flag will do if nothing better is available. The staff of the flag, of course, must be fixed exactly on the line extending from home plate to the field limit.

SEC. 3. A fair hit ball that strikes the ground and bounds into a stand or over a fence shall be a two-base hit.

A fair hit ball that strikes the ground and bounds over the fence or into a stand on fair or foul territory shall be a two-base hit. If a fielder attempting to make a catch of a fair fly ball, deflects it into a stand in foul territory, it shall be a two-base hit. However, should he deflect such a fair fly ball into a stand on fair territory or over the fence, it shall be considered a home run.

Strikes

RULE A strike is:

42 SECTION 1. A pitched ball struck at by the batsman without its touching his bat.

SEC. 2. A fair ball legally delivered by the pitcher at which the batsman does not strike.

SEC. 3. A foul ball not caught on the fly unless the batsman has two strikes.

SEC. 4. An attempt to bunt which results in a foul not legally caught.

SEC. 5. A pitched ball, at which the batsman strikes but misses and which touches any part of his person.

SEC. 6. A foul tip, held by the catcher, while standing within the lines of his position.

When the batsman strikes at a pitched ball and misses it, a strike is called.

When the batsman fails to strike at a pitched ball which passes over the plate at the legal height, between knees and shoulder, a strike is called.

With less than two strikes on the batter, any foul tip, whether caught by the catcher, or not, is a strike. After two strikes, however, a foul tip must be held by the catcher to become the third strike. If it is not held by the catcher it is just a foul.

A foul hit, whether a fly or a ground hit, bounding to any part of foul ground, is a strike unless the batter has two strikes. After two strikes the batter may foul the ball without penalty unless he bunts or is caught out on a foul fly or on a foul tip.

All bunts rolling foul are strikes. If the batsman strikes at the ball and misses it but the ball hits him it is a strike.

The third strike on the batsman offers many variations.

If with two strikes, a foul tip hits the umpire direct and is caught on the fly by a fielder before touching the ground, the batsman is NOT out. The ball becomes dead and is regarded merely as a foul ball. The same is true if a direct foul tip lodges in the umpire's mask or any other part of his equipment.

If a third strike, called or swung at and missed (not a foul tip) passes the catcher and hits the umpire direct, the ball is in play. If such a ball rebounds from the umpire and is caught on the fly before touching the ground, the batsman is not out, but the ball remains in play and the batsman may be retired by being touched with the ball or throwing it to first ahead of the runner.

If a third strike (not a foul tip) is called or swung at and missed and lodges in the umpire's mask or other part of his equipment, the ball becomes dead. However, the batsman shall be granted first base and other runners on the bases at the time, will be allowed to advance one base.

An Illegally Batted Ball.

RULE 43 An illegally batted ball is a ball batted by the batsman when either or both of his feet are upon the ground outside of the lines of the batsman's position.

If the batsman, with either of his feet out of the batsman's box, hits the ball in any way it is an illegally batted ball, and the batsman is out.

Frequently illegally batted balls escape the attention of the umpire, although it is not his fault. The batter in recent years tends to keep in motion while at bat and often does not set himself with a foot brace, depending upon a free swing to meet the ball. The penalty for an illegally batted ball is "out."

This is strictly up to judgment of umpire and no definite lines can be drawn, as nine times out of ten, one of the batter's feet is out of the box, when he has completed his follow through. Provided both feet were in the box at the start of the swing, umpires do not feel that the follow through that carried one foot out of the box has resulted from an effort to cheat the rule and seldom give it consideration. However, if the swing is made with both feet out of the box, he must always be called out.

When Batsman is Out.

RULE The Batsman is Out:

44 SECTION 1. If he fail to take his position at the bat in the turn in which his name appears in the batting order.

But if the error be discovered the proper batsman may replace the man at bat before the latter becomes a base-runner, in which case the balls and strikes must be counted in the time-at-bat of the proper batsman.

Only the proper batsman shall be declared out, and no runs shall be scored or bases run because of any act of the improper batsman.

This rule shall not be enforced unless the error be discovered and the out be declared before the ball be delivered to the batsman next facing the pitcher.

Should the batsman declared out under this section be the third

out and his team be thereby put out, the proper batsman in the next inning shall be the player who would have come to bat had the players been put out by ordinary play in the preceding inning.

Batting out of order plays will be less confusing if one remembers these very fundamental facts. It is an appeal play, or no action is taken. The appeal must be made before a ball is pitched to the next batsman. If and when the umpire makes a ruling, the proper batsman is always the man called out. No runners can advance on any act of an improper batsman that is properly discovered, an appeal made and ruled on. Runners return to their original bases and the next batter is the man who followed the proper batter in the regular lineup. Should the team at bat discover that the batsman is hitting improperly, it is possible to remove him and substitute the proper hitter, who shall take the ball and strike count that was on the improper batsman when the mistake was discovered. The time to appeal for a ruling on an improper batter is either after he is retired or reaches base, and then before a ball is pitched to the next hitter.

SEC. 2. If he fail to take his position within one minute after the umpire has called for the batsman.

Section 2 is not enforced to the limit. As a matter of fact there is little reason to enforce it. Most players are too anxious to bat. Its purpose is to give the umpire authority to act if the game is purposely delayed.

The batsman is out if a foul fly, other than a foul tip, is caught by a fielder, provided latter does not use his hat, cap, protector, or any illegal contrivances to catch the ball, and provided the ball does not strike some object other than a fielder before being caught. The batter is never out if a foul tip lodges between the catcher's chest protector and the body. Note that the ball must be caught and not "momentarily held."

If a fielder stands on fair territory and reaches over into foul territory to attempt to catch a fly and deflects the ball into fair ground, his position does not make the hit a fair ball. The reverse also holds true in regard to a player standing on foul ground and reaching after a fair batted ball.

SEC. 3. If he make a foul hit other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39, and the ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform, or strike some object other than a fielder before being caught, any of which would be an illegally caught ball.

SEC. 4. If he bat the ball illegally, as defined in Rule 43.

SEC. 5. If he attempt to hinder the catcher from fielding or throwing the ball by stepping outside the lines of the batsman's position, or in any way obstruct or interfere with that player, except that if a base-runner attempting to steal is put out the batsman shall not be out; except, also, that the batsman shall not be out under this section if the base-runner be declared out according to Section 15 of Rule 49.

Section 5 provides two ways for the punishment of interference, but it does not provide that two can be put out on one play, as some seem to think.

SEC. 6. If, while first base be occupied by a base-runner, the third strike be called on him by the umpire, unless two men are already out.

Note Section 6. If the umpire calls a third strike with first base occupied, and there are not two men out, the batter is out whether the catcher holds the third strike or not. An important game was once lost in the big leagues because the runner on first base did not know this rule. He thought that he was forced when the third strike was called against the batter and the catcher dropped the ball. He did not need to leave first and was an easy out when he tried to reach second. This rule was adopted to prevent the catcher from dropping the ball purposely to insure a double play.

When the third strike hits the batter, the ball is dead and base-runners are not permitted to advance.

SEC. 7. If, while attempting a third strike, the ball touch any part of the batsman's person, in which case base-runners occupying bases shall not advance as prescribed in Rule 48, Section 5.

SEC. 8. If, before two are out, while first and second or first, second and third bases are occupied, he hit a fair fly ball, other than a line drive, that can reasonably be caught by an infielder. In such case the umpire shall declare it an infield fly. However, the runners may be off their bases or advance at the risk of the ball being caught, the same as on any other fly ball; but if hit by the ball while standing on base, that base-runner shall not be called out, but the ball is dead and the batsman shall be called out; and if the base-runner be hit while off base, both that base-runner and the batsman shall be called out and the ball is dead. Provided, that, with first and second bases occupied, or first, second and third bases occupied, with less than two out, any attempt to bunt which results in a fair fly ball shall not be regarded as an infield fly.

Section 8 applies to the infield fly. Note, first of all, that it must be a "fair" fly. Then note that runners may be off their bases or advance at the risk of the fly being caught, same as on any fly ball. Also note that under the provisions of this section an attempt to bunt which results in a fair fly ball is not to be considered as an infield fly. If the umpire thinks an infield fly has been batted he declares it an "infield fly."

Many have a mistaken impression that the infield fly is operative with a runner on first only, or runners on first and third bases. It is not. The rule is made to prevent a player from trapping the ball and starting a double play with runners on first and second, or runners on first, second and third.

SEC. 9. If the third strike be called in accordance with Sections 4 or 5 of Rule 42.

Section 9 is self-explanatory. The batsman is out on a bunt that rolls foul or flies foul and settles on foul ground if the attempted bunt is made on the third strike. The batsman is out if, when it is the third strike, the batsman strikes at the ball and misses it, but is hit by the ball.

SEC. 10. If he steps from one batsman's box to the other while the pitcher is in his position ready to pitch.

Section 10 distinctly says, "while the pitcher is in his position ready to pitch." The batter may change from one box to the other when the pitcher is not in his position, the object of the rule being to prevent the batter from disconcerting the pitcher and perhaps causing him to balk.

This rule is one of the most important of any and calls for plenty of study and thought to be understood as it should be. The explanations are very clear and cover each section in good shape. In this rule it is wise to take one section at a time, and the notes attached to each section, to get what you are supposed to get out of it.

Do not hurry the calling of an infield fly. Be sure that it is going to land in fair territory. This applies particularly if there is a wind blowing. But if you have called infield fly and the ball does land in foul territory reverse your decision as a foul ball cannot be an infield fly under any conditions.

BASE-RUNNING RULES

Legal Order of Bases.

RULE 45 SECTION 1. The base-runner must touch each base in legal order, viz., First, Second, Third and Home Bases; and when obliged to return while the ball is in play, must retouch the base or bases in reverse order. He can only acquire the right to a base by touching it, before having been put out, and shall then be entitled to hold such base until he has legally touched the next base in order, or has been legally forced to vacate it for a succeeding base-runner.

After the batsman makes a fair hit in which he is not put out he must touch first, second and third bases and then the home plate in regular succession in order to score a run.

SEC. 2. A base-runner having acquired legal title to a base cannot run bases in reverse order for the purpose either of confusing the fielders or making a travesty of the game. A runner violating this rule is out if touched with the ball, or the ball held on the base said runner was entitled to hold.

Section 2 is to prevent a runner from reversing the bases, either for the purpose of confusing the fielders or to make the game look absurd. If a runner has left first base and has legally touched second base and has a legal claim to second base, he may not deliberately run the reverse way back to first base and expect to escape the penalty of being put out. If he violates the rule as it now reads he is out if he is touched with the ball or the ball is held on the base that the runner was entitled to hold.

SEC. 3. In case a runner is being run down between the bases, and the following runner occupies the same base the first runner has left, the second man cannot be put out while holding said base. If the first runner, however, returns safely to the base he left, and both runners are then occupying the same base, the second runner is the man out, if touched with the ball.

The base always belongs to the original occupant unless forced to advance, when the completion of a play results in two runners on the same base. The runner who advances to the base in question is the man who is out when touched with the ball. If he can return to the base he vacated without being touched, he has the right to do so. A base runner who advances to a base, another runner has left, is immune from being put out while on that base. It is when the original occupant returns that he loses his immunity.

SEC. 4. The failure of a preceding runner to touch a base (and who is declared out therefor) shall not affect the status of a succeeding runner who touches each base in proper style; except that, after two are out, a succeeding runner cannot score a run when a preceding runner is declared out for failing to touch a base as provided in Rule 49, Sections 10 and 13. This exception also applies to a batsman who hits the ball out of the playing field for an apparent home run.

With less than two out, the failure of a preceding runner to touch a base, shall in no way affect the status of succeeding base runners who properly touch the bases. This rule kills off all argument that a runner who touches a base that a preceding runner misses, technically passes said runner and is out for so doing. No longer is there any argument for such a contention under the present wording.

RULE The Batsman Becomes a Base-Runner:

46

SECTION 1. Instantly after he makes a fair hit.

SEC. 2. Instantly after "Four Balls" have been called by the umpire.

SEC. 3. Instantly after "Three Strikes" have been declared by the umpire.

SEC. 4. If, without making any attempt to strike at the ball, his person or clothing be hit by a pitched ball unless, in the opinion of the umpire, he plainly makes no effort to get out of the way of the pitched ball, in which case the umpire shall call a strike or a ball in accordance with Rules 28 and 29.

SEC. 5. If the catcher interferes with him, unless he makes a safe hit.

SEC. 6. If a fair hit ball strike the person or clothing of the umpire or a base-runner on fair ground, subject to the provisions of Section 8 of Rule 44.

The batsman should start to first base instantly after making a fair hit, or when four balls have been called, or when three strikes have been declared by the umpire, as a precaution for himself.

That part of Section 4 beginning "unless, in the opinion," etc., means that if the pitcher tosses a slow ball and the batter deliberately permits the ball to hit him, the umpire may use his judgment and not give the batter first base by calling the pitch a strike or a ball.

The batsman is entitled to go to first base without being put out if the catcher interferes with him, but if the batsman makes a safe hit he may run as many bases as the hit will permit.

The batsman is entitled to first base, without being put out, if before touching a fielder a fair hit ball touches either the person or clothing of an umpire or a base-runner who is on fair ground. However, if a runner who is standing on a base is struck by a fair batted ball when the umpire calls an infield fly, then the batsman and not the runner is declared out.

Entitled to Bases.

RULE 47 The base-runner shall be entitled, without liability to be put out, to advance one base, except where more are specified, in the following cases:

SECTION 1. If, while the batsman, he becomes a base-runner by reason of "four balls," or for being hit by a pitched ball, or for being interfered with by the catcher in striking at a pitched ball, or if a fair hit ball strike the person or clothing of the umpire or a base-runner on fair ground before touching a fielder. Provided, that if a fair hit ball strike the umpire after having passed a fielder other than the pitcher or having been touched by a fielder (including the pitcher), the ball shall be considered in play. Also, if a fair hit ball strike the umpire on foul ground, the ball shall be in play.

If the ball strike the umpire on fair ground after having passed a fielder, other than pitcher, or having been touched by a fielder, including pitcher, the base-runner may continue to advance and the ball is in play as if an error had been made, but the runner takes the usual risk of advancing on a misplay. If a fair hit ball strike the umpire while the latter is on foul ground the ball is in play, the position of the umpire having no effect on the ball.

"Passing a fielder" does not mean an ordinary batted ball that bounds past the pitcher.

SEC. 2. If the umpire awards to a succeeding batsman a base on four balls, or for being hit by a pitched ball, or being interfered with by the catcher in striking at a pitched ball and the base-runner be thereby forced to vacate the base held by him.

Whenever the umpire sends the batsman to first base after four balls have been called, or for being hit by a pitched ball, or because he has been interfered with by the catcher, all runners on bases immediately ahead of him may advance a base each without being put out. A runner on second or third base with first base unoccupied would not be considered a runner immediately ahead.

SEC. 3. If the umpire call a "Balk."

Every base-runner advances one base when the umpire calls a balk. The batter does not have the right to go to first base on a balk, because a balk does not qualify him as a base-runner.

SEC. 4. If he be prevented from making a base by the obstruction of a fielder (including catcher), except when a fielder is trying to field a batted ball unless the latter has the ball in his hand ready to touch the base-runner. The ball is still in play so far as other base-runners are concerned.

A fielder may not obstruct a runner, although the fielder has right of way if he is trying to field a batted ball. If the fielder has the ball in hand to touch a runner the latter is not entitled to base.

SEC. 5. If the fielder stop or catch a batted ball or a thrown ball with his hat, cap, glove or any part of his uniform, while detached from its proper place on his person, the runner or runners shall be entitled to three bases if a batted ball or to two bases if a thrown ball, and in either case the runner may advance further at his own risk.

The one important feature of this rule is that while the runner or runners shall be entitled to three bases if a fielder stop a fairly batted ball with cap or glove while detached from its proper place and two bases on a thrown ball, that in either case the runner may advance further at his own risk. In many quarters the impression prevails, and wrongly so, that advancement permitted is limited to three bases on a batted ball and two on a thrown ball.

Note also the mere act of throwing cap, glove or part of uniform at ball in itself is not a violation unless the article comes in contact with the ball.

SEC. 6. If a thrown or pitched ball strike the person or clothing of an umpire the ball shall be considered in play and the base-runner or runners shall be entitled to all the bases they can make.

Note carefully that on a thrown or pitched ball which strikes the umpire, runners make all the bases they can.

SEC. 7. If a thrown ball strike a coacher on foul ground the ball shall be considered in play. Provided, that if in the opinion of the umpire the coacher intentionally interfere with such thrown ball, the runner or runners must return to the last bases touched, and the coacher be penalized by removal from the playing field.

At first sight it might seem to make it worth while to interfere on the part of the coacher because the ball is in play, but when the penalty is noted it will be a very foolish coacher who will not try his best to get out of the way of thrown balls.

SEC. 8. If the catcher interferes with the batsman while a base-runner is attempting to steal a base, the base-runner shall be permitted to advance to that base.

SEC. 9. In event a base-runner is trying to score from third base on a pitched ball or the "squeeze" play, a "balk" and also an "interference" shall be called if the catcher runs out in front of the plate to catch the ball; and the runner shall be allowed to score and the batsman be entitled to first base. In such event the same penalties must be imposed in case the catcher pushes the batsman out of the way or tips his bat.

One of the few double penalties in baseball is in operation when the catcher interferes with the batsman, in making a play at the plate on a runner, either trying to steal home or score on the squeeze play. When such a thing happens, an interference and balk is called. The balk entitles the runner to score, while the interference entitles the batsman to first.

NOTE—Runners are entitled to one base when fielder falls into dugout, bench or stand at any point after making catch of fly ball as ball is dead, according to special ruling, in American League, but if fielder steps into dugout and does not fall down, ball remains in play and base runners can advance at their own peril.

In the National, however, ball is not considered dead, but runners cannot go beyond one base.

Returning to Bases.

RULE 48 The base-runner shall return to his base without liability to be put out:

SECTION 1. If the umpire declare any foul not legally caught.

SEC. 2. If the umpire declare an illegally batted ball.

SEC. 3. If the umpire declare a dead ball, unless it be also the fourth unfair ball and he be thereby forced to take the next base, as provided in Rule 47, Section 2.

SEC. 4. If the person or clothing of the umpire while stationed back of the bat, interfere with the catcher in an attempt to throw.

SEC. 5. If a pitched ball at which the batsman strikes but misses, touch any part of the batsman's person.

SEC. 6. If the umpire be struck by a fair hit ball before touching a fielder; in which case no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base-runner, and no run shall be scored unless all the bases are occupied.

SEC. 7. If the umpire declare the batsman or a base-runner out for interference; in which case all other base-runners shall return to the last base that was in the judgment of the umpire legally touched at the time of the interference.

SEC. 8. If the coacher intentionally interfere with a thrown ball, as described in Section 7, Rule 47.

In any and all of the foregoing cases the base-runner is not required to touch the intervening bases in returning to the base to which he is legally entitled.

The runner is obliged to go back to the base which he originally held when the ball was batted foul if the ball is not caught. The runner cannot be put out while returning. If a foul is caught on the fly, however, the runner is liable to be "doubled up" if he cannot get back before the caught ball is thrown to the base which he has just left. In the case of an illegally batted ball, the runner must return to the base from which he has advanced, exactly as in the case of a foul hit not caught.

If the umpire gets in the way of the catcher by accident, the runner cannot have the benefit of the mishap to the catcher, but must go back to his original base.

Note in Section 6 that the fair hit must strike the umpire before the ball touches the person of a fielder. There is an explicit provision in this section about running bases and about the scoring of a run.

Note again in Section 7, which emphasizes the fact that if the runner be declared out "for interference," the runners ahead shall return to base.

When Base-Runners are Out.

RULE The Base-Runner is Out:

49 SECTION 1. If, after three strikes have been declared against him while he is the batsman, the third strike ball be not legally caught and he plainly attempts to hinder the catcher from fielding the ball.

Tells the batter very plainly that if he interferes with the catcher when the latter has not caught the third strike, he suffers the penalty of being called out.

SEC. 2 (a) If, having made a fair hit while batsman, such fair hit ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground or any object other than a fielder; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform.

If, before two are out, while first, or first and second, or first, second and third bases are occupied, any player, in the judgment of the umpire, intentionally drops a fly ball or a line drive, the umpire shall immediately rule the ball has been caught.

NOTE—In such cases base-runners are not obliged to "tag up" and may advance at their own risk.

Provides that the umpire shall declare the ball caught if in his judgment a fielder intentionally drops a fly ball or a line drive when runners are on first, first and second, or first, second, and third bases, before two men are out.

SEC. 2 (b) If, after having hit or bunted a ball to fair territory, his bat again hits the ball on or over fair territory and deflects its course. Other base-runners cannot advance.

This means that the batsman is out if his bat hits the ball a second time while it is in fair territory and deflects its course.

SEC. 3. If, when the umpire has declared "Three Strikes" on him while he is the batsman, the third strike ball be caught by a fielder before touching the ground; provided, it be not caught in a fielder's hat, cap, protector, pocket or other part of his uniform, or touch some object other than a fielder before being caught.

In this case "fielder" refers particularly to the catcher. If there is a runner on first base and no one out, or only one out, the catcher does not even have to hold the ball. The batter is out automatically (see Section 6 of Rule 44). It is a "bone" play for a runner who is on first to think he must run when the batter has a third strike called on him and the catcher drops the ball, unless two men are out.

SEC. 4. If, after three strikes or a fair hit, he be touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder before he shall have touched first base.

Says "fielder," because any fielder—pitcher, catcher or first or second baseman—can touch the runner out if possible before the latter gets to first base. In other words, the first baseman does not have a monopoly of putting runners out at first base.

SEC. 5. If, after three strikes or a fair hit, the ball be securely held by a fielder while touching first base with any part of his person before such base-runner touch first base.

Defines the second way of putting runners out at first. If a fielder—meaning any player of side not at bat—with the ball in his possession, touches first base before the runner arrives at the base, the runner is out.

Often when a batter makes a long hit on which it appears he may go to second base, or third, or home, he runs outside the base path while rounding first base, there are some who instantly shout that he is out "for running out of the line." Note what Section 6 says. The runner is out for running out of line only if the ball is being fielded at first base and he runs out to avoid being put out. It is apparent that the farther he deviates from the base path, the more he is handicapping himself. When a batter hits for a home run the ball is not fielded to first base on the first play, except the runner is presumed to have omitted to touch first base, which is quite another matter from running out of line. There has been added to this section definite information regarding leaving the base line.

SEC. 6. If, in running the last half of the distance from home base to first base, while the ball is being fielded at first base, he run outside the three-foot lines, as defined in Rule 7; and, in the opinion of the umpire, interferes with the fielder taking the throw at first base; except that he may run outside the three-foot lines to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball.

SEC. 7. If, in running to any base, he run more than three feet from a direct line between a base and the next one in regular or reverse order to avoid being touched by a ball in the hand of a fielder. But in case a fielder be occupying a base-runner's proper path in attempting to field a batted ball, then the base-runner shall run out of direct line to the next base and behind said fielder and shall not be declared out for so doing.

Holds the runner to the base line to avoid being touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder. On the other hand, if the runner is trying for a long distance hit, the base line rule is not exacted. He may make his turn as best he can so that he shall not cut the bases. The runner never is out if he runs behind a fielder who is trying to field the ball. He may run in front of the fielder; indeed, sometimes it is almost impossible to do otherwise, but he must be careful that he does not interfere with the fielder.

SEC. 8. If he fail to avoid a fielder attempting to field a batted ball, in the manner described in Sections 6 and 7 of this rule, or in any way interferes with a fielder in attempting to field a batted ball, or intentionally interfere with a thrown ball; provided, that if two or more fielders attempt to field a batted ball, and the base-runner come in contact with one or more of them, the umpire shall determine which fielder is entitled to the benefit of this rule, and shall not decide the base-runner out for coming in contact with a fielder other than the one the umpire determines to be entitled to field such batted ball. If a fair hit ball goes through an infielder, and hits a runner immediately back of him, the umpire must not declare the runner out for being hit by a batted ball. In making such decision the umpire must be convinced that the ball passed through the infield and that no other infielder had the chance to make a play on the ball. If, in the judgment of the umpire, the runner deliberately and intentionally kick such a hit ball, on which the infielder has missed a play, then the runner must be called out for interference.

If the fielders have run into one another the runner is not at fault if he collides with that fielder who, in the opinion of the umpire, had the lesser opportunity to field the ball.

SEC. 9. If at any time while the ball is in play, he be touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder, unless some part of his person be touching the base he is entitled to occupy; provided, however, that the ball be held by the fielder after touching him, unless the base-runner deliberately knock it out of his hand. The ball must be firmly held by the fielder after touching the runner. The ball cannot be juggled, even though the fielder may regain possession of the ball and prevent same from dropping to the ground.

The runner is out at any time when he is touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder, unless the runner is on the base which he is entitled to occupy. The ball, however, must be held by the fielder after he has touched the runner. If the runner deliberately knocks the ball out of the fielder's hands to avoid being put out, he must be declared out. Note that the rule states explicitly that the ball cannot be juggled by the fielder.

SEC. 10. If, when a fair or foul hit ball (other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39) be legally caught by a fielder, such ball be legally held by a fielder on the base occupied by the base-runner when such ball was batted, or the base-runner be touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder, before he retouch such base after such fair or foul hit ball was so caught; provided, that the base-runner shall not be out in such case, if, after the ball was legally caught, it be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on said base, or touch the base-runner out with it; but if the base-runner, in attempting to reach a base, detach it from its fastening before being put out, he shall be declared safe. A base-runner who holds his base on a fly ball shall have the right to advance the moment such fly ball touches the person or uniform of a fielder.

Means that the runner is out if he cannot get back to the base that he originally occupied after a foul or fly catch is made and the ball is thrown to the base ahead of him. For instance, a runner is on second base. The ball is batted so hard and so close to the foul line that the runner is sure it is a safe hit. He starts to run and when he arrives at third base finds that the ball was caught. Then the ball is thrown to second before he can return and is held on the base. That retires the runner. A similar condition prevails at first and third bases. If the runner slides into a base or jumps into it and unloosens it from its fastening, he is safe if he is not forced out or if he has not been touched. He is not compelled to follow the base. The base-runner shall have the right to advance the moment a fly ball touches the person or uniform of any fielder. Whether or not the ball is caught or muffed, he can try for the next base subject to the rules regarding advancing on bases.

SEC. 11. If, when the batsman becomes a base-runner, the first base, or the first and second bases or the first, second and third bases be occupied, any base-runner so occupying a base shall cease to be entitled to hold it, and may be put out at the next base in the same manner as in running to first base, or by being touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder at any time before any base-runner following him in the batting order be put out, unless the umpire should decide the hit of the batsman to be an infield fly according to Section 8 of Rule 44.

Embraces the much misunderstood "force play." No runner can be forced on the base paths except the batsman becomes a base-runner. For instance, with runners on, say, all of the bases, the runner on third suddenly decides to steal home and the runner on second moves up to third and touches it. The runner who had been on third, however, decides that he can not make home safely, and returns to third base. He is legally entitled to do so, while the runner who had come up from second will have to hurry back to that base the best way he can. Many amateurs think that the moment the runner on second touches third base, the runner who was on third becomes "forced" to go to the plate, but he is not. This applies in like manner to runners on first and second, respectively. The runner is always entitled to return to the base he held originally—always with the possibility of being put out by being touched with the ball until that time when the batsman forces all runners immediately preceding him by becoming a base-runner. If there were three runners on bases when that happened, all of them necessarily would have to start. The runner on third base would try to get home, the runner on second would try to get to third, and the runner on first would try to get to second, while the batter would try to beat the ball to first. His play at bat forced everybody, but not until the batter starts a force play is there a force play in baseball. In the event of an infield fly, the umpire is expected to announce "infield fly" or "outfield fly," for no other purpose than to kill the "force." When he says, "batter out," it is an infield fly and the runners may hold their bases in safety.

SEC. 12. If a fair hit ball strike him before touching a fielder, and, in such case, no base shall be run unless necessitated by the batsman becoming a base-runner, but no run shall be scored or any other base-runner be put out until the umpire puts the ball back into play.

The runner is out if he is hit while on fair territory by a batted ball. The ball is dead. That should not be forgotten. The batter takes his base, however.

SEC. 13. If, when advancing bases, or returning to a base, while the ball is in play, he fail to touch the intervening base or bases, if any, in the regular or reverse order, as the case may be, he may be put out by the ball being held by a fielder on any base (including home base) he failed to touch, or by being touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder in the same manner as in running to first base; provided, that the base-runner shall not be out in such case if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base-runner with it; however, after a fly ball other than a foul tip as defined in Rule 39 be legally caught by a fielder, the base-runner who complies with the provisions of this section can only be retired by the ball being held by a fielder on the base occupied by the runner when such ball was batted, or by being touched by the ball in the hand of the fielder as provided in Section 10 of this rule.

If the runner, in trying for a three-base hit, should fail to touch either first or second base, he is out if the attention of the umpire is called to the play, the ball held on the base, or the runner touched with the ball in the hand of a fielder, and if the umpire saw the omission. In like manner, if the runner in returning to bases—the ball being in play—fail to touch the bases in regular order, if he is called upon to do so because of the play that is being made, he is out, if the attention of the umpire is called to his transgression, if the umpire saw his failure to do so and the proper play is made. If the pitcher has delivered the ball to the batter before the claim is made, the runner may not be called out. It should be noted that the attention of the umpire must be called to the act of a runner having omitted to touch a base and the ball must be held on the missed base or the runner touched by the ball in the hand of a fielder. The umpire is a referee, not a policeman; and questions of fact are submitted to him for decision in his judicial capacity.

SEC. 14. If, when the umpire calls "Play," after the suspension of a game, he fail to return to and touch the base he occupied when "Time" was called before touching the next base; provided, the base-runner shall not be out, in such case, if the ball be delivered to the bat by the pitcher, before the fielder hold it on said base or touch the base-runner with it.

Calling "Play" or "Time" is exactly as calling fair or foul, so far as returning to and touching a base is concerned.

SEC. 15. If, with one out, or none out, and a base-runner on third base, the batsman interfere with a play being made at home plate.

Gives the umpire a right to call the runner out at third base if there is no one out or one out and the batsman interferes with a play that is being made at home plate. It must be thoroughly understood that if the runner is called out, the batter may not be called out also.

SEC. 16. If he pass a preceding base-runner before such runner has been legally put out he shall be declared out immediately.

A base-runner never should be foolish enough to pass a preceding base-runner. This seems like an unnecessary warning, but there have been many instances where base-runners have done so, being ignorant of the rule against it.

SEC. 17. If, in the judgment of the umpire, the coacher at third base by touching or holding the runner physically assists him in returning to or leaving third base. The runner, however, should not be declared out if no play is being made on him.

The wording of the rule makes it very plain when the runner is and is not out.

SEC. 18. The base-runner in running to first base may overrun or overslide said base after touching it in passing without incurring liability to be put out for being off said base, provided he return at once and retouch the base, after which he may be put out as at any other base. If, after overrunning first base, he attempt to run to second base, before returning to first base, he shall forfeit such exemption from liability to be put out.

When the runner goes to first base, after he has finished being a batter, he may overrun or overslide the base as far as he wishes and turn either to the right or to the left, but if he should make an apparent effort to go to second base, when he thus overruns first base, he loses his right to return to first base without exemption from being put out.

SEC. 19. If, while third base is occupied, the coacher stationed near that base shall run in the direction of home base on or near the base line while a fielder is making or trying to make a play on a batted ball not caught on the fly, or on a thrown ball, or a fly ball, and thereby draws a throw to home base, the base-runner entitled to third base shall be declared out by the umpire for the coacher's interference with and prevention of the legitimate play.

Warns the coacher at third not to try to fool the players of the team in the field into making a false throw to head off an apparent runner trying to score. Before the rule was adopted there were some players who made a specialty of this unsportsmanlike practice.

SEC. 20. If one or more members of the team at bat stand or collect at or around a base for which a base-runner is trying, thereby confusing the team in the field and adding to the difficulty of making such play, or if a batsman or base-runner who has just been retired obstructs or interferes with any following play being made on a base-runner, the base-runner shall be declared out for the interference of his team-mate or team-mates.

This rule very plainly tells the players of the side at bat to keep away from the bases unless they belong there. If a player who has been put out obstructs or interferes with any following play on a base-runner his team-mate may be called out.

This Rule 49 ranks with 44 in importance and is not to be passed over carelessly and is entitled to a full-time study period itself.

A fielder in making a catch must hold the ball after making the catch as there is no more momentarily held rule in effect. If the fielder drops the ball in a collision with another fielder or crashes into a wall or fence he must still hold the ball to make catch legal.

If he falls down after catch he must come up with the ball. It is a catch if, after making a catch, the fielder in the act of throwing the ball should drop it and this is a judgment play for the umpire.

An intentionally dropped fly ball should not be confounded with an infield fly.

An intentionally dropped fly applies to any fair fly ball not called an infield fly by the umpire. A runner must tag up on an intentionally dropped fly ball, but can advance on a dropped infield fly and is only obliged to tag up on an infield fly if it is caught.

Base runner is out if in running to first base after hit or fairly bunted ball, his bat, either in his possession or free from him, again hits the ball on fair territory and deflects its course; this is an interference, no bases can be run and the batter is out.

The ball is in play if the base runner, after fair hit or bunt, drop or throw his bat (not considered an interference by the umpire) and the ball rolls up to and hits bat lying on fair ground.

If the batsman while in his box hits a sharp rebounding ball that strikes him or his bat it is a foul ball.

When Umpire Shall Declare an Out.

RULE 50 The umpire shall declare the batsman or base-runner out, without waiting for an appeal for such decision, in all cases where such player be put out in accordance with any of these rules, except Section 1 of Rule 44 and Sections 10, 13 and 18 of Rule 49.

An appeal must be made to the umpire when a runner "cuts a base," either in trying for a long hit or in returning to the base that he held originally. The umpire may see the failure to touch a base, but he must not rule on it unless players of the team in the field have been as observant as he and ask for a ruling. Likewise, if a runner turns toward second base, after he has passed first base, the attention of the umpire must be called to it by an opposing player before the runner is declared out. There are times when the umpire does not observe the runner omitting to touch a base. If a player of the opposing side asks for the ruling, it is not in the province of the umpire to declare the runner out if the umpire failed to see the runner miss the base. If a player fails to return to base after a fly catch the umpire must not volunteer a decision. The team in the field must make an appeal to him.

Coaching Rules.

RULE 51 A coacher may address words of assistance and direction to the base-runners or to the batsman. He shall not, nor shall any player or manager, by words or signs, incite or try to incite the spectators to demonstrations, nor use language which will in any manner refer to or reflect upon a player of the opposite club, the umpire or the spectators. Not more than two coachers, who must be in the uniform of the team at bat, shall be allowed to occupy the space between the players' and the coachers' lines, one near first and the other near third base, to coach base-runners. If there be more than the legal number of coachers or this rule be violated in any respect the umpire must order the illegal coacher or coachers to the bench, and if his order be not obeyed within one minute, the offender or offenders shall be debarred from further participation in the game, and shall leave the playing field forthwith.

THE SCORING OF RUNS.

RULE 52 One run shall be scored every time a base-runner, after having legally touched the first three bases, shall legally touch the home base before three men are put out; provided, however, that if he reach home on or during a play in which the third man be forced out or be put out before reaching first base, a run shall not count; also, if third out is made by preceding runner failing to touch a base a run shall not count.

The part of Rule 52, which states that no run can score on a play in which the third man be out before reaching first base, can produce a very unusual situation, which hardly seems fair, yet is entirely in keeping with the strict interpretation of the rule. For example: A is on second and B is on first and one man out. The batsman hits safely, the runner A from second easily crossing the plate on the drive. The runner B originally on first tries to score but is thrown out at the plate in a close play for the second out. The batsman reaches third base on his hit. However, he fails to touch first base en route. The ball is thrown to the first basemen, who touches the base and appeals to the umpire for a ruling. The umpire calls the batsman who reaches third on the hit, out for having missed first base. Since the batter who hit the ball fails to touch first base he never became the occupant of that bag. When the ball is thrown to that base, an appeal made and an out declared, it makes the third out, in which the batsman fails to reach first base. No runs can score on such a happening, hence it is necessary to void the run that was apparently scored by the runner A, originally on second, who crossed the plate at a time when only one man was out.

When a preceding runner scores on a play in which he fails to touch

one of the bases, with none or one out, it shall not affect the status of succeeding runners who may have scored on the same play. However, if two are out at the time, and a preceding runner fails to touch a base for the third out, the runs of any succeeding players who cross the plate on the same play are voided.

Example Number 1—There are runners on first and second and one out. Batsman hits a home run inside the park. Runner on second fails to touch third base on his way to the plate. Ball is thrown to that base and he is declared out. Runner originally on first and batter who hit the home run, legally, score on the play.

Example No. 2—There are runners on first and second and two out. Batsman hits home run inside the park. All three runners cross the plate. Runner on second fails to touch third en route. He is called out on appeal, for the third out of the inning. In this case, the other two runs are voided.

The proper thing to do when a base runner misses home plate in the scoring of a run, always is confusing all around. If the player either is running or sliding, misses the plate and isn't touched by the catcher, he has a perfect right to try to regain the plate before being touched. However, if he misses the plate and continues on his way to the bench, the fielder with the ball can touch the plate and appeal for a ruling and the runner must be called out. If the runner after missing the plate, remains four or five feet away from it, and the catcher makes an effort to touch him, only to have the player continue to run in foul territory, the umpire should immediately call him out. This takes care of the three situations that can arise from missing home plate.

Definition of a Force Play.

A force-out can be made only when a base-runner legally loses the right to the base he occupies by reason of the batsman becoming a base-runner, and he is thereby forced to advance.

Again the "force-out" is brought plainly to attention. A run cannot be scored if the third man out is forced out or is put out before he reaches first base. For instance, three runners are on bases and the batter hits a slow grounder to the shortstop. Before he gets the ball the runner on third, who had a good start toward home, is quite up to the plate, but the runner who was on first is slow and the shortstop throws him out before he is able to make second base. The run does not count. The force play does not necessarily have to be made at third base.

If there is a runner on third and the batter hits the ball to the pitcher, who fumbles it, and the third baseman recovers it and throws the batter out at first base, and it is the third out, a run does not score even if the runner on third was over home plate before the ball got to first base. On the other hand, if the third out should be made at second base, and not on a force play, and the runner on third should have scored before the put-out was made, the run does count. Note carefully in this rule that a third-man-out force play prevents a run from scoring, and that if the batter is the third out before reaching first base a run cannot score.

Rule 52 is very important as it covers the forced play situation which causes so much confusion as to whether or not runs do or do not score but is fully covered in the notes.

UMPIRES AND THEIR DUTIES.

Power to Enforce Decisions.

RULE 53 The umpires are the representatives of the league and as such are authorized and required to enforce each section of this code. They shall have the power to order a player, coach, trainer, captain or manager to do or omit to do any act which in their judgment is necessary to give force and effect to one or all of these rules, and to inflict penalties for violations of the rules as hereinafter prescribed. In order to define their respective duties, the umpire judging balls and strikes shall be designated as the "Umpire-in-Chief"; the umpire judging base decisions as the "Field Umpire."

Umpires in amateur games have equally as much authority as those in professional games except that fines are not imposed in amateur games.

The umpire is supposed to have full control of game at all times. To do his work in a business-like manner and not to indulge other than his duties call for in conversation with players or spectators. If asked a question in the proper manner reply the same way and go about your business. Hustle and keep your game going as it should and you will be kept busy, and HUSTLE at all times.

Make your decisions in a clear-cut, decisive manner leaving no doubt in the minds of the players and spectators as to your being positive you are right. Do not hurry them nor on the other hand hesitate and give the impression that there might be some doubt in your mind as to whether or not you had the play right. Always be in the proper position to see the play as it really occurs as position is 50 per cent of umpiring. You cannot call a play properly without a proper view of same. Take nothing for granted in baseball. Be sure that play is completed and then call it and then move away.

Refrain from sarcasm to players, spectators or club officials at all times. Always be courteous and as the league representative uphold the dignity of that office. Again we say, HUSTLE.

Carry a rule book and do not hesitate to use it if at any time you are in doubt about the proper interpretation of a rule. GET IT RIGHT, that's the idea.

The Umpire-in-Chief.

RULE 54 SECTION 1. The Umpire-in-Chief shall take position back of the catcher; he shall have full charge of and be responsible for the proper conduct of the game. With exception of the decisions to be made by the Field Umpire, as described in Rule 55, the Umpire-in-Chief shall render all the decisions that ordinarily would devolve upon a single umpire, and which are prescribed for "The Umpire" in these Playing Rules.

SEC. 2. He shall call and count balls and strikes, shall call fair and foul hits (including a foul tip), and shall make all decisions on the batsman.

SEC. 3. He shall render base decisions in the following instances: (1) If the ball is hit fair, with a runner on first, he must go to third base to take a possible decision; (2) with more than one base occupied, he shall, on appeal, decide whether or not a runner on third leaves that base before a fly ball is caught; (3) in case of a runner being caught between third and home, when more than one base is occupied, he shall make the decision on the runner nearest the home plate.

SEC. 4. The Umpire-in-Chief alone shall have authority to declare a game forfeited.

Note the words, "on appeal," in clause 2 of foregoing section.

Section 3 should be well studied by the umpire in order that he may learn where to place himself when there are runners on the bases.

The Field Umpire.

RULE 55 SECTION 1. The Field Umpires shall take such positions on the playing field as in their judgment are best suited for the rendering of base decisions. They shall render all decisions at first base and second base, and all decisions at third base except those to be made by the Umpire-in-Chief in accordance with Section 3, Rule 54. They shall also have equal authority with the Umpire-in-Chief in the calling of "balks" on the pitcher, and in enforcing Section 4, Rule 14, and Section 2, Rule 27, prohibiting the use of foreign substance on the ball and prohibiting "freak" deliveries.

SEC. 2. They shall aid the Umpire-in-Chief in every manner in enforcing the rules of the game and, with the exception of declaring a forfeiture, shall have equal authority with the Umpire-in-Chief in fining or removing from the game players who violate these rules.

The Field Umpire may not forfeit a game, but he may remove a player who does not observe the rules. He has authority to rule on balks and "freak" deliveries.

Umpires should not stop, catch or touch the ball at any time unless they are positive that there are three out or that the ball is not in play. Let the players do the playing of the game and to just handle the ball when you have is the proper way to avoid trouble from this source.

No Appeal From Decisions Based on Umpire's Judgment.

RULE 56 There shall be no appeal from any decision of any umpire on the ground that he was not correct in his conclusion as to whether a batted ball was fair or foul, a base-runner safe or out, a pitched ball a strike or a ball, or on any other play involving accuracy of judgment, and no decision rendered by him shall be reversed, except that he be convinced that it is in violation of one of these rules. The manager or captain only shall have the right to protest against a decision and seek its reversal on a claim that it is in conflict with a section of these rules. In case the manager or captain does seek a reversal of a decision based solely on a point of rules, the umpire making the decision shall, if he is in doubt, ask his associate for information before acting on the manager's or captain's appeal. Under no circumstances shall an umpire criticize or interfere with a decision unless asked to do so by his associate.

An umpire may not change decisions of other umpire, or umpires. Latter may ask for a conference and then may change a decision if satisfied he is in the wrong. Only the more obtuse decline to admit mistakes. No manager or captain may protest a decision of the umpire where it is simply a matter of judgment on the part of the latter. Many do protest, and that practice is what leads to obnoxious and annoying delay brought about in direct violation of the rule. Protests on balls and strikes are absurd, although the Umpire-in-Chief not infrequently calls a ball or a strike which seems not to have been one. However, his position for judgment is far better than that of any player except the catcher, and of any spectator, no matter where the latter may be seated. A Field Umpire may decide wrongly in the rapidity of play, and when he thinks he may have done so, has a perfect right to ask the Umpire-in-Chief as to the accuracy of the decision. The camera has shown that umpires, even the best of them, do make incorrect decisions, and has also shown that players, even the best of them, do make foolish objections.

Duties of Single Umpire.

RULE 57 If but one umpire be assigned, his duties and jurisdiction shall extend to all points, and he shall be permitted to take his stand in any part of the field that in his opinion will best enable him to discharge his duties.

He may umpire from behind home plate or from behind the pitcher's plate.

It is a good practice for any and all umpires that can do so to work a few games alone, so that you may get accustomed to seeing everything that takes place on the ball field and thus be able to give your partner aid if he is obliged at any time to ask for it.

Must Not Question Decisions.

RULE 58 Under no circumstances shall a manager, captain or player dispute the accuracy of the umpire's judgment and decision on a play.

If the captain thinks the umpire has erred in interpretation of the rules he may appeal to him, but no other player is privileged to do so. The umpire has the right to remove players for objecting to decisions or behaving in an ungentlemanly manner, and his authority is absolute.

Clubs Can Not Change Umpire.

RULE 59 The umpire can not be changed during a championship game by the consent of the contesting clubs unless the official in charge of the field be incapacitated from service by injury or illness.

Penalties for Violations of the Rules.

RULE 60 SECTION 1. In all cases of violation of these rules by player, coach or manager, the penalty shall be prompt removal of the offender from the game and grounds, followed by a period of such suspension from actual service in the club as the president of the league may fix; except, that in event a pitcher is removed from the game for violation of either Section 4 of Rule 14, or of Section 3 of Rule 27, he shall be automatically suspended for a period of ten days. In the event of removal of player, trainer, coach or manager by either umpire, he shall go direct to the club house and remain there during the progress of the game, or leave the grounds; and a failure to do so will warrant a forfeiture of the game by the Umpire-in-Chief.

American and National league rules provide that a player, coach, trainer or manager removed from the game must leave the field immediately; and after changing to street clothes, he must not take a seat in the stands adjacent to his club's bench; and if he does so, his suspension or fine will be doubled.

In the American League a player or manager put out during the first game of a double-header is also out of the second game. The National League rules, however, permit a player or manager banished from the first game to return for the second game.

SEC. 2. The umpire shall assess a fine of $25.00 against (1) the manager or captain who fails to notify him when one player is substituted for another; (2) against anyone who crosses the field in going to the club house after he has been ordered from the game or bench. (Persons so removed must go around the playing field.) A fine of $5.00 shall be assessed against any player or coach who fails to be seated on his bench within one minute after ordered to do so by the umpire.

SEC. 3. In cases where players show their disapproval of decisions by yelling from the bench, the umpire shall first give warning. If the yelling continues he shall order the offender or offenders from the bench; but in event the disturbance is continued and the umpire is unable to detect the offenders, then he shall clear the bench of all substitute players; the manager or captain of the team, however, to have the privilege of sending to the club house for such substitutes as are actually needed to replace players in the game.

Umpire to Report Violations of the Rules.

RULE 61 The umpire shall within twelve hours after fining or removing a player from the game, forward to the league president a report of the penalty inflicted and the cause therefor.

League President to Notify Player Fined.

RULE 62 Immediately upon being informed by the umpire that a fine has been imposed upon any manager, captain, coach or player, the league president shall notify the person so fined and also the club of which he is a member; and, in the event of the failure of the person so fined to pay to the secretary of the league the amount of said fine within five days after notice, he shall be debarred from participating in any championship game or from sitting on a players' bench during the progress of a championship game until such fine be paid.

A Flagrant Offense.

RULE 63 When the offense of any person debarred from the game be of a flagrant nature, such as the use of obscene language or an assault upon a player, coach, manager or umpire, the umpire shall within four hours thereafter forward to the president of the league full particulars.

Materials of the Game.

RULE 64 Before the commencement of a game the umpire shall see that the rules governing the playing implements and markings of the field are strictly observed.

American and National league rules provide one umpire is to be at the park and take charge of the field one hour before game time. It is his duty to see that the visiting club is allotted the proper time for batting and fielding practice. During the progress of championship games, all players of the club at bat must be on the bench, except when they have some duty to perform, as coacher, base runner, batsman or succeeding batsman.

Ground Rules.

RULE 65 SECTION 1. In case of spectators overflowing on the playing field, the home manager or captain shall make special ground rules to cover balls batted or thrown into the crowd, provided such rules be acceptable to the manager or captain of the visiting club. If the latter object, the umpires shall have full authority to make and enforce such special rules, and he shall announce their provisions to the spectators.

Means what it says. If the ground rules are not satisfactory to the visiting club, the umpire has authority to make ground rules. Special ground rules to govern various conditions of fields vary in different parks and usually are agreed upon by the two managers with the umpires, before the game.

SEC. 2. In all cases where there are no spectators on the playing field, and where a thrown ball goes into a stand for spectators, or over or through any fence surrounding the playing field, or into the players' bench (whether the ball rebounds into the field or not), or remains in the meshes of a wire screen protecting the spectators, the runner or runners shall be entitled to two bases. When a first throw made by an infielder, the umpire in awarding such bases, shall be governed by the position of the runner or runners at the time the ball was pitched; when the throw is made by an outfielder, or is the result of any following plays or attempted plays, the award shall be governed by the position of the runner or runners at the time the last throw was made.

Means that if a runner has started to steal and an overthrow as stated is made by an infielder, the runner would be privileged to advance two bases from the base he occupied at the time the ball was pitched to the batsman. If a runner has started to steal with the pitch, and gains the next base before an outfielder makes such an overthrow, the runner would be awarded two bases in addition to the base he had advanced after the play began. If an outfielder has made a perfect throw to another player of his team and it is the latter's throw that goes into a stand or dugout, the two bases will be allowed from where the runners were at the time the last throw was started.

American League regulations provide that when a pitched ball sticks in the screen or goes into the stands or dugouts, or is touched or carried from the field by a spectator, the base runners shall be entitled to advance one base and the ball shall be dead.

SEC. 3. The umpire shall also ascertain from the home manager or captain whether any other special ground rules are necessary, and if such be necessary he shall advise the opposing manager or captain of their scope and see that each is duly enforced, provided they do not conflict with any of these rules and are acceptable to the manager or captain of the visiting team.

Ball going up on screen or behind padding back of catcher above connection; off the mound: One base. Thrown ball: Two bases.

Official Announcements.

RULE 66 The umpire shall call "Play" at the hour appointed for the beginning of a game, announce "Time" at its legal interruption and declare "Game" at its legal termination. Prior to the commencement of the game he shall announce the batteries, and during the progress of the game shall announce each change of players. In case of an overflow crowd, he shall announce the special ground rules and he shall also make announcement of any agreement entered into by the two managers or captains to stop play at a specified hour.

"Play" is the order of the umpires to begin the game or to resume it after "Time" has been called.

"Time" is the order of the umpire to suspend play temporarily.

"Game" is the announcement of the umpire that the contest is terminated.

Suspension of Play.

RULE 67 The umpire shall suspend play for the following causes:
SECTION 1. If, in the judgment of the umpire, play should be suspended on account of rain, darkness, or other cause, he shall note the time of suspension and at the end of thirty minutes he shall have authority to terminate the game if the resumption of play be not possible.

SEC. 2. In case of an accident which incapacitates him or a player from service in the field, or in order to remove from the grounds any player or spectator who has violated the rules. Provided, that in case of accident to a player or players in attempting to make a play on either a batted or a thrown ball, "Time" shall not be called until in the judgment of the umpire, no further play is possible.

SEC. 3. In suspending play from any legal cause the umpire shall call "Time"; when he calls "Time" play shall be suspended until he calls "Play" again, and during the interim no player shall be put out, base be run or run be scored. "Time" shall not be called by the umpire until the ball be held by the pitcher while standing in his position, except in case of accident to a player or umpire.

There is no such thing as automatic suspension of play. There are a number of things that can happen, which eventually call for suspension of play, but the proper time for such suspension is determined by the umpire in keeping with the rules. There is an erroneous impression that play is automatically suspended when two players suffer a serious collision, in which both are rendered unconscious as a result of the contact. It is the belief of many that the umpire should call time since the players have been rendered unfit for play. While it may seem inhuman, time cannot be called until the umpire is of the opinion that no further play is possible. It is obvious that if umpires called "time" because of injury on the field and stopped the advancement of runners, that players would be constantly feigning injury to bring about such a situation. The ball must remain in play until in the opinion of the umpire no further advancement of runners is possible. Then and then only he calls time.

By some private signal umpires should agree upon calling a game on account of rain or darkness when such conditions arise. Two heads are better than one.

Be sure and have your watches agree when time is called as well as before starting a game.

In threatening weather have the ground help have the paraphernalia ready before starting the game so that the diamond can be fully protected at once if rain does come.

Umpire can resume play in a drizzle after play has been suspended if field is, in his judgment, fit for play.

If it is clearing at the end of 30 minutes and it looks as though it might clear off in a short while, wait another 30 minutes, but if you are positive at the end of the first 30 minutes that further play is impossible you can then suspend play for the day.

In case of a double-header wait an hour at least and be sure that further play is impossible before calling game off.

First game must be completed before the second game can be started.

When a double-header is advertised do not call off the second game no matter how long the first game has gone if there is a possible chance to start the second. Start it and go as far as you can and everybody is satisfied.

The umpire is the sole judge whether or not the second game should be started.

FIELD RULES.RULE

SECTION 1. No person shall be allowed upon any part of the field during the progress of a game except players and coaches in uniform, the manager of each club, the umpires, such officers of the law as may be present in uniform, and such watchmen of the home club as may be necessary to preserve the peace.

This is not strictly observed in amateur games, but it is best to have field as clear as possible.

Must Furnish Police Protection.

SEC. 2. Every club shall furnish sufficient police force to preserve order upon its own grounds, and in the event of a crowd entering the field during the progress of a game, and interfering with the play in any manner, the visiting club may refuse to play until the field be cleared. If the field be not cleared within 15 minutes thereafter, the visiting club may claim and shall be entitled to the game by a score of 9 runs to 0 (no matter what number of innings has been played).

General Definitions.

RULE 69 SECTION 1. "Play" is the order of the umpire to begin the game or to resume it after its suspension.

SEC. 2. "Time" is the order of the umpire to suspend play. Such suspension must not extend beyond the day.

SEC. 3. "Game" is the announcement of the umpire that the game is terminated.

SEC. 4. An "Inning" is the term at bat of the nine players representing a club in a game and is completed when three of such players have been legally put out.

SEC. 5. A "Time at Bat" is the term at bat of a batsman. It begins when he takes his position, and continues until he is put out or becomes a base-runner. But a time at bat shall not be charged against a batsman who is awarded first base by the umpire for being hit by a pitched ball, or on called balls, or when he makes a sacrifice hit, or for interference by the catcher.

SEC. 6. "Legal" or "Legally" signifies as required by these rules

A time at bat "not being charged" refers to the score. For instance, if Smith goes to the plate five times and makes three hits, and is given one base on balls, and is hit once by a pitched ball, he is charged officially in the score with three times at bat and credited with three hits, while in the score summary it is stated that he received a base on balls and was hit once by the pitcher. As batting averages are determined by dividing the total number of base hits by the total times at bat, to give a "time at bat" to a batter when he goes to first base on called balls, or for any other reasons stated in the rule, would act as penalty on the batsman, by reducing his batting average, for something for which he was not responsible.

THE RULES OF SCORING.

RULE 70

To promote uniformity in recording championship games the following instructions are outlined for the guidance of scorers, who are required to conform to their provisions.

The Batsman's Record.

SECTION 1. The first item in the tabulated score, after the player's name and position, shall be the number of times he has been at bat during the game, but the exceptions made in Rule 69, Section 5, must not be included.

SEC. 2. In the second column shall be set down the runs, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 3. In the third column shall be placed the base hits, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 4. If, in the last half of the final inning, with the winning run on base, the batsman drives home that run, credit shall be given him for as many bases as he touches; that number, however, not to exceed the number of bases advanced by the runner; except when the batsman drives a fair ball out of the playing field, he shall receive credit for a home run, provided he legally touches each base in proper order.

Be sure that the batter gets a home run when the ball goes out of the playing field in the last half of final inning.

The Scoring of Base Hits.

SEC. 5. A base hit shall be scored in the following cases:

When a fair hit is made, as defined in Rule 37, and the batsman reaches first base safely.

When a fair hit is partially or wholly stopped by a fielder in motion, but such player cannot recover himself in time to field the ball to first before the batsman reaches that base, or to some other base in time to force out another runner.

When the ball is hit with such force to an infielder or pitcher that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base-runner; except when the ball is recovered by another fielder in time to retire the batsman or force out a base-runner. In case of doubt over this kind of hit, a base hit should be scored and the fielder be exempted from the charge of an error.

When the ball is hit so slowly toward a fielder that he cannot handle it in time to put out the batsman or force out a base-runner.

In all cases where a base-runner is retired by being hit by a batted ball, unless batted by himself, the batsman should be credited with a base hit, except if the runner is hit by an infield fly, the play shall be scored as provided in Section 8 of Rule 44.

When a batted ball hits the person or clothing of the umpire, as defined in Rule 46, Section 6.

In no case shall a base hit be scored when a base-runner is forced out by the play.

When a fielder, after handling a batted ball, elects to try to retire a base-runner instead of the batter, the play is known as a "fielder's choice." In case the runner is retired, or would be retired but for an error, the batter shall be charged with a time at bat, but no hit. If the runner is not retired, and no error is made, the batter shall be charged with a time at bat, but no hit, provided he swung at the ball, and shall be credited with a sacrifice hit, provided he bunted the ball; if, however, in the judgment of the scorer the batter could not have been retired at first base by perfect fielding, he shall be credited with a base hit.

In event of a batsman oversliding second or third bases and being tagged by the opposing fielder when said batsman is attempting to stretch a single into a two-base hit or a two-base hit into a three-base hit, the play should be scored the same as when a base-runner attempts to steal, overslides the base and is tagged out. In other words, the batsman oversliding second base and is tagged out shall be credited only with a single, while one who overslides third base and is tagged out shall be credited only with a two-base hit.

Sacrifice Hits.

SEC. 6. Sacrifice hits shall be placed in the Summary.

A sacrifice hit shall be credited to the batsman who, when no one is out or when but one man is out, advances a runner a base by a bunt hit, which results in the batsman being put out before reaching first, or would so result if it were handled without error.

EXPLANATION—Eliminates sacrifice hit on a fly ball.

Fielding Records

SEC. 7. The number of opponents, if any, put out by each player shall be set down in the fourth column. When the batsman is called out by the umpire for an illegally batted ball, or for a foul third strike bunt, or for being hit by own batted ball, or for interference with the catcher, or for failing to bat in proper turn, the put-out shall be credited to the catcher. When a base-runner is declared out on an infield fly, the put-out shall be credited to the player who would have made the play except for the action of the runner or the announcement of the umpire. When a base-runner is declared out because of being hit by a batted ball, the put-out shall be credited to the fielder nearest to the ball at the time of the occurrence.

SEC. 8. The number of times, if any, each player assists in putting out an opponent shall be set down in the fifth column. One assist and no more shall be given to each player who handles the ball in aiding in a run-down or any other play of the kind, even though he complete the play by making the put-out.

Credit an assist to each player who handles and throws the ball in such a way that a put-out would have resulted except for the error of a team-mate.

Credit an assist to a player who, by deflecting a batted ball with his glove or any part of his body, aids in retiring the batsman or another base-runner.

Do not credit an assist to a fielder who makes a bad throw, even when a runner trying to advance on it is subsequently retired. A play that follows an error is a new play and the player making an error is not entitled to an assist unless he takes part in the new play.

Do not credit an assist to the pitcher when, in legally delivering the ball to the batsman, he helps to retire a runner attempting to steal home.

Assists should be credited to every player who handles the ball in the play which results in a base-runner being called "out" for interference or for running out of line.

A double play shall mean any two continuous put-outs that take place between the time the ball leaves the pitcher's hands until it is returned to him again standing in the pitcher's box.

Errors.

SEC. 9. An error shall be given in the sixth column for each mis-play which prolongs the time at bat of the batsman or prolongs the life of the base-runner or allows a base-runner to make one or more bases when perfect play would have insured his being put out. But a base on balls, a base awarded to a batsman by being struck by a pitched ball, a balk, a passed ball or a wild pitch (unless the batsman reach first base on such pitch), shall not be included in the sixth column.

An error shall not be charged against the catcher for a wild throw in an attempt to prevent a stolen base, unless the base-runner advance an extra base because of the error.

An error shall not be scored against the catcher or an infielder who attempts to complete a double play, unless the throw be so wild that an additional base be gained. This, however, does not exempt from an error a player who drops a thrown ball when by holding it he would have completed a double play.

In case a base-runner advance a base through the failure of a baseman to stop or try to stop a ball accurately thrown to his base the latter shall be charged with an error and not the player who made such throw, provided there was occasion for it. If such throw be made to second base the scorer shall determine whether the second baseman or shortstop shall be charged with an error.

• In event of a fielder dropping a fly but recovering the ball in time to force a runner at another base, he shall be exempted from an error, the play being scored as a "force-out."

An error, but not a passed ball, shall be charged to the catcher if he drops or misses a third strike, allowing the batsman to reach first base. Credit the pitcher with a strike-out.

An error shall be charged to the first baseman (or the pitcher or second baseman when covering first base) if, on receiving a throw in ample time to retire the batsman he does not touch first base as required by rule. The same rule shall be followed with respect to any fielder covering any other base on a force play.

Stolen Bases.

SEC. 10. A stolen base shall be credited to the base-runner whenever he advances a base unaided by a base hit, a put-out, a fielding or a battery error, subject to the following exceptions:

In event of a double or triple steal being attempted, where any runner is thrown out, no other runner shall be credited with a stolen base.

In event of a base-runner being touched out after sliding over a base, he shall not be regarded as having stolen the base in question.

In the event of a palpable muff of a ball thrown by the catcher, when, in the judgment of the scorer, the base-runner would have been out if the ball had been held, the infielder making the muff shall be charged with an error and the base-runner shall not be credited with a stolen base.

No stolen base shall be credited to a runner whose advancing results from the opposing team's indifference thereto.

In other words, when runners are deliberately permitted to circle around the bases because the team at bat cannot conceivably win, there are no stolen bases. If a runner steals a base and the catcher evidently refuses to throw fearing that the runner may score from third, a stolen base should be credited, in fairness to the runner who makes the catcher "show his hand."

Definition of Wild Pitch and Passed Ball.

SEC. 11. A wild pitch is a legally delivered ball, so high, low or wide of the plate that the catcher cannot or does not stop and control it with ordinary effort, and as a result the batsman reaches first base or a base-runner advances.

Any pitched ball that strikes the ground before reaching the home plate and passes the catcher, allowing runners to advance, shall be scored as a wild pitch.

When a batsman is hit by what would have been the fourth called ball, it shall be scored as a "hit by pitcher."

The catcher shall be charged with a passed ball when a base-runner is enabled to advance by the catcher's failure to hold or to control a legally delivered ball that should have been held or controlled with ordinary effort.

Definition of Run Earned Off Pitcher.

SEC. 12. A run earned off the pitcher shall be scored every time a player reaches home base by the aid of safe hits, sacrifice hits, stolen bases, put-outs, bases on balls, hit batsman, wild pitches or balks, even though the wild pitch be a third strike, before fielding chances have been offered to retire the team. The preceding pitcher, and not a relieving pitcher, shall be charged with runs scored by any runners on base when such relief pitcher entered the game. The relieving pitcher shall not be charged with his first batsman reaching first base if such batsman had any advantage because of poor pitching by the preceding pitcher. With the count two or three balls and one or no strikes, or three balls and two strikes, charge preceding pitcher if batsman reaches first base, but credit relieving pitcher if batsman is retired. With count one or two balls and two strikes, charge relieving pitcher if batsman reaches first base and credit him if batsman is retired.

The pitcher shall be given the benefit of doubt whenever fielding errors are made and in determining the base to which a runner should have been held with perfect support on part of fielders. A fielding error made by the pitcher shall be considered the same as any other fielding error. No run can be earned that scores as result of batsman having reached first base on a catcher's interference, a fielding error or passed ball; nor can any run be earned after the fielding team has failed to accept chances offered to retire the team at bat.

To determine the pitcher's percentage for the season, the total number of runs earned off his pitching shall be divided by the total number of innings he has pitched; then multiplied by nine, to find his average effectiveness for a complete game.

Definition of Runs Batted In.

SEC. 13. Runs Batted In are runs scored on safe hits (including home runs), sacrifice hits, outfield put-outs, infield put-outs, and when the run is forced over by reason of batsman becoming a base-runner. With less than two out, if an error is made on a play on which a runner from third would ordinarily score, credit the batsman with a Run Batted In.

The batsman shall not be credited with driving in a run when a runner scores as he hits into a force infield double play or a double play in which the first baseman picks up a fair hit ground ball, touches first base and then throws to second retiring the runner who had been on first, said runner not being forced, has to be tagged out.

The Summary.

RULE The Summary shall contain:

71 SECTION 1. The score made in each inning of the game and the total runs of each team in the game.

SEC. 2. The number of stolen bases, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 3. The number of sacrifice hits, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 4. The number of two-base hits, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 5. The number of three base hits, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 6. The number of home runs, if any, made by each player.

SEC. 7. The number of double and triple plays, if any, made by each team and the players participating in same.

SEC. 8. The number of runs batted in by each batsman.

SEC. 9. The number of innings each pitcher pitched in.

SEC. 10. The number of base hits, if any, made off each pitcher, and the number of legal "at bats" scored against each pitcher. (The Summary to be in form as follows: "Hits off.....6 in 4 innings; one man out in 5th.")

SEC. 11. The number of times, if any, the pitcher strikes out the opposing batsmen.

SEC. 12. The number of times, if any, the pitcher gives bases on balls.

SEC. 13. The number of wild pitches, if any, charged against the pitcher.

SEC. 14. The number of times, if any, the pitcher hits a batsman with a pitched ball, the name or names of the batsman or batsmen so hit to be given.

SEC. 15. The number of passed balls, if any, by each catcher.

SEC. 16. The time of the game.

SEC. 17. The name of the umpire or umpires.

How to Determine Percentages.

1. To determine the percentage of Games Won and Lost, divide the total number of games won and lost into the number won.

2. To determine Batting Averages, divide the total "Times at Bat" into the total number of base hits, but never into the total bases on hits.

3. To determine Fielding Averages, divide the total of put-outs, assists and errors into the total of put-outs and assists.

In all cases where the remaining fraction is one-half or over, a full point is added to the average.

PLANNING NIGHT BASEBALL? BE SURE TO GET ENGINEERED LIGHTING

BASEBALL PLAYERS and fans today insist on shadow-free, high-intensity lighting for fast, errorless play. General Electric answers with engineered lighting.

Engineered lighting provides high-speed vision without glaring brightness or confusing shadows. This means your lighting system must be designed for the specific job. G-E engineers combine their long-range application experience in professional-league lighting to give you the latest technique of light for seeing—and economy.

The latest contribution to engineered lighting is the Type L-69 floodlight, now available with narrow-, medium-, and wide-beam reflectors. It offers long-needed glare suppression; exact control of the projected light; improved efficiency; quick, easy installation and maintenance.

Engineered lighting—whether for your present system or a new one—is available through our nearest G-E office. Or, write to General Electric, Schenectady, N. Y.

THE ADIRONDACK LINE

Champions are as champions do! And the new Adirondacks do it with "Flexible Whip Action!" These championship bats flex at impact — as much as three inches — and spring back to original shape as only champions can. Result: longer, sweeter feeling drives — fewer broken bats.

A mightier wallop at impact comes from the exclusive use of straight grain second growth, northern white ash — grown on the McLaughlin-Millard timber tract in the Northern Adirondacks — the most favorable region in the world for growing straight-grained wood for outstanding bats.

From timber tract to finished bat, Adirondacks give you more action with "Flexible Whip Action."

• Since both leagues were organized, only Spalding-made baseballs have been used in Major League, All-Star and World Series games. That's a record of 70 straight years in the National and 46 straight years in the American — a record unmatched in the entire history of Sports!

The executive bodies of BOTH Leagues have this year again adopted these "Twins of the Majors" as OFFICIAL for the next ten years.
